Economic Situation

Stupendous cost of President Roosevelt's socialization of American economic structure is expected to quadruple the taxes of the three million income taxpayers and thereby operate to effect the redistribution of wealth sought by the chief executive.

American Bankers' association report discloses to what great extent the banking industry has come under the thumb of government control.

United States Chamber of Commerce issues warning in letter to Senator Carter Glass (Dem., Va.) that, unless congress insists on balanced budget and curbs President Roosevelt's broad authority to spend billions, the New Deal may yet face disastrous inflation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—The revolutionary economic and social aspects of the President's latest vision of the New Deal and its arresting political significance have only just begun to dawn upon official Washington.

Realization of the objectives outlined in Mr. Roosevelt's message to congress on Friday, it is now perceived, will tend to produce these results:

1. In accord with the Roosevelt principle that the government owes every citizen a living, work will be provided for as many as possible in government regimented and supervised industries and on vast systems of public works construction, land reclamation, and water resource development, while the unemployed will be supported on employment insurance doles or otherwise cared for from federal relief funds.

Will Quadruple Taxes.

2. The stupendous cost of this socialization of the American economic structure will double, and eventually triple and quadruple, the taxes of the 3 million income tax payers and thereby operate to effect that redistribution of wealth aimed at by the Roosevelt program.

3. With perhaps half of the population or more living wholly or partly on the public purse and with these beneficiaries of the New Deal voting where their interest lies, the Democratic party will be perpetuated in power.

This last aspect of the matter is being much discussed by politicians at the moment. It is viewed with alarm by the Republicans and with ill concealed satisfaction by the Democrats. Already the fact that there are more than 23 million people, one out of every five of the population, dependent partly or wholly for a living on the central government, under the Democratic régime, constitutes a factor of prime importance in determining the outcome of the congressional elections next November.

Up to Fall Elections.

The complexion of the next congress to be elected in November will determine to what extent the New Deal is to be retained, modified, or scrapped. With more than 23 million persons dependent on the government and thereby favorably disposed toward the party in power, few Republican leaders, despite optimistic public utterances, entertain any real hope of breaking the Democratic party's hold on the government.

And practical Democratic politicians confide with a cynical smile that there may be something in this view of the matter. Not that a fifth of the population is being subtly bribed to vote Democratic [how dare you suggest such a thing? the Democrats challenge], it is only human that people will record at the polls their gratitude for salvation from misery.

Here's Pay Roll Army.

LEADERS AGREE HOUSE CLEANING MUST COME NOW

Find Selves Sitting on a Volcano.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Hollywood, Cal., June 10.—[Special.]—In this tabernacle of the sun, where 70 per cent of the motion pictures are produced and the standards of taste, dress and possibly the morals of the world are correspondingly affected, the tidal wave of criticism rolling up from the churches, women's clubs and reform organizations of the United States in the last few weeks has produced various reactions.

In matters of "good taste," which may be taken to cover a multitude of sins, such as vulgarity, offensive scenes, smutty dialog and double meaning cracks, there is general agreement that a house cleaning must be undertaken at once and that the two or three studios which have most consistently offended in this regard must be brought into line. In fact, this effort began early this year when rumors of impending boycotts and a new drive against indecent films led by the Catholic church reached the ears of the Hollywood magnates, who are carefully insulated from most of the realities of American life.

A New Self-Censorship.

This effort has taken the form of a new self-censorship over pictures undertaken through the California office of the Will H. Hays organization of producers, with Joseph Breen, No. 1 man of this organization on the coast, and three assistants laboring through miles of films and tons of script to cut out words and scenes which seem objectionable to their minds and which conflict with the producers' code of morals, an admirable document which many of them seem to have signed and then forgotten.

Millions of dollars are tied up in books and plays which have been bought and their presentation barred by efforts of the Hays censors. The new Mae West picture, "It Ain't No Sin," has been watched so closely in the studio by the producer's own private censor that Miss West says it ought to get the indorsement of the Epworth league. A song written for her by two of the bright young writers of the studio has been tossed into the waste basket as unfit for popular consumption.

Accuse Their Critics.

"What's wrong with that?" the puzzled writers and directors demand when deletions which cost money are ordered. When told what is wrong they accuse their critics of being narrow minded, even dirty minded.

"Well, cut it out, then."

Having set up a censorship and signed a beautiful code, many of the producers and directors are engaged in seeing how much they can get by with, how far over the line they can go. It is a struggle between the Hays group guidance and their own short-sighted box office greed.

Will Hays is no czar of the movies. He and his men have no final power. A committee of producers may overrule their bans and decisions. Warner Brothers made "Madame Du Barry," including a scene with nude women dancing, after a warning that it would be rejected. A whole sequence of 400 feet was finally cut out and the picture is still to be passed.

Overrule Hays Board.

"Queen Christina" was rejected by the Hays board, which was promptly overruled by the producers' committee, mainly on the plea that $1,200,000 was involved. "Tarzan and His Mate," when first made, had a scene with a naked woman in a pool. This was ordered out and the producers' committee upheld the order. The change cost several thousand dollars. "Dr. Monica" was passed after a battle of months. It was held a condonation of adultery, and the first script was unacceptable. New cuts were made, a happy ending was turned into a tragedy and the picture was passed.

This brings up the question of the art of the motion pictures and here is found what appears to be an irreconcilable conflict between all of the producers and their outside critics. There is an honest difference of opinion here reflected in the views of producers and directors who have never dealt in smut, men who would rather look at the stars than the mud in the gutter. There are many such in Hol-

THE STACKED DECK

Find Cigarets Cool Skin 10 to 12 Degrees

Cleveland, O., June 10.—(AP)—Smoking one cigaret will cool the temperature of the skin on your finger tips by 10 to 12 degrees.

This and similar cooling phenomena of smoking are explained in one of the scientific exhibits set up tonight in preparation for the eighty-fifth annual meeting of the American Medical association, which begins a five day session here tomorrow. Five thousand physicians are expected to attend.

The cigaret exhibit shows the effects of tobacco smoking on the outer layers of the blood circulation, particularly those close to the skin. The tests were made by Irving S. Wright, A. Wilbur Duree, Joseph Kovacs, Dean Moffat, and Joseph Wiener of the New York Postgraduate Medical school and hospital of Columbia university.

Fake Cigarets Don't Work.

It made no difference whether the cigarets contained denicotinized tobacco. The effect was the same. But fake cigarets made of ground filter paper failed to produce the cooling.

A young man smoking a "standard brand" cigaret started with a finger tip skin temperature of 92. This temperature dropped 10 degrees in 15 minutes while he was smoking one cigaret. After he stopped the skin dropped a further two degrees in three minutes. Seven minutes later it had risen again to 92.

A denicotinized cigaret produced a similar drop and rise, although slightly slower. A mentholated cigaret caused a slower fall in finger tip temperature, but the cooling effect was still strong, at 80 degrees, for a full hour and 40 minutes.

Depends on Individual.

The duration of cooling appeared to depend more on the individual than on the smoke. Fifty tests were made of the cooling of the skin at the base of finger nails while smoking standard brands. These showed average results much like the finger tip temperatures. Denicotinized and also mentholated cigarets gave similar averages to finger nail base temperatures. Here again the mentholated smokes were a little slower.

The physicians stated that, during smoking, the flow of blood in the capillaries is frequently slowed down or even stopped. This accounts for the skin cooling.

A process of forcing drugs directly through the skin by electricity was exhibited by the same Columbia scientists. Superficially the treatment resembles electroplating. The electricity breaks the drugs into ionized particles, which pass through the skin more readily.

Reinforced asbestos paper is saturated with the medicine desired. The paper is wrapped about the body at the point where the physician wants the drug to penetrate. A flexible metal plate is laid on this wrapping and connected to the positive pole of a galvanic generator. The negative pole of the generator is connected to some other part of the patient's body.

Choline compounds and histamine were used for the electrical soaking experiments shown tonight. The cholines were applied to cases of arthritis, torpid livers, and low blood pressure. The histamine was tried on peripheral vascular diseases.

JUSTICE ROBERTS IS GIVEN ROSE AS HEIR OF CHURCH'S PATRON

Lancaster, Pa., June 10.—(AP)—A red rose was paid to the heirs of "Baron" Henry William Stiegal today as "rent" for the ground he gave to the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church of Manheim 162 years ago.

The first two years the "baron"—he was not of the nobility, but he was known by that title—received the rose himself, but the third year he could not receive his lawful rent, for he was in a debtors' prison.

Annually for the last 40 years the ceremony of satisfying the deed has been carried out as a "feast of roses."

Today, in the church perfumed by countless blooms, the largest and most fragrant red rose that could be found in the county was presented to Owen J. Roberts, associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States.

FIND PRISONER IS A CARRIER OF DIPHTHERIA

James Lombardi, a prisoner at the detective bureau, was removed to the county hospital yesterday after the health department reported to Chief Shoemaker that he is a diphtheria carrier. He will be detained at the hospital until he is rid of the germs or they are found to be nonvirulent.

There were 222 persons at the police showup in which Lombardi appeared, but the danger of infection was said to be confined to those who were in the same cell with him. This danger was declared by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, to be slight, as 98 per cent of the carriers have nonvirulent germs.

Lombardi, who gave his address as 626 South May street, was arrested last week as a suspect in the attempted robbery of the South Holland bank, in which three of the bandit gang were killed. He was not identified as one of the robbers.

Boy Sets Ten Fires to "See Engines Run"

While fire raged in the stockyards on the afternoon of May 19, Walter Gliva, 15 years old, pouted and fumed in his home at 6914 South Paulina street because his mother would not let him out to see the holocaust with his neighborhood cronies. The mother, Mrs. Marie Gliva, hid the boy's shoes as an extra precaution.

Young Walter told the police about his disappointment last night when he confessed that he had set ten fires because he liked to watch the engines speeding down the street with sirens screaming and bells clanging. He said that, having missed the stockyards fire, he decided to set some that he could see.

The young pyromaniac was captured by Sergt. James McGurk and his squad after he had lighted his last two blazes.

Ask Police Aid.

The fires had been occurring at the rate of two a night and their regularity led Chief Anthony Seaman of the 26th battalion to the belief that a firebug was at work. He called on the police for aid. The police were told that a boy, wearing a cap, dark trousers, and a zipper jacket, had appeared at all the fires.

Early yesterday morning a fire was reported at the home of Mrs. Louis Wantke, 77 years old and bedridden, 7024 South Lincoln street. Sergt. McGurk's squad arrived shortly after the firemen, but, failing to see the boy, they began to search the nearby streets.

The squad discovered a fire in a garage at 7012 South Paulina street a few minutes later. Sergt. McGurk and Policemen Michael Sullivan and Stanley Mazva jumped out of the car with their flashlights and started to scan the crowd. A light flashed into the face of a boy and he started to run. Sullivan captured him in an alley.

Slips Out at Night.

Walter is a second grade pupil at St. Joseph's school, 17th-pl. and Halsted street, and his father, Frank Gliva, is a stockyards laborer.

"At night after my parents were asleep," Walter told the police, "I would get out of bed and dress. Then I would sneak out of the house and look for a place that would burn. When I found it I would break the window and toss a lighted match into a pile of rags and go across the street. Then the fire engines would come whooping down the street. Soon after they got started I would leave and start another fire."

The boy was taken to the juvenile detention home last night for examination by psychiatrists.

Union Officials at Gary Back Steel Strike

Belief that the impending national strike of steel workers, tentatively set for next Saturday, may be averted by concessions from the steel manufacturers to union demands was expressed yesterday by Roy A. Kelsey, secretary and active representative of the 4th district of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. This district claims to represent 60,000 union steel men in the Chicago-Gary industrial area, and is considered a conservative, but powerful element in the association.

Mr. Kelsey said, however, that there would be no compromise on the union's demands for recognition. This stand was indorsed yesterday by a meeting of delegates of the 4th district.

"My opinion that a strike might be averted, which is not based upon any official foundation, is that the Iron and Steel institute, which represents the steel manufacturers, will offer something to the association to prevent a strike," said Mr. Kelsey. "They probably fear that once this thing has started it will spread very rapidly."

Demand for Recognition.

The present crisis in the steel industry rises from the demands of the amalgamated association that the various steel companies recognize their union. This practically all of the companies, particularly the major ones, have refused to do, holding that the existing company unions serve better the purposes of the employés than would an outside union.

In hurried efforts to stave off a strike Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, met in Washington with leaders of the union and the Steel institute. Negotiations, however, reached a sensational impasse on Saturday when the union heads stalked angrily out of the capital after informally rejecting plans advanced by Gen. Johnson, and accepted by the institute, for the establishing of a mediation board similar to that governing the automotive industry.

Address Letter to Roosevelt.

The union men addressed an open letter to President Roosevelt complaining that Gen. Johnson's plan was nothing more than an offer to "tighten the company union chains that bind workers in the steel industry." This brought a sharp retort from Gen. Johnson, who accused the "rank and file committee," or so-called radical representation of the union, of expecting the illegally impossible from the government.

As a result of the Washington fizzle, Michael Tighe, president of the amalgamated association, summoned a special national convention of the union to be held in Pittsburgh on Thursday.

In preparation for this convention delegates of fourteen lodges of the 4th district met yesterday in East Chicago. They listened to a report from Secretary Kelsey on the Washington conference, and then, formally, reaffirmed their approval of the plans for a national strike on Saturday if the union shop demands are not met.

Plan a Formal Vote.

The lodges individually will cast reaffirming votes today, tomorrow, and Wednesday, and designate delegates for the Pittsburgh meeting. It was in connection with the Washington conferences and the approaching convention that Mr. Kelsey expressed the opinion yesterday there might be no strike.

Mr. Kelsey said further, however,

BULLETIN.

New York, June 11 (Monday).—(AP)—Capt. D. E. Fox of the state police at Sidney, N. Y., notified Albany headquarters early today that the lost American air liner had been traced over Ellenville, Ulster county, and Woodbourne, Neversink, and Debruce, Sullivan county, but from that point on his men had been unable to find any one who heard of or saw it. Capt. Fox requested the state conservation department plane stationed at Ten Mile river, Sullivan county, be sent to search a densely wooded area near Debruce.

New York, June 10.—[Special.]—An army of woodsmen, police, and other searchers pushed their hunt on the ground tonight for an American Air lines plane missing 30 hours on its flight from Newark, N. J., to Chicago. Ten airplanes scoured the country today, but failed to find a trace of the craft, which bore four passengers and a crew of three Chicagoans.

Officials of the company expressed hope for the safety of the seven aboard, but admitted their fear that all were dead or badly injured.

A report that a light resembling a flare had appeared on a mountain near Cairo, N. Y., concentrated the brush beating parties in that area, but it was concluded that the "flare" was probably a lantern or torch carried by another group of searchers.

Radios 'Everything O. K.'

In the same neighborhood, Sergeant Walter Wheeler of the state police descried on Black Dome mountain near Round Top what he surmised might be a sheet hung as a signal. He planned to check his observation by plane at dawn.

The big machine, a sixteen passenger Curtiss Condor, left Newark-Metropolitan airport for Chicago at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Thirty minutes later Pilot Clyde Holbrook reported by radio "Everything O. K." There was no further word from the plane. Its failure, however, to arrive on schedule at Syracuse alarmed the manager at the airport there and he sent out a teletype alarm through the state police system.

Through the night state police sought at first to localize the search by telephone inquiries and it was not until 4 o'clock this morning that they found what they hoped might be clews.

Clouds Low on Round Top.

Farmers dwelling in the rugged region about Round Top, ten miles from Catskill, said that a large red and blue twin engined biplane, answering the description of the missing air liner, had appeared from the south, just under the heavy clouds, flying slowly as with engines either sputtering or cut to low speed.

The clouds throughout the whole Catskill region were below the mountain tops during the day and throughout the early part of the evening. Round Top itself is 3,470 feet high and there are higher mountains on all sides.

A party of troopers set out at once from the Catskill barracks. They were joined by Sheriff Clay Ferris and a hastily recruited squad of deputies. Farmers volunteered their help and within an hour a hundred men were driving their cars up the winding hill roads and beating through the woods above the pasture line.

Guard Craft Go Up.

Earl Ward, general superintendent for the Air Transport company, led a fleet of six planes from Newark airport at about the same hour. Dean Smith, a pilot with Admiral Byrd on his first antarctic expedition, flew the first plane in which Ward acted as co-pilot. They began a systematic patrol over Ulster and Greene counties.

Col. George Vaughan, commanding the aviation units of the New York National Guard, sent three planes to join the search from Miller field, and E. A. Cutrell, department of commerce inspector at Newark, joined the search with two observers.

The searchers kept in touch with the ground and the state by police radio and as fast as reports came in of a machine having been seen or heard in the area late Saturday, a searching plane was sent to investigate.

After the report from Round Top came another that a machine was seen about 6 o'clock flying east or cir-ching between Windham and Cairo, which lies to the north.

Later in the afternoon an observer at Oakhill, which is 25 miles northwest of Catskill and 10 from Cairo, reported that in the early evening he heard the motors of a big plane flying north and on a course slightly to the east of the regular route from the Hudson to Syracuse.

A group of woodsmen with state police started a thorough hunt through the wooded pastures and hills around Durham and Oakhill after dark and planned to keep up the hunt through the night.

The searching planes were forced to the ground in the afternoon. A sharp electrical storm obliged the air fleet to return to Newark where it utilized an hour of waiting in planning a fresh and even more intense search.

Plan Search All Night.

The ground search, however, proceeded despite the storm. The entire available force of game and fire wardens was turned over to the special duty by Gov. Lehman. State police ran down rumors and sent out parties in both Westchester and Orange counties. Tonight farmers lighted their lanterns and started out all over the whole region to hunt until daylight.

With the arrival of darkness accompanied by more storms the airplanes returned to Newark.

The passengers aboard were Harry Pinsley, New York; Harold C. Coppins and William A. Cass, Buffalo; and E. William Baxter Bader.

SEE UNUSUAL CAUSE.

Aviation experts here did not hesitate to say that "something unusual" must have caused the disappearance and supposed crash of the American Airways plane. While they declared that only the finding of the plane and an examination would disclose the cause, they pointed out that the factors of the flight were all favorable. The plane, a Curtiss Condor 16 passenger, was of the latest, most efficient type, and with a ceiling of 3,000 feet and visibility range of 10 miles, the journey should have been made without a chance of tragedy, they said.

It was recalled that the crash of a United Air Lines transcontinental plane near Chesterton, Ind., last Oct. 10, in which seven lives were lost, was officially laid by government investigators to the explosion of a bomb. Who placed the infernal machine that destroyed the ship in midair, and why, is still a mystery.

Refuse to Advance Theory.

American Airways officials refused to comment on this possibility or any other, at least until the plane was found. They said all theories lacked a foundation while the air liner was still missing.

Meanwhile it was found that all of the missing ship's crew were from Chicago.

Clyde Holbrook, pilot of the plane, is shown in company records as 38 years old. His residence is at 27 North Brainerd avenue, La Grange, where he has a wife and baby daughter. A former member of the British Royal Flying corps during the war, he had 17 years of flying experience and 10,000 hours in the air.

Holbrook joined the air corps at Toronto, Can., and served in England, Scotland, and France. On Sept. 18, 1918, he was shot down by anti-aircraft gunners at Lille, France, and taken prisoner by the Germans. He was held until after the armistice.

Flyer for Seven Years.

John M. Barron Jr., the co-pilot, who was known as "Pat," is 33 years old and lives at the Troylane apartments, 6314 South Troy street. He has seven years of flying experience and joined American Airways in 1931.

Ada Eleanor Huckeby, 28 years old, stewardess on the plane, lives at 6115 South Justine street, company records show. In May, 1931, she was graduated from the nursing school at the Jackson Park hospital. She started with American Airways Sept. 20, last year. Her parents live in Henshaw, Ky.

Harry Pinsley of Great Neck, L. I., one of the passengers, is a son of Samuel Pinsky, 4221 West Congress street. At the Pinsky home it was said that the son, who has changed his name, graduated from the University of Illinois in 1931. He is employed as an orchestra booker for the Music Corporation of America.

HUNT MISSING CHICAGO AIR LINER

Map shows area in which Chicago bound air liner last was reported and its usual flying route from Newark. After leaving the New Jersey airport the big plane last was heard from as she passed over Hackensack and Newburgh. Witnesses later reported having seen an airplane passing over the towns of Round Top and Oakhill in the mountainous Catskill region, where yesterday other planes hunted the lost ship without success.

1,000 CONTINUE WORSHIP AS FIRE ATTACKS CHURCH

While firemen fought a fire behind the choir loft 1,000 worshipers continued at their devotions yesterday at high mass in St. John of Cantius Roman Catholic church, Chicago avenue and Carpenter street. The organ wiring was burned out but the choir of twenty men, perilously close to the flames, went on singing without accompaniment.

When smoke floated out into the church auditorium assistants of the pastor, the Rev. Walter Bartylak, passed among the worshipers reassuring them. None left the church as firemen under Chief John A. Groves of the Fifth battalion attacked the flames.

Father Theodore Wroblewski discovered the fire in the locker room near the choir loft as he was making preparations for the next mass. With the assistant organist, Albert Kashuga, 1242 West Huron street, he tried to put out the flames with a hand extinguisher.

Organist Is Overcome.

Kashuga went too far into the smoke filled room and was overcome. The priest dragged him out, then called the fire department and notified the Rev. Bartylak, who with Father Baron continued the services.

Responding to a still alarm, Chief Grove and his men arrived a few minutes later. Several priests were waiting for them and led the firemen up the spiral stairway. As they went up toward the fire they shut doors leading into the main part of the church in an attempt to keep smoke from the auditorium. A window was broken and a hose line pulled up 50 feet from the street below while another line was taken up the stairway.

Chief Sends for Help.

Chief Grove had a box alarm struck, and several more fire companies arrived under Chief James Doyle of the Second battalion. Chief Doyle silenced sirens and gongs as the trucks neared the church. Father William Gorman, chaplain of the fire department, also arrived on the scene.

After thirty minutes work the fire was extinguished. Damage was estimated at about $2,000.

Nudist Camp Promoter Seized by Detectives

Frank Glass, 32 years old, 619 West Madison street, who said he was trying to start a nudist colony on the west side of Chicago, was arrested yesterday by a squad from the detective bureau on a charge of disorderly conduct. Officers said they had found him at Oregon and Throop streets without sufficient clothing.

2 Police Brothers on Duty; Burglars Loot Their Home

Policemen James and Drew Sheehan, brothers attached to the Hyde Park police station, reported yesterday that their home at 6116 Champlain avenue was broken into by burglars on Saturday night. The loot included six watches, two $50 Liberty bonds, and $25. Both the policemen were on duty at the time.

FATHER DROWNS WHILE SWIMMERS SAVE 3 CHILDREN

James Jeronski, 40 years old, 1304 North Dunton avenue, Arlington Heights, timekeeper for the Chicago and North Western railroad, was drowned yesterday in sight of three of his seven children while rowing in Slocum lake, near Wauconda, in Lake county.

The three youngsters almost suffered the same fate. A girl, 4 years old, and two boys, one 16 and one 17, whose first names were not learned by the authorities, went out in the boat with their father after 5 o'clock, leaving Mrs. Jeronski and four other children on shore.

Joseph De Bartolo, 38 years old, 819 South Morgan street, a tailor, was drowned last night when he jumped into the lake at the foot of Ohio street for a swim, according to his companion, John Lacoppola, of the same address. Capt. John Anderson and a crew from the old Chicago coast guard recovered his body.

The drownings of George Dickman, 35 years old, 488 West 115th street, a weighmaster for the Chicago Board of Trade, and Miss Martha Bellin, 33 years old, 2053 Augusta boulevard, whose bodies were found on the beach of the Dunes State park in Indiana Saturday, were found to be accidental yesterday by a coroner's jury. Dr. J. C. Brown, deputy coroner for Porter county, expressed the belief that one of them had died trying to rescue the other. Dickman had a cottage in a part of the park 10 miles west of Michigan City.

COOL WEATHER IS AIDING CORN AND LATE CROPS

Southern Illinois Gets Soaking Rains.

While rain fell in only a few places through the central west yesterday, generally moderate temperatures also aided corn and other late crops. Today only minor changes in temperature are expected and scattered showers are forecast in Wisconsin, Missouri, Minnesota, North Dakota, and upper Michigan.

Chicago was kept cool yesterday by lake breezes which held the mercury in the high 70s, while further inland the temperatures were higher. The local forecast for today is generally fair and somewhat warmer with moderate winds. There is a possibility of showers late tonight or tomorrow.

Downstate Gets Rain.

A soaking rain fell throughout southern Illinois yesterday. At Carbondale it was reported that late crops are recovering from the drouth damage. At Quincy the precipitation was .20 of an inch and farmers said that heavy rains were needed immediately to salvage the crops.

Relieve Water Shortage.

The rains throughout the north central states within the last few days have filled river and creek beds, it was reported, and the weather now is excellent for corn.

Oats and rye are badly damaged in all areas, but the corn and late forage crops have received the full benefit of the rains. Stockmen now believe they can produce sufficient forage to feed their livestock, and will not be forced to throw the animals on the market at low prices.

GEORGE ROGALSKI IS DUE TO APPEAR IN COURT TODAY

George Rogalski, 14 years old, who confessed taking Dorette Zeitlow, 2 years old, to an abandoned stable, where he left her to die of exposure, is to face Judge Francis B. Allegretti in the Criminal court today. The boy has been indicted for murder and for kidnaping, but the plan of the state is to try him first on the kidnaping charge, which, where no ransom is involved, is punishable by a sentence of from one year to life.

Judge Allegretti said yesterday he believed there would be a few days' delay in starting the trial. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan informed him both sides wanted more time for preparation.

Attorney Thaddeus Toudor, who undertook the boy's defense after Rogalski's parents refused to aid him, said he did not desire the boy's freedom, but wanted him kept under the observation of alienists until his maturity.

The baby will be handed to the women proving motherhood by blood tests.

Wallace Sees Drouth as Aid to U. S., Tragedy to Farmer

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Back from an intensive western tour which took him through most of the drouth stricken area, Secretary Wallace today described the drouth as a "tragedy" for the farmers who are suffering from its ravages, but a possible future "blessing for the country as a whole."

"It is primarily a problem of relief, but it affects agricultural policies," he said.

Secretary Wallace has been in close touch with the drouth policies formulated by President Roosevelt, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief administrator, and his own aids during the time he was away.

He said tonight he believed that the problem could be met with the 525 million dollars President Roosevelt proposes to spend on drouth relief, but added a warning that if June rains were not heavy in the corn belt, more money may have to be spent.

Seeks Normal Granary.

The possibility of a future benefit to the country would come from the establishment of what the agriculture chief called "an ever normal granary."

This, he explained, would be reached by the establishment of a system whereby the farmers' produce in boom years would be stored on the farm of the producer or near it. The government would make loans to farmers on the basis of current prices under a system similar to that now employed.

However, the loan contracts, as pictured by Secretary Wallace, would carry a provision that when scarcity came and the price of agricultural products rose sharply, the farmer must sell to the government at fixed prices, making a profit, but being precluded from holding out for speculative profits.

"In this way," Secretary Wallace said, "the farmer would be protected in years of bounty and the consumer in years of scarcity. It would eliminate the speculator's growing rich and would also eliminate gouging the consumer."

Farm Best Storage Place.

He pointed out that the best place to store surplus products is on or near the farm, where storage costs are not high and where in many cases, as in that of corn, there would be no transportation cost to pay to bring the produce back for the use of live stock.

The secretary divided the drouth area into three sections—the western mountain area, the great plains area and the corn belt area. Of these, he said, the most tragedy lay in the great plains area where conditions were "just terrible."

Live stock dying of thirst and of starvation, cattle with dust pneumonia and live stock refusing to eat the dust covered grass, made the human problem there a tragic one, Secretary Wallace asserted.

However, this situation, although a "terrible" one for the people of the region, might react to the advantage of the country's agricultural situation as a whole, he added, because of future effect exercised by it on the administration's cattle buying program.

TUGWELL FACES SENATE GROUP'S QUESTIONS TODAY

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—The eyes of the nation will be focused tomorrow upon Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, leading spirit in the brain trust, when he is called before the senate committee to outline his qualifications for the job of undersecretary of agriculture.

The nomination of Tugwell, who is now assistant secretary, for the newly created job of undersecretary which will make him almost equal in importance to the secretary himself, was sent to the senate April 24 by President Roosevelt.

Referred to the committee on agriculture, the nomination would undoubtedly have died there without action being taken because of the opposition of Chairman Ellison D. Smith, Democratic senator from South Carolina, to Tugwell and his policies.

Robinson Starts Uproar.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson took steps last Thursday to bring the nomination before the senate, and an uproar arose Friday over his motion to discharge the committee on agriculture from consideration of the nomination. Passage of this motion would bring the nomination before the senate itself.

Senators Smith, Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, and Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma all attacked Tugwell, accusing him of a conspiracy to upset the fundamental principles of the American government. Senator Robinson then agreed to permit the committee on agriculture to question Tugwell tomorrow and to return a report upon the nomination by Tuesday noon.

Some members of the committee were said to favor an executive session of the committee at which the public and press would be barred. These senators were said to fear the publicity attendant upon too exhaustive inquiry into the motives and aims of the brain trust.

Insists on Open Hearing.

But Senator Smith, the chairman, is in favor of an open hearing. He gave permission for a national broadcasting system to set up its apparatus in the senate caucus room where the hearing will be held. However, the permission of a majority of the committee will be necessary for broadcasting and the presence of newspaper men, he pointed out.

There is said to be no doubt that Dr. Tugwell eventually will be confirmed as undersecretary. The opposition to him cannot muster many more than thirty votes out of a probable ninety in the senate, it was reported. The opposition on the Democratic side has been deemed surprising, however. Senator Smith said the nomination was an insult to practical farmers. Senator Byrd declared that Tugwell has openly confessed going outside the legal pale in enforcement of the Agricultural Administration act, and Senator Gore declared that if Tugwell's public utterances were interpreted correctly, the brain truster wished to destroy the constitution.

CHILDREN WELL FED IN COLORADO SCHOOL THANKS TO GIRL, 20

Aurora, Colo., June 10.—(AP)—Pretty Patsy Hall, who thinks school children should eat, regardless of their parents' circumstances, is the "coaster wagon angel" of Aurora grade school.

For months the comely graduate of Aurora High school has trudged daily to the little red schoolhouse with 50 hot lunches for children and has conducted two "benefits" to supply the funds after her own ran out.

Visiting the school last autumn, Miss Hall, who is 20, discovered many children had no lunches and others were eating from boxes that were all too nearly empty. When her own funds quickly ran out she hastily organized a benefit dance which met with success.

Existing charity organizations said they couldn't help, so Miss Hall tackled the job alone. Every day she prepared the lunches and hauled them to the school in a commandeered coaster wagon. When funds ran low again she staged another benefit.

WALLACE'S SEED FIRM LAUNCHES BIG EXPANSION

Goes Ahead Despite Farm Reduction Plan.

Durant, Ia., June 10.—[Special.]—Reduction is the plea Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is making to the Iowa farmers, but where his own interests are concerned the shoe fits a little too closely. The Hi-Bred Seed company of Grimes, Ia., in which the secretary and Mrs. Wallace are interested, is going in for expansion in a big way.

Hi-Bred seed corn will increase corn yield, under favorable conditions, about 19.8 per cent. And it happens that the secretary's corn-hog reduction program calls for a 20 per cent reduction in corn acreage. So the man who is fortunate enough to buy the hybrid seed at a pretty stiff price can beat the AAA and at the same time give all appearances of cooperating.

Leases More Land.

Although the company signed the reduction contract, it is leasing more land and equiping a large corn dryer at Durant, apparently in anticipation of big business in 1935. All the Hi-Bred seed corn raised for this year's market was rapidly disposed of. Company officials refused to divulge the number of bushels sold, but in another quarter it was said the figure was 25,000.

The company has leased 700 acres of corn land in the vicinity of Durant, but attempts to ascertain the lease price were unsuccessful. It also is remodeling a sales pavilion here and installing machinery for treating seed corn. Jess Williams, building superintendent for the company, estimated the cost of this improvement at $10,000. The drying and treating plant will be equipped to handle 100 bushels an hour.

Silent on Program.

Attempts to learn the company's expansion program were unsuccessful. Nelson Urban, the Hi-Bred's business manager, said that he "will not listen to any questions regarding the company nor answer them." He referred the questioner to Fred W. Lehmann Jr. of Des Moines, who is listed as company chairman.

Before he became a member of the Roosevelt cabinet Wallace was president of the concern. The office of president has not been filled, according to records of the secretary of state, but Lehmann appears to be the nominal head. Previous attempts to obtain information about the company from Lehmann were met by refusals.

"Only Minority Interest."

When his connection with the Hi-Bred company became public Mr. Wallace announced from Washington that in the concern's early days he "owned more stock than any other person," but at present has "only a small minority interest." Mrs. Wallace, he added, "became the largest single stockholder by late 1931."

Mr. Wallace did not deny that farmers could increase their yield almost 20 per cent by using the seed—the claim made in advertisments—but declared that the seed planted in Iowa in 1934 would run only from 1 to 1½ per cent of the total crop. He also declared that "there is no conflict between carrying on efforts for efficiency and at the same time controling production."

CUBA'S 'STRONG MAN' PLEDGES 6 MONTHS' PEACE

Col. Batista Sets Up New National Defense Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 10.—An end to terrorism and at least six months of peace for Cuba were promised today by Col. Fulgencio Batista of Cuba's army, president-maker and ring master of the island republic's political circus.

While the politicos, who strut before the back drop, attempted to stir up enthusiasm in a three day celebration of the end of the United States traditional power under the Platt amendment, a man with the bronze face of an Indian chief, dressed in an invalid's suit of pajamas told what he intended to do for this country of his that is at last "Cuba libre."

"National Defense" Law.

Within 48 hours a new law of "national defense" is to be announced, setting up special courts to deal with the radical bombers and gunmen who have made the days and nights at the Cuban capital hours of tense terror.

"And," said this brown Cuban Warwick, "I promise you that I shall keep my personal eye upon those courts."

Then he went on: "I will make one other pledge, and that is that for the next six months—at least until the constitutional convention scheduled to be called in December—there will be a state of peace in the republic."

His eyes, so liquid brown as to be almost black, became as hard as agate. The mouth that can smile with almost feminine winningness contracted with cruelly muscular determination.

"I intend," said the strong man of Cuba, "to stand and watch. I shall watch as a judge. Whatever party is in power must represent the will of the majority of the Cuban people. Justice shall be done to the common men of my country."

Col. Batista has his headquarters on the outskirts of Havana at Camp Columbia, where a monument still stands to remind Cubans and Americans that here was the camp of the American soldiers who helped to set Cuba free.

"Little Colonel" Is Boss.

Cuban politician, American government official, native business man, foreign banker will tell you that what Batista says today is Cuba's law tomorrow. He is Cuba's dictator. Only one man will disagree and that is the dictator himself.

There is one man bigger than the "Big Colonel," and that is the "Little Colonel"—the plump, dark haired Fulgencio junior, born only a few days after the battle of Atares in which this one time stenographer and sergeant achieved one of the notable victories of Cuba's military history. Swarthy sentinels drop their Springfield rifles. Aids rub knees of their white drill uniforms on the floor to coo and twitter baby talk as the "Little Colonel" passes through the tan stucco house which is the "Big Colonel's" home and headquarters.

It seems an excellent formula to follow.

Discipline Is Improved.

Batista has improved the discipline of Cuba's 14,000 soldiers, particularly of the 3,000 at Camp Columbia. But the military niceties aren't taught in a day, and aren't insisted on in a revolutionary army whose officers were noncoms and rank privates only a few months ago.

Commandante Franco Granero, aid to President Mendieta, has been cooling his heels longer than we have. And he is not a man to wait on every one.

The word comes at last.

We remember the formula.

"Col. Batista," we say, "we are here to see you because you are the most important man in Cuba."

The face with the high cheek bones betrays a bored impassivity, worthy of the Indian ancestry of which Col. Batista is proud.

"But also," we say, "we are here because we understand you are the father of the finest boy in Cuba."

"Sit down, sit down," says the colonel beaming.

He has been ill. Nobody except his doctor knows just how ill. He receives callers in a little room off his bedroom. Though clad in pajamas and slippers, he loses nothing of dignity through the informality of his dress. Epaulettes and swords are not needed to adorn a man whose eyes are those of a dreamer, whose face in repose is that of an idealist, whose hands are the restive hands of the creative artist, and whose mouth and chin, when he talks of the enemies of his people, jut out like a rocky cape.

Only 34 years old, the head of Cuba's army was born on an isolated farm in Oriente province. He attended a school run by Quaker missionaries. He became, according to his own smiling admission, Cuba's worst barber, but was too tender hearted to shed so much human blood, so turned to tailoring.

Then he worked in a grocery store in factories, in the cane fields. He studied shorthand and stenography, and finally enlisted in the army and was assigned to clerical posts. He was sergeant in the general staf when his opportunity came with the overthrow of President Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, Machado's American supported successor.

And now, he is promising that Cuba, freed of American domination under the Platt amendment, is headed—he hopes—for a new era. He mouths none of the politicians' demagogic platitudes. He knows that no Cuban government can exist without American recognition. He knows that Cuban prosperity cannot exist without American financial help.

But he hopes that Cuba will rise to this new challenge to its self-reliance. If it doesn't—the face of little Fulgencio's idealist rather becomes the face of the victory of Atares and the battle of the National hotel.

"I personally guarantee peace in Cuba for the next six months," he says. "When the general election comes there doubtless will be disturbances, but trouble at election time is not unique with Cuba. The abrogation of the Platt amendment is a challenge to Cuba to stand on her own feet.

"I have confidence that men of substance in the field of business, finance, and the professions will join in advancing the independence and the progress of Cuba. I will support any government in Cuba which represents a majority of the Cuban people. I look to seeing certain of the present factions unite in a party committed to what you Americans would call 'a middle of the road' program."

Then he told of the new national defense laws which will create the new courts independent of the judiciary. They will try the radicals now busy tossing bombs and shooting up respectable neighborhoods.

"A bomber is a criminal," Batista says, "but worse than he is the politician or judge who sets him free. The new laws will provide penalties severe enough to discourage such things."

IOWA QUADRUPLETS GAINING STRENGTH

All Hungry

Sac City, Ia., June 10.—(AP)—Iowa's quadruplets—three girls and a boy—were "doing well" today at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wycoff, here.

Dr. G. H. Swearingen, who delivered the babies last night for his first such experience in 20 years practice of medicine, reported today all were healthy and hungry.

The weights of the babes range from 4½ pounds for the boy down to 2½ pounds for the smallest of the girls.

The heaviest girl and the boy are being fed like the slightly older and more famous quintuplets of Corbeit, Ont., with medicine droppers. They are given a specially prepared food, the doctor said.

The babies run the family roster of Wycoff children up to nine, there being five older children.

Dr. Swearingen reported Mrs. Wycoff's condition was "satisfactory." She is 30 years old. Her husband is employed as a highway worker.

FRENCH RADICALS RIOT; 50 HURT IN 3-HOUR BATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 10.—Fifty men were injured when a mob of 1,200 communists and Socialists battled a large force of troops and police at Grenoble for three hours this morning. Another political riot broke out at Cambrai this afternoon while at Roubaix, which was the scene of violence a week ago, rioting followed an attack on Young Patriots by radical foes.

Military reinforcements were called to Grenoble by the prefect of the department when rioters threatened to overcome a force of 400 police and mobile guards and attacked a Nationalist meeting which they were bent on breaking up.

Bricks Follow Insults.

The speaker at the meeting was Philippe Henriot, militant young Nationalist, whose presence already has started riots in a half dozen other cities in recent weeks. Conforming to the habit that the left extremists are developing, leaders organized the demonstration to greet Henriot.

At first the crowd contented itself with hurling insults at the solid phalanx of police protecting the meeting hall, but soon missils started flying and several policemen were injured. Mounted police charged and again a volley of bricks and stones flew out of the crowd.

While the front rank of rioters was fighting the police others raided an incompleted building nearby for scaffolding with which they constructed barricades in the street. From behind the barriers, on which red flags were raised, attacks on the police grew in vigor until repeated charges by the mounted police and sallies by helmeted guards drove back the extremists. Later the extremists reformed their ranks and marched through the city behind a red flag.

Guards Hit by Stones.

Hospitals treated rioters who had suffered blows from police clubs and horses' hoofs and twelve guards who were struck by stones. Twenty rioters were jailed.

Despite the violence of the battle outside, Henriot's meeting was held on schedule. It was followed by a banquet which was protected by a strong police force.

Reds Attack Royalists.

PARIS, June 10.—(AP)—A hundred communists, armed with iron bars, today attacked 15 vendors of a Royalist newspaper in front of a Parisian church. Police interfered before either side suffered casualties.

Nationalists had accused the councilman of participating in the riot which broke up the lecture of Deputy Philippe Henriot at Roubaix June 5.

UNCOVER GOLD COINS MINTED BY SELJUKS IN IRAQ ABOUT A. D. 1150

Philadelphia, Pa., June 10.—(AP)—Gold coins which apparently were minted by the Seljuk rulers of Iraq about A. D. 1150 were among the first findings of an archeological expedition excavating at Rayy, site of ancient Rhages, in Persia, the University of Pennsylvania museum announced today.

The expedition, sponsored jointly by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Mrs. William Boyce Thompson foundation of the university museum, has also unearthed copper coins bearing dates from the eigth to the thirteenth centuries; a gypsum plaque with picturesque art, and scores of potsheards.

The coins are believed to have been buried in anticipation of the arrival of the Mongols who destroyed Rayy in 1220.

LONDON SALUTES TRANSJORDAN'S EMIR ABDULLAH

LONDON, June 10.—(AP)—Bustling London paused for a moment on its way out of town for the week-end to witness the picturesque arrival at Victoria station yesterday of Emir Abdullah of Transjordan, brother of the late King Feisal.

Clad in his robes of the desert, the emir was received with a salute of 21 guns, fired on the arrival of his steamer at Dover. At Victoria station he stepped from his train to a purple carpet that covered the platform. The station walls were decorated with tasselled purple curtains.

Greeted by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, colonial secretary, the distinguished visitor wore a headdress of white silk that fell to each side of his face. The emir gazed in obvious appreciation at a lively throng of girl hikers, dressed in their own special costumes, and at cricketers and holiday makers bound for the seaside.

Bomb Smashes Window of Saloon; Lovebird Unhurt

A bomb explosion that smashed the front door and plate glass window of a saloon at 2601 West 21st street early today failed to injure a little lovebird in a cage suspended in the bombed window. Police found the cage floor covered with broken bits of glass. The feathery occupant wasn't even ruffled by the blast. The explosion shook the saloon owner, Martin Cepielik; his wife, and their 14 months old son, Martin Jr., who were asleep in the rear. The bird is the baby's pet. Cepielik told police he did not know why he was bombed. Police said he has been outselling competitors.

MADRID, June 10.—(AP)—Turning a machine gun on a group of youthful picnickers returning home along a Madrid street, gunmen tonight killed a small boy and wounded three girls.

The group was quietly walking along Cardinal Cisneros street when an automobile parked at a corner suddenly backed up, nearly overrunning the youngsters. They set up a howl of protest. The driver of the car then shoved it into gear and sped away while occupants loosed a rain of bullets into the group of children.

A young boy, Lino Rico, died almost immediately. Two of his sisters were wounded, and a girl named Maria Jimenez, 16, is dying.

QUADRUPLED TAX SEEN IN 'SOCIAL INSURANCE' PLAN

Half Population to Be on Public Rolls.

More Farm Aid by Fall.

The number of farmers receiving AAA benefits will be greatly increased by election time. Also there will be 104,000 Democratic campaign workers placed on the federal pay roll by October to take the census of the unemployed at an expense of 7½ million dollars taken from relief funds as provided by the bill passed by the house last week.

To the extent that business revives and absorbs the unemployed, relief rolls will be decreased, but to the extent that the President develops his social program the number of people dependent on the government wholly or partly will be enormously increased.

His message outlined an indefinite number of projects for development of natural resources similar to the Tennessee valley experiment which calls for an outlay of several hundred million dollars. It suggested large scale transfers of population from localities in which it is hard to make a living to more promising environments along the lines of the subsistence homesteads already being established at an expense of 25 millions.

"In considering the cost of such a program," said the President, "it must be clear to all of us that for many years to come we shall be engaged in the task of rehabilitating many hundreds of thousands of our American families. In so doing we shall be decreasing future costs for the direct relief of destitution. I hope that it will be possible for the government to adopt as a clear policy to be carried out over a long period the appropriation og a large, definite annual sum so that work may proceed year after year, not under the urge of temporary expediency but in pursuance of the well considered, rounded objective."

"Social Insurance" Stupendous.

An even more stupendous project is the President's plan for social insurance, as he termed it—that is, insurance against unemployment and pensions for the aged. The funds to finance social insurance, said the President, "should be raised by contribution rather than by an increase in general taxation," with the states meeting "a large portion of the cost of management, leaving the federal government the responsibility of investing, maintaining, and safeguarding the funds constituting the necessary insurance reserves."

With more than 24 million persons listed as pecuniary beneficiaries of the New Deal in its present formative stage it is suggested that fully half the population will be dependent in some manner upon the central government when the President's projects are more fully realized.

The President outlined this program of a highly socialized state in a message which took its place at once as the foremost Democratic campaign document of the approaching election. It was a prospectus of the amplified New Deal and an answer to the newly reorganized Republican national committee's pronouncement making concessions to some of the social innovations envisaged by the New Deal, but challenging its collectivistic aspects. What the President offers to the electorate is the choice between the Republicans who would go part way with the New Deal and the Democrats who would go all the way and then some.

Answers G. O. P.'s Charges.

To the Republican indictment that he is creating a socialistic state in which all private initiative will be snuffed out in the universal regimentation of all business activity, the President answered:

"Ample scope is left for exercise of private initiative. In fact, in the process of recovery, I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future of much of the burden it has assumed will be fulfilled. We have not imposed undue restrictions upon business. We have not opposed the incentive of reasonable and legitimate private profit. We have sought rather to enable certain aspects of business to regain confidence of the public. We have sought to put forward the rule of fair play in finance and industry."

It is suggested in more than one quarter that the President has offered so alluring a prospect of government help to the less fortunate that nothing may be expected to defeat his program save the bankruptcy of the government. The leveling of all classes of the population will be occomplished by the steady stepping up of income taxes on the 3 millions who now pay them, to foot the bills for the New Deal, on which the aggregate potential outlay is already 15 billion dollars.

Revival Already Chilled.

The leveling process and the steps taken to suppress the profit motive have already chilled the revival of industry along orthodox capitalistic lines and paralyzed the private investment market, leaving government securities, at what was once regarded a nominal yield, the only field for investment of savings. How much longer the government can continue in this direction without resort to inflation of the curernncy is problematical. Not long, it is felt in responsible quarters, in the absence of a greater acceleration of recovery than has taken place up to date.

American Banking Under Government Thumb, U. S. Chamber Report Discloses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—How the banking industry of the nation has come under the thumb of government control, and in astonishing degree under government ownership, is disclosed in a report issued today by the American Bankers' association.

The New Dealers have taken control of American credit, it is revealed. They have loaned 3 billion dollars to one million individuals and corporations in every conceivable type of enterprise, from the railroads and the big industries down the line through the little fellows and to hundreds of thousands of farmers and the owners of homes in the cities and bungalows in the suburbs.

The federal government is committed to the lending of 10 billion dollars, the report disclosed, and the end is not even then.

Private Financing Shrinks.

Private financing of commerce, it is shown, has shrunk to but 10 per cent of the old normal, while government financing has taken its place and the public debt has mounted to an all time record.

The federal government has established 5,800 loaning associations and corporations in every cranny of the land, the report declares, and various kinds of credit are being extended through these thousands of agencies to borrowers of America.

Private banking institutions are disappearing, are 20 per cent less in number than before the bank holiday of March, 1933, and more than 50 per cent less than in 1921. Banking operations are dwindling proportionately.

Even the savings of the workers are coming out of private banks and going into government postal savings banks. Deposits have increased 8 fold in four years and deposits 6 fold.

Own Controlling Interests.

Apart from taking over the actual functions of the banking industry, the new dealers have gone further and have bought large capital interests and some controlling interests in thousands of banks.

The picture of these momentous changes in the banking structure of the country is portrayed graphically in crisp factual sentences of the report, which was prepared by the Economic Policy commission of the American Bankers association, a commission headed by Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, Cleveland, O., and having on its membership 11 other nationally known bankers from separated sections of the country.

The bankers criticized the securities act and the Roosevelt monetary policy as to having acted to prevent the extension of private credit and of fostering the transfer of banking functions to government institutions.

Soundness is Questioned.

Question was raised whether this entry of government into the banking business was sound, or whether it would not "serve to perpetuate conditions of unsoundness in the nation's credit structure through loaning policies influenced by considerations other than unalloyed economic merits." The bankers' language was taken as an ultra-politely worded suggestion that political influence may come to supplant collateral in the granting of loans to industries and individuals.

The commission trod softly, however, in its recommendations to the parent association. Some of the members of the commission are heads of banks which are at the mercy of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. So the recommendations went no farther than to stress the great significance of the facts presented and to plead that they be given "thorough and unselfish consideration, with the single motive of arriving at conclusions looking solely to the common welfare."

Privately, however, various bankers who have studied the situation have given opinions that the Roosevelt administration is reaching out for complete control of all financial operations in the country.

Point to Money Powers.

They point out that the President already has seized control of the monetary gold stocks of the nation, and that he has obtained authority to shift the gold value of the dollar within certain limits. The bankers quote the statements of Prof. Irving Fisher, one of the leading monetarians in the Roosevelt brain trust, to the effect that monetary control over the price structure of the country cannot be maintained without having also a control over credit.

Some of the bankers assert privately that the purpose of the administration is to work toward an ultimate seizure of the banking industry, a socialization of all banks and credit agencies.

Once in control of money and credit, it is pointed out, the New Dealers, will be able to dictate to all industry and all agriculture and all business, forcing the unwilling ones to accept the domination of government control under threat of withdrawing the life blood of credit.

The report of the American Bankers' association states that a survey of private financing activities during the 10 years 1922-1931 shows that the aggregate total of reported securities of domestic corporate enterprises coupled with farm loan issues floated in the capital markets, averaged more than five billion dollars annually.

"During 1932 and 1933," the report continues, "these issues shrank to the rate of but 620 million dollars a year—about one-eighth the previous 10 year rate, or a shrinkage of almost 90 per cent."

The report then asserts that "an opposite set of changes is notable in respect to United States treasury operations during the period," and points out that in the first nine years of the 1922-1931 period there was an average decrease in the gross public debt of 866 million dollars annually.

Debt Mounts Steadily.

In 1931 the debt increased by 616 millions, in 1932 by 3,100 millions, in 1933 by 3 billions and in the first four months of 1934 by 2,200 millions. During these latter years the treasury was refinancing large indebtednesses, thus practically taking over the security issuing business of the country.

"Some of these billions, the report points out, went to recovery and relief purposes, and some made up for a drop in revenues. But a large part went into lending activities.

It is then shown during the course of the commission's discussion of the government's banking enterprises that the RFC has outstanding loans to banks at the end of last March totaling 657 million dollars. The RFC also had entered agreements extending capital aid in excess of 1 billion dollars to more than 6,400 banks.

44 Per Cent of Banks.

This was equivalent, the report stated, to 44 per cent of the banks and 36 per cent of their common capital.

Then the report shows that the government has established about 5,800 loaning associations and corporations extending various kinds of short, intermediate and long term loans aggregating 3 billion dollars to about 1 million corporate and individual borrowers of all types.

By far the greater number of these agencies are engaged, the report shows, in granting loans for agricultural purposes. It is stated that there are 5,600 credit agencies organized under the farm credit administration, one of the creatures of the New Deal.

Four Main Divisions.

These are operated under four main divisions, each supervised by a commissioner, as follows:

The Land Bank commissioner, who supervises the 12 Federal Land banks, the 4,852 National Farm Loan associations, the 46 operating Joint Stock Land banks, commissioner's loans and the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation.

The production credit commissioner who supervises 12 production credit corporations, 658 production credit associations, and 6 emergency crop loan fund offices.

The coöperative bank commissioner who supervises one central bank for coöperatives and 12 regional banks for coöperatives.

Capital of a Billion.

These agencies have an authorized capital from government sources of about 1 billion dollars, the report states, and government guaranteed bonds to furnish them with further funds are authorized in the amount of over 3½ billion dollars. They have extended credit to some 800,000 persons and the volume of reported loans is almost 2½ billion dollars.

The RFC has also made loans to various types of corporate interests, including 402 millions to railroads; 89 millions to insurance companies; 84 millions for "self liquidating projects"; 222 millions to mortgage loan companies; 114 millions to building and loan associations.

The Federal Home Loan bank system, organized in July, 1932, to extend credit to building and loan and similar associations—a field estimated to cover residential mortgages aggregating 19 billion dollars—has thus far advanced about 100 million dollars to 2,000 member associations.

The Home Owners Loan corporation up to the middle of April, seven months after it was organized, had granted loans on 196,136 homes in the aggregate amount of 569 million dollars, an average of about $2,900 each. A total of 1,031,348 applications had been received up to March 16, and more than 500,000 of these had been tentatively approved, and were merely awaiting the turning of the machinery of grinding out bonds. The HOLC has 258 offices and branches, the A. B. A. report states.

The HOLC has also set up 214 "federal savings and loan associations" in 32 states, these agencies being described in the HOLC act as "local mutual thrift institutions in which people may invest their funds." It is planned to organize many more of these associations to receive the people's savings. They are wholly free from federal taxes.

END SPENDING OR FACE INFLATION, CHAMBER WARNS

Balanced Budget Urged on Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Unless congress insists on a balanced budget and curbs President Roosevelt's broad authority to spend billions of dollars, the New Deal may yet run into "disastrous inflation."

This was the warning today by the United States Chamber of Commerce. In an open letter to Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the senate appropriations committee, Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber, appealed to the senate to put a stop to the additional appropriations for which the New Dealers are calling.

Quoting from President Roosevelt's own budget message, in which he stressed the necessity of balancing the budget, Mr. Harriman's letter demanded that the President's original plans be adhered to.

"Essential to Recovery."

"The imperative necessity of balancing the federal budget at the earliest opportunity is well known to you," the letter read. "It is essential to the recovery of business and to orderly fiscal operations of the federal government. Continued large expenditures in excess of current receipts carry a serious threat of resort to disastrous inflation as a means of meeting government charges too heavy for taxation."

The letter singled out for especial attack the deficiency appropriation bill which has passed the house and is now pending before Senator Glass' appropriation committee in the senate. The bill, beside appropriating 1 billion, 172 million dollars outright, gives President Roosevelt the right to commandeer all unobligated balances of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Public Works administration, thus giving his discretionary power over an additional six billions.

Will Prevent 1936 Balance.

"The deficiency appropriation bill," Mr. Harriman wrote, "makes possible expenditures much in excess of those requested in the budget. Any excess of this kind will operate against a balance of the budget in 1936, even if taxes were somewhat increased.

"Up to the present, much of the Reconstruction Finance corporation funds have been used for the purpose of making reimbursable loans. The government has consequently been accumulating assets which sooner or later can be liquidated and the money received turned into the treasury. It has been estimated that, after the debt increase of 9.3 billions in 1934 and 1935—as contemplated in the budget message, the government would have about 5 billions in assets which could be realized upon to discharge debt. But under the bill purposes for which Reconstruction Finance corporation funds may be used is greatly extended. These uses contemplate non-reimbursable expenditures with no possible recompense to the treasury."

NRA BIRTHDAY PARTY FRIDAY WILL MARK FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Washington, D. C., June 10.—(AP)—NRA will have a birthday party Friday night.

Hugh S. Johnson tonight invited the 85 original employés of the organization, who were at work before the recovery act was passed, to be his guests for dinner at the Willard hotel. It is the last night of NRA's first year.

The 85 include some big time business men, stenographers and office boys. Most of them are still with NRA, but those who are not have been invited to return on the occasion.

Johnson also invited and hoped to have present Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary Frances Perkins, Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.].

"Vigilante Committee" to Put Down Bombers.

VIENNA, June 10.—(AP)—The Austrian government tonight decided to use enforcement methods of the American frontier to check a fast spreading wave of bombings and terrorism. After two long meetings the cabinet of Chancellor Dollfuss announced it will organize volunteer defense groups similar to the historic vigilantes committees which battled the outlaws of the western United States.

All Austrian communities were directed to organize such groups to cooperate with the army, police, gendarmes, and the armed groups of the "fatherland front." The extraordinary cabinet action followed arrests of 150 federal and city employés at Graz, a stronghold of Nazi sentiment.

An official announcement of the cabinet, which all newspapers must publish, declares that the direction of bombings in many cases had been traced to Germany.

Bridge Blown Up.

Members of the new "vigilante committee" will have the same legal standing as professional police in their handling of situations in the course of duty, the announcement states. It was also said that trials of persons accused of terrorism will be speeded up, and imposition of some death sentences is expected.

A bomb today blew up supports of the Ansbach railway bridge west of Vienna, damaging it so seriously that trafic will be tied up several days. In other sections bombers directed their attention to railroads, damaging the Stadlaur bridge east of Vienna and tearing up rails at Rekawinkil and Klein Wolkersdorf. Another infernal machine went off in the chamber of commerce building at Seefeld, Tyrol, police explaining suspicion is directed to Austrian Legionnaires from Bavaria.

Door of Synagogue Wrecked.

A blast here wrecked the entrance to a synagogue. A bomb damaged the Schlegel monastery at Schwarzenberger, near Czecho-Slovakia, and was followed by the arrest of four Nazi youths. A hand grenade was exploded in the gymnasium of a Vienna school, and broken glass and oil kept holiday crowds out of the popular swimming pool at Prater park.

A state of high tension prevailed in Graz, a Nazi stronghold, as government officers went about seizing distinguished citizens and officials. Public uncertainty and the general atmosphere was desecribed as being similar to the feeling which prevailed before the bitter fighting last February. Two high police officials and three college professors were among those arrested at Graz.

Because of two cabinet sessions considering means of stopping terrorist bombings Chancellor Dollfuss and Vice Chancellor Starhemberg did not make scheduled appearances at a "fatherland front" rally at Krems.

HITLER'S PARLEY WITH DUCE MAY BEGIN TOMORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 10.—The tentative dates for the momentous conference at Venice between Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy have been set for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Germany's claims to equality in armaments and the Austrian question will be discussed at the parley at which Europe's two outstanding dictators will meet for the first time. Friendship trips by other German officials to other countries will follow this conference.

(Dispatches from Venice yesterday said the conference between Hitler and Mussolini will take place Friday in an aristocratic villa on the road between Venice and Padua.)

Former Kaiser Calls Hitler's Work in Reich 'Marvelous

LONDON, June 10.—(AP)—Praise for Chancellor Hitler's "marvelous work" was expressed by former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany in an interview by the Daily Mail today. The former emperor made strikingly outspoken comment on affairs of the world.

At Doorn, Holland, his majesty received Randolph Churchill, son of the former British chancellor of the exchequer. Randolph is a staf correspondent of the Daily Mail.

He described his majesty as lively and engaging, with an alertness suggesting an age 15 years younger than his three score and fifteen.

Turned Out by German People.

"The German people have turned me out," the former kaiser said in the course of his conversation with Churchill. "If they want me back they will have to come and fetch me.

"Hitler has done marvelous work in putting new life and soul into the German nation. If ever they felt it right that his endeavors should be crowned by a return to a constitutional monarchy, I am sure that my family would not fail in their duty."

Wilhelm's conversations covered a wide range of subjects. He spoke with horrified amazement at the "folly" of the world in attempting to restore prices by destroying goods.

"A large acreage of wheat has been deliberately destroyed in Argentina and elsewhere," he exclaimed. "Coffee has been taken to sea and sunk in Brazil. And now drouth threatens all of us with famine."

"The former kaiser was much impressed by the increasing power of Japan.

"Japan," he said, "is as capable of giving peace and order in China as the British were of giving them in India. It is useless to think that growth of Japanese power in China can be prevented. Moreover, Japan constitutes in the east a bulwark against bolshevism as strong as Germany provides in the west."

Amusedly contemptuous of what he called "the 'alking circus" at Geneva, he said the work of the league of nations and representatives of the league "does nothing but bring international coöperation into ridicule."

"The trouble with Europe today is that there are plenty of politicians but few statesmen," he said.

Proud of His Reign.

He is still proud of his reign as kaiser. He declared many things in his rule were "distorted through the inevitable bitterness of the war years."

"Those days before the war," he said, "were the golden age of Germany. Under a constitutional monarchy the German people enjoyed full democracy and a freedom of speech and press which rarely has been rivaled in any other country.

"Those who accuse me of being a hard fisted autocrat might remember the significant fact that in half a century the German empire did not produce one single political martyr.

"Today democracy seems to be on the wane. Sterner measures appear to be necessary everywhere to combat the perils of anarchism and bolshevism."

WRITER ORDERED OUT OF GERMANY BY BRITISH ENVOY

Assailed by Ambassador After Nazis O. K. Him.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 10.—Noel D. Panter, a British correspondent who was arrested and ejected from Bavaria in October, was in Berlin for six hours yesterday. The treatment accorded him by Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, induced him to leave Germany immediately. Furthermore, it created the impression in foreign circles in Berlin that the British ambassador either is a Fascist or distrusts the word of his own chief, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon.

NOEL D. PANTER.

Panter was arrested in Munich and charged with receiving secret news from German newspapermen. An attempt was made to brand him as a spy, but this proved impossible.

"Fairness" Is Praised.

After he returned to England, Panter exhibited restraint in his writings. Later he went into the Saar basin, where he wrote stories which the Germans themselves cited as praising their "fairness." Simon recently declared in the house of commons that the German government had informed him that Panter was not actually barred and could return if he so desired.

Panter arrived with a regular visa yesterday afternoon and immediately informed Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, chief of the Nazi party's foreign press department of his presence. Hanfstaengl immediately released a statemen in which he again referred to Panter and another ousted Britisher, Pembroke Stephens, former correspondent in Berlin for the London Daily Express, as spies.

Assailed by Envoy.

Panter says that when, an hour later, he called on the British ambassador, Phipps accused him of deliberately trying to create trouble between the "two friendly nations of Germany and England." The newspaperman said the British ambassador was beside himself with rage.

Panter pointed to Simon's statement in parliament, but Phipps continued his denunciation and ordered Panter to leave the country at once, preferably by airplane. At a loss to deside whether the ambassador had reasons to distruct the assurance given to and by Simon, the correspondent left.

The incident was regarded here as an indication of the Nazi atmosphere spreading even to diplomats of his Britannic majesty.

NO CHARGE LODGED.

Noel D. Panter was correspondent in Munich for the London Daily Telegraph when he was arrested Oct. 24. He said on Nov. 5, in London, that he was never charged with a specific offense. He added he knew his arrest was in connection with his report of a demonstration on the anniversary of Napoleon's defeat at Leipzig. His dispatch intimated it was militaristic.

Describes Clash of Nazis and Anti-Nazis in Saar Territory

This is the first of a series of articles on the Saar, one of Europe's trouble spots. A Tribune correspondent has just completed a survey of the district.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin, June 10.—On crossing from Lorraine into this tiny area of Europe, the visitor can readily see what the battle between France and Germany is about. On Jan. 13, 1935, residents of the Saar will vote to determine whether control will pass to Germany, to France, or remain under the jurisdiction of the league of nations.

Time and again France has expressed fears of a Nazi putsch to seize the Saar. There have been reports of Nazi storm troop movements to the German frontier and French troop movements to the Lorraine border. There has been continuous complaint of Nazi propaganda activities in the Saar. There have been incidents without number.

Catholics Fight Return.

Catholics, who compose a large percentage of the Saar population, seeing the German-Vatican concordat strained to the breaking point in the fatherland, added their voice to the campaign against the return to Germany, but mainly to delay the plebiscite. Communists and Socialists, mindful of the fate of their parties in Nazi Germany, have been the most vehement forces fighting return to Germany.

Some degree of peace has settled on the Saar since German and French delegates got together at Geneva this month and with a surprising lack of fireworks agreed upon conditions for the plebiscite. These provide for a neutral political court to try cases of terrorism and reprisal, abandonment of France's idea to send an international police force into the territory, right of appeal by citizens of the Saar to the league council against persecution, and the guarantee of a free and secret vote.

One thing becomes obvious to the visitor almost before he leaves the train. If it is understandable that a fight is being waged to keep the Saar from Hitlerism, it is illogical for any one to say that the Saar is not German. The people are distinctly German, the architecture is as German as that of Munich, and nothing but the German language is heard.

Many Flags Out.

Saarbruecken is given to hanging out flags. A huge swastika banner announces the Nazi headquarters. The main street is a long row of red, white and black flags, the swastika of Hitler and the stripes of the third reich. But the fight is not as one-sided as this display would make it appear. The center of the town is indeed a stronghold of Hitler, but in the outskirts, in the working class districts and uninviting suburbs, the Socialists have theirs. Out there, too, are refugees

The government commission has banned uniforms for both Nazis and from Germany who are not inactive. their foes, but this has cramped their style only in part. Many young men wear plus fours and curious brown or black velvet jackets with silver buttons which pass for civilian dress but are known to everybody as Nazi uniforms. Young Marxists also have makeshift, but readily distinguishable uniforms. The Nazi stiff-arm salute and the Socialist variation of it, with closed fist, are frequently seen.

Caution is the watchword at Nazi headquarters. Passports are scrutinized. Neutrals here say every third person is an unofficial spy for one camp or another. Until an inquirer after information passes the examination with honors, nobody will say anything to him that might be incriminating in the eyes of the governing commission. Even after the examination, local Nazis are careful to keep within the limits prescribed by Berlin, which is running this campaign.

Socialists Talk.

The Socialists are only slightly less cautious, but once confidence is established they are much more willing to talk and are remarkably desirous for foreign sympathy to counteract the great weight of Germany in favor of local Nazis. The newspapers are campaigning with all the weapons the censorship allows them, and neither side worries much about the truth.

The wealth of the Saar is evident. The southern two-thirds is studded with flourishing mines that were turned over to the French as war reparations. Everywhere are smokestacks of busy factories. Thousands of freight cars move constantly along the banks of the Saar river. Gray, sooted towns with 834,000 inhabitants are packed close together over much of the 720 square miles that the Saar comprises. And in the northern third are fertile valleys, where the famous Saar wine is produced.

Through the land an occasional tricolor hoisted over a French owned factory or mine serves as a reminder that the Saar is not Nazi yet.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 10.—A slur on the Hitler troops constitutes good ground for the instant dismissal of an employé found guilty of that offense, according to a decision of the reich's labor court. The German law ordinarily requires six weeks' notice of discharge. The court ruled that any disparagement cast on the "fighting troops of the National Socialist resurgence" expresses subversiveness and hostility to the existing government.

IDLE LABORER HANGS SELF.

HITLER'S AID WILL NOT ATTEND HARVARD REUNION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 10.—Ernst F. Hanfstangl, chief of the Nazi foreign press department, remained in his apartment today and passed up his last chance to get to the United States for the reunion of the 1909 class of Harvard, of which he is a graduate. He made no effort to reach Cherbourg and board the Europa, the last ship which would bring him to America in time for the reunion.

Hanfstaengl made no explanation, but from sources close to him it was learned he was in close touch with Chancellor Hitler, who is in Munich. When he did not catch the train for Cherbourg yesterday, Hanfstaengl said unforeseen developments had prevented his departure.

"I was closeted with the leader [Hitler] during the greater part of yesterday afternoon," the press chief said. "Important problems were discussed and the leader did not see his way clear to dispense with my services and let me go to America."

A furor was created last spring when it was announced Hanfstaengl had been invited to act as an aide to his friend, Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, alumni marshal, at the reunion. Benjamin Halpern of Dorchester, a graduate, wrote a letter of protest to the Harvard Crimson.

ANTI-SMUT FILM CAMPAIGN ROCKS MOVIE COLONY

Hollywood Finds It Is Sitting on Volcano.

lywood. This is a divided camp, fiercely competitive in business, bound on the wheels of mass production. A minority of bad pictures estimated at from 15 to 25 per cent of the 500 produced yearly in this immense factory, has brought down the present condemnation indiscriminately upon the heads of all.

Good Taste in Pictures.

The issue is not only that of good taste in pictures, which after all is a matter that will finally be controled by the standards of the American audiences, but whether motion picture art has the freedom of literature, the stage, painting, sculpture, in depicting so-called "life" in the raw, the great conflicts of evil and good in human nature, in which it is necessary to present alluring aspects of evil.

Here the producers and directors are a unit in demanding their freedom, although they yielded under the pressure against gangster pictures, a pressure which was put at one point at least by the department of justice at Washington. They are now concerned with the threat of federal censorship, more than with the threat of boycott by church and club organizations.

They profess not to feel greatly worried about this latter as they think the people will refuse to obey the church leaders, and that they cannot be ordered or legislated into sainthood. Federal censorship, however, the straining of their picture endeavors through the minds of a few, is coming in for vigorous battle by the major producers.

Sitting Over a Volcano.

Hollywood, if there be such an entity or point of view, feels that it is sitting over a volcano, but it does not know just what to do about it. The trouble is of complicated nature, born of the haphazard manner of growth of this giant industry, the background and standards of the men who control it, the necessity of meeting the demand for new pictures, the character of the writers, players, and directors; the concentration of the industry in one place, where it hides behind walls and is out of touch with the people; artistry killed by speed; se... taken as the line of least resistance to boxoffice returns.

Since the financial reorganizations of the last few years, most of the companies have been on the edge of bankruptcy, and they feel that their meager profits of today may be turned into deficits by an aroused and unreasonable public opinion. The situation is generally regarded as the most serious the industry has ever faced. It all may result in complete reorganization, with fewer and better pictures and longer runs. This, however, will not solve the conflict as to how much of "life" may be presented in the name of art.

Halt Many Productions.

Presentations have been planned and stopped of such books and plays as "Shanghai Gesture," "Lulu Belle," "Lady Chatterly's Lover," "Ulysses," "Desire Under the Elms," "Simon Called Peter," "Pleasure Girl," "Diamond Lil," "Thy Neighbor's Wife," and "Road to Rome."

Three studios nibbled at play called "Barbecue," written from "The Postman Always Rings Twice," a story of lust and premeditated murder, a clinical document of human depravity. They were warned off by the Hays office. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio finally bought the rights for $25,500, without the knowledge of this office. Mr. Hays warned that the picturization was fraught with the greatest danger to the industry. Louis B. Mayer, vice president in charge of production, was told that it was unwholesome and thoroughly objectionable. A legal brief was written that it was impossible to make any picture from the book. The presentation was finally called off. "Professional Correspondent" was stopped after $100,000 had been invested in it.

"Life" in Motion Pictures.

Seduction, kidnaping, gangster psychology, condonation of adultery, experimental love, easy divorce, flouting of the ancient standards of right and wrong, disregard for law, constitute much of the "life" as presented in motion pictures.

"This kind of life is a lie," is the answer of the critics. Is a sensuous dance in the "King of Kings" permissible, in which the eternal conflict of spirit and flesh is shown? Is the life of "Nana," or that of other famous courtesans of history, fit to be shown to a public made up of mature and immature? These questions are not concerned with good taste, but with the theme and philosophy of a picture, and it is this point to which so much criticism has been directed.

The most competent authority in Hollywood, according to Bishop John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles and San Diego, is responsible for the statement that many of the talking pictures made there "teach the philosophy that marriage, the purity of women and the sanctity of the home are outmoded sentimentalities," unworthy of serious consideration at the hands of "intelligent" Americans.

Influence Largely Pagan.

The Broadway stage, the "realistic" writers of the last twenty years who are preaching a 19th century materialism unaware of the newer scientific movement toward idealism, are responsible for much of Hollywood's output. The infiltration of this hard glittering, rather pathetic and sad outlook on life, is strongly marked here, not only in the product but in the manners and faces of the people. That influence which is so important in shaping American life is largely pagan as opposed to a religious influence. Life is disposed of in wise cracks. Is the fault with the audience or the producers? There is a rift here which shows no sign of healing.

Hollywood picture czars, each secure in his own castle in the hills or entrenched behind rows of secretaries and yes men, are rather hard to reach. Each is a sort of little Napoleon in his own studio. They have come up through the school of hard knocks through gigantic business conflicts. They are men with little cultural background, and their major interests in business rather than art. They have built a new industry in which "their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the ends of the earth," and they are proud of it. They have acquired a polish and they are plausible men, with the "box office" their main motivation. Their answer to this whole situation is that the American people can have any kind of pictures they want if they will only indicate what they want by supporting it.

They Are Puzzled.

The simultaneous success of "Little Women" and Mae West pictures leaves them puzzled. They troop after each other in a race to get on a popular line of pictures. They are now fussing around with productions of pictures such as "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "David Copperfield," "Whistler's Mother," innocuous enough, they hold, but doubtful of success.

What happened to "Alice in Wonderland?" A bad flop. By the same taken many of the sex pictures and love triangles have been failures. They are gamblers in business, never certain of the fickle public. Sex, love, and crime have always been the surest drawing cards. Thus business and ignorance and some vague perception of artistic freedom combine to produce a wall against which the film critics may hammer in vain.

John Drinkwater, biographer of Lincoln; Lee, Burns, Cromwell, and others, who wrote a life of Carl Laemmle, the kindly old "Uncle Carl" of the Universal Film company, raises the question as to whether the later developments of the industry can be solved at all by the men who from obscure beginnings saw the possibilities of the motion picture and fought their way to wealth and power through it.

"The question of taste," he writes, "could hardly be explored in a school accustomed to invasions of a drunken drug store keeper, rough house lumbermen, trust bullies, and New York thugs. This was a refinement of the motion picture problem not beyond Laemmle's scope, but beyond his pressing and crucial occasions."

A Pressing Occasion.

It has now become a pressing and crucial occasion. Mr. Laemmle has sailed for Europe. Just before he left he said:

"Through mail and contacts, through advertising and 25 years' making pictures I know better than any one else what the public wants. This is clean pictures but they must have red blood in them. If the producers are wise they will heed this protest. They cannot afford to antagonize the best people of the United States. I am sure they are heeding it. The pictures today are better than they were a few months ago. This protest is the result of pictures now off. There is danger of federal censorship if we do not clean this up."

Mr. Laemmle was of the opinion that his organization had never made a dirty picture. One of his pictures, "Glamour," had just been mentioned by a clerical critic, as an example of an undesirable picture, dealing with divorce. Mr. Laemmle had never seen the picture, he said, but was of the opinion that it was well received.

When another Universal picture "Little Man, What Now?" was first presented to the Hays office it was regarded as a violation of the code. A jury was called and it was passed after certain lines and scenes showing that the couple were unmarried, had been cut out. These instances illustrate different points of view and remote control.

Zukor Not Alarmed.

Adolph Zukor, h... of Paramount, said there was no excuse for some pictures, including some of his own studio's making. He has now ... command of production and said:

"I am not alarmed at the situation. I hope it will come to a flame and die out. The way to cure it is to make good pictures. There is no use in telling the people pictures are bad if they are good. The trouble has been due to about 15 per cent of the pictures. Never before in the history of the industry has there been such an effort to clean house from within as now."

Mr. Mayer, Jack Warner and Winfield Sheehan, head of Fox productions, did not care to be interviewed on the subject. The topic of dirty films was distasteful to them and they did not care to be questioned.

Sidney Kent, head of the Fox company, however, is quoted in the film trade papers here as having said at an executive session of producers in New York that there are elements in the motion picture business which are no longer wanted, and that pictures would be better off without them. He pledged the Fox company to produce clean and wholesome pictures. The question again arises as to who is to decide this.

The question of good taste, as one producer said, is as individual as the question whether one likes two lumps of sugar or six in his coffee.

Protest Against Indecent Movies Shakes Hollywood

20 BLASTS LIVEN STRIKE WARFARE IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., June 10.—(AP)—One person was injured seriously and two houses were badly damaged early today as dynamite terrorists touched off more than a score of charges in the strike area.

The renewal of dynamite terrorism followed demands from a citizens' committee in Bessemer that National Guards be withdrawn.

Milton Howard, Negro, was injured seriously by a charge of dynamite that tore the front porch from the home of Willie Johnson, Negro employé of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company.

D. G. Burns, a foreman for the Republic Steel corporation, and his family, including two small children, escaped injury when a bomb destroyed the porch to his home.

None of the other blasts, which occurred intermittently throughout the night, caused any damage.

G. M. HITCHCOCK WIDOW FOUNDS SCHOLARSHIP

Hitchcock of Omaha and Washington had established an annual scholarship of $1,000 in the Columbia school of journalism in memory of her husband, the late Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska. Senator Hitchcock was founder and pulisher of the Omaha World-Herald.

It will provide tuition, residence in one of the university dormitories, meals, books, and traveling expenses. It will be open to graduates of Nebraska universities and colleges and to employés in the editorial departments of Nebraska newspapers.

REMIND CHURCH CONGREGATIONS OF FILM PLEDGES

Catholics Ready to Invoke Movie Boycott.

The Catholic church in Chicago yesterday adopted an attitude of watchful waiting in its crusade against smutty motion pictures.

High church officials, it was understood, were awaiting some sign of cooperation from Hollywood producers before invoking the most powerful of the church weapons—the signing of pledges by parishioners promising not to patronize moving picture houses where films of questionable moral fiber are exhibited.

Catholic churchgoers were reminded in sermons, however, of Cardinal Mundelein's statement which urged that a censorship of morals be placed upon the motion picture industry. They were asked to hold themselves in readiness to sign pledges, if necessary, supporting the fight being waged against unclean films by the Legion of Decency.

Typical of these sermons was the one delivered by the Rev. John E. Burke, pastor of St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue. He called attention to Cardinal Mundelein's statement and asked his listeners "to be ready for definite action when the time comes."

Parish priests in the diocese of Belleville, in southern Illinois, complying with the request of Bishop Henry Althoff, yesterday obtained pledges from thousands of church members promising to avoid objectionable films.

In Duquoin the Very Rev. C. N. Haffner, dean of the Cairo district, denounced the salaciousness of present day films and urged his congregation to refrain from attending those adjudged indecent. He declared that only through the box office could the public force producers to give their audiences clean pictures.

OIL TO REVIVE LOST TOWN IN EASTERN TEXAS

Lubbock, Tex., June 10.—(AP)—Oil company surveyors overran the lost town of New Birmingham today, speeding development of a new east Texas oil area and recalling the glory that once promised to make the town a new metropolis of the west.

A ragged, leather bound register of the Southern hotel, owned by Mrs. C. B. Powell of Lubbock, is one of the few remaining relics of New Birmingham.

Hetty Green, American capitalist; Robert A. Van Wycke, later mayor of New York city, and Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," are among the names inscribed on the register. Dates covered by the register are from Feb. 10 to June 29, 1890.

The hotel was the center of the mushroom village of 3,500 persons. Carnival strings of electric lights and the flame from iron ore furnaces lit up the town so that "you could catch 'possums in the streets." There was a three storied brick schoolhouse called the New Birmingham institute. Street cars clanged in the streets.

The iron project failed in the panic of 1893. Every one left who could leave. The hotel and other buildings gradually became rotten ruins. The brick schoolhouse was torn down and hauled away. Now oil wells are to be drilled on the site.

SUNSHINE DRAWS RECORD HOLIDAY CROWD TO FAIR

Free Features Jammed; Circus Thrills.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The week-end attendance at A Century of Progress Exposition, with a Sunday throng of more than a hundred thousand, exceeded any of the first three week-ends at the 1933 Exposition, and was exceeded only by the opening week-end of th current Exposition. Officials hailed the record day and week-end as the end of the slump of the last week.

At midnight the turnstiles had checked in an official attendance of 107,649.

Yesterday was the fourth day at the 1934 Exposition when attendance was in excess of one hundred thousand paid admissions. At this time last year there were only two days on which more than one hundred thousand had been recorded.

Beats 1933 Record.

With the exception of only one week-end the 1934 Exposition has consistently beaten the record of its predecessor. That was the second week-end, when the unusual cold weather held the attendance to 147,234. The 1933 Exposition for the same period had a clocking of 156,178 admissions.

The opening week-end this year saw a record of 235,904 admissions, as compared to 172,359 admission last year.

"We have not been worried about the attendance at any time," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, said, "and the satisfying crowds of the last week-end have justified our faith."

Despite the crowd, the largest in more than a week, colorful streets at times seemed almost deserted. With a warm sun beaming from overhead visitors were thronging the exhibits as they have done on no other day at the Exposition. While last year an attendance of two hundred thousand made the grounds look crowded, the layout is so designed this year that a half million ordinary visitors can be assimilated with ease.

Big Out-of-Town Crowds.

Children's day a week ago Friday, when a record of 470,000 persons entered the grounds, was crowded, due largely to the fact most of the youthful visitors wanted to see the same thing at the same time.

All of the free shows, with more than eighty thousand free seats, played constantly to packed houses. Another feature of the day was the fact that for the first time a large sprinkling of out-of-town visitors was noted.

All of these were profuse in their praise of the new exposition, commenting to a great extent on the vast variety of free attractions.

Among three of the most popular free attractions yesterday were the all star circus on the lagoon theater, the Chicago Women's Symphony at the Ford theater, and the Palmer Clark orchestra on the Swift bridge.

Concession Business Booms.

With a steady stream of visitors yesterday most of the concessionaires were doing a satisfactory business. Too, the Fair and the showmen are on a more stable footing now that several meetings have brought a mutual understanding of problems. Practically all of the shows to which the Fair objected have now been altered by the showmen and the Exposition is again complete to the last detail.

Probably the last of the major openings and dedications will take place tomorrow when the Hall of Religion holds its formal reception. Dignitaries of the twenty-five religious denominations, which have installed their exhibits, will be in the receiving line. Brief talks of welcome will be made by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair; George W. Dixon, head of the religious exhibits committee; and Dr. Hugh S. Magill, manager of the Hall of Religion. Among the new features of the hall is the $3,000,000 Catholic art display.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Seventy five representatives of the passenger department of the Illinois Central system visited the Fair yesterday as guests of the railroad under the direction of J. V. Lanigan, passenger trafic manager. Cities and towns in nine states were represented. Luncheon was at the Victor Vienna café.

The three winners of a dental charm contest, sponsored by the Bristol Myers company, will visit the Fair next week. They are Georgia W. Berry of Richmond, Va., Mildred M. Smith of Wilbur, Wash., and Mary Elizabeth Bort of Long Beach, Cal.

The three shows in the Italian Village which were closed last week were inspected by Fair officials and allowed to reopen yesterday.

A family of 21 Italians is the leading entry in the contest of the largest family of Italian descent being conducted by the Italian Village at the Fair. Mike and Rose Latorra and their 19 children, who live in Franklin Park, Ill., form the largest family yet located. The winners will be given a trip to Chicago and the Fair at the expense of the village. Entries must be made by July 1.

Boxes containing two large porcelain Foo lions, which will stand guard over the Chinese imperial gold collection housed in a building in the Streets of Shanghai, were almost blocking the entrance to the village yesterday when, through a mixup in orders, the concrete bases for the lions were not ready when the statues arrived. The exhibit will be installed some time this week.

The amphitheater in the Ford gardens will not be occupied Thursday and Friday of this week. The engagement of the Women's Symphony orchestra ends Wednesday and the Detroit Symphony orchestra will play its first concert Saturday afternoon.

Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent of the United Charities of Chicago, will speak on "Public Assistance as the Basis for Charity" at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Illinois Host house. The lecture is under the auspices of the Chicago Women's club.

Dudley Crafts Watson, lecturer for the fine arts exhibit at A Century of Progress, said yesterday all groups he escorts through the Fair will visit the Armour & Co. building to study the interior decoration and lighting effects. The lighting in the building is one of the best at the Fair, he said. A mural on the right of the entrance to the building shows P. D. Armour and the small structure in which he began business in Chicago in 1867.

A meeting of the Wicker Park Women's club will be held in the auditorium of the Illinois Host house tomorrow morning at 9:15 a. m.

COVERED WAGON OF CHURCH FAME SHOWN AT FAIR

The Jason Lee covered wagon, used in a pioneer missionary trip to Oregon 100 years ago, arrived in Chicago yesterday for an exhibit at the World's Fair Hall of Religion. Lee, a Methodist missionary, traveled to the territory in 1834.

Services were held in the Chicago temple commemorating the pioneer's trip. Among the speakers were Dr. Edward D. Kohlstedt of Philadelphia, Methodist home missions' secretary; Edward Winter Moon, a Mojave Indian, and Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the temple.

SHOOTING GALLERY LOOTED.

Apparently stocking themselves for a summer expedition into Canada, burglars yesterday entered the Penny Arcade shooting gallery, 21 South Halsted street, and stole four rifles, four pistols, and 12,000 rounds of .22 caliber ammunition.

PARIS NOTHING LIKE THIS, SAYS BARON AT FAIR

Baron Maurice de Rothschild of Paris, scion of the famous European banking house and member of the French senate, spent a gala evening in the Streets of Paris at the World's Fair last night. He signed autographs, sketched at life classes and entered practically all the shows.

Hobnobbing with other visitors and with the "barkers" for the various attractions, the baron, who has preeminent social ranking in the French capital, remarked to his companion, Capt. John Riley of the Fair staf:

Tries Hand at Sketching.

The remark was meant favorably, too, for the baron insisted on seeing everything in the "Streets." After a dinner at the Rendezvous club, he went first to "Venus on the Half Shell," which he found "very instructive." Next came the Life Class, where the baron sketched one of the models and then autographed the drawing.

"The sketch isn't worth much from an artistic standpoint," he observed, "but I'm told my autograph has some value."

Then in rapid succession, with a crowd following on his heels, the French nobleman went to the Puppet show, to Mati Hari, to the much discussed and much banned Diving Venus exhibition given by Mona Leslie, and to the Moulin Rouge.

He was disappointed when informed that the fan dance was no longer numbered among the attractions of the Streets of Paris. He wanted to know if there was any other place in the Fair where he could see such a dance.

Tells Peril of Conflict.

Earlier in the day, after he had made a visit to the World's Fair art collection in the Art institute, the baron gave his views on international politics. He said that the United States, having learned a lesson, would probably never enter an European conflict again. He said that this country was rapidly growing to be the only one to live in, and that Europe was cursed with the presence of Germany.

"Germany is the greatest menace to world peace," asserted Baron Rothschild. "That country is seething with militarism. She is rearming, buying airplanes, and training the youth in a military fashion.

"Attempts at disarmament will collapse because of the hostile attitude of Germany."

Nations Race to Arm.

The baron said the race to arm in Europe now has become general. England was inclined to be pro-German until a few weeks ago, he declared, and stayed out of the race, but now realizes she is in danger and has started to buy planes.

In event of a war between France and Germany the former could not expect help from Russia or Italy, said Baron Rothschild. He added Italy stands to gain territory if France should be beaten, and said Mussolini writes for German newspapers.

Baron Rothschild, who is 53 years old, has been in the French parliament for the last 15 years and is an independent. His father, Edmund Rothschild, 89 years old, is the senior member of the banking house in Paris.

HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE.

William Gutteries, 33 years old, a Mexican, was being held by Hudson avenue police yesterday on a charge of mistreating an 8 year old girl.

EMPLOYES SIDE WITH COACH LINE IN NRA DISPUTE

Company Union Officials Say Pay Is Higher.

Copies of a letter sent by officials of the Chicago Motor Coach fraternity, the company union, to Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner, taking sides with the company in opposition to the NRA board and attempts by the Federation of Labor to unionize them, were made public yesterday. The employés compare their wages and benefits with those of unions affiliated with the federation and assert they want only to be let alone.

The motor coach company was cited in April by the Chicago regional labor board, then headed by Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. The company was threatened with the loss of its Blue Eagle for "interference with employés' privileges to organize."

At a hearing in Washington Friday, where the company was theoretically on trial for violation of section 7-A of the National Industrial Recovery Act, President John A. Ritchie of the company refused to be represented.

Union 10 Years Old.

The letter from the company union officials, signed by Joseph Gaynor, as chairman; Velma R. Hickman, as secretary, and 11 trustees, states that the company union has been in existence for ten years and has no dispute with the company. The letter asserts that a few professional labor organizers have been agitating and attempting to force them to join the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America.

The letter said 1,178 of 1,240 employés signed a petition asking that they be represented by their own union in NRA dealings with their employers, instead of by Amalgamated officials. The employés cite their pay of 75 cents an hour for drivers as compared with a maximum of 70 to 72 cents an hour for surface lines motormen and conductors, 73 cents to 78 cents for trolley bus operators, and 64.8 cents to 71.1 for elevated line employés.

The coach company employés said membership in their union is optional with a $1 initiation fee, while in the street car and elevated lines unions the initiation fees range from $9 to $28 and membership is compulsory.

Contrast Union Fees.

Dues in the coach fraternity are $1 a month, while in the "L" men's union they are $2 and the street car men pay $2.50, the letter states.

Another contrast is in death benefits, those of the coach fraternity being from $1,500 to $3,000, effective immediately upon joining, while in the other unions they are effective after one year of membership and the maximum is $1,000, according to the letter. The coach employés say they receive $21 weekly sick benefits, while none are paid by the other unions.

The coach employés ask an interview with the mayor and the governor regarding efforts to force them into a union they do not wish to join.

ROBBED OF AUTO AND $200.

Two armed men yesterday kidnaped Herman Hacker, 3654 Janssen street, as he left his meat market, 2952 North Halsted street, and robbed him of $200 and his automobile. Hacker was thrown from the car at Oakdale and Mildred avenues.

BURN UP 3 TAXICABS IN CLEVELAND STRIKE AND POLICE ARREST 8

Cleveland, O., June 10.—(AP)—Incendiary fires demolished three taxicabs and police arrested eight men, five of whom they said were imported sluggers, as violence in the cab drivers' strike flared again today. For five weeks disorder has occurred from time to time.

The strike began may 3 when the Yellow Cab company refused to recognize the union, charging it was dominated by the Zone Cab company. More than a dozen Yellow cabs were wrecked in subsequent attempts by the company to renew operations.

UNION OFFICIALS AT GARY BACK STEEL STRIKE

Believe Companies Will Avert Walkout.

that the union will not surrender or weaken its claims for union recognition from the Steel institute. The delegates at the national gathering will adhere to that position, he said.

"The delegates to the special convention on Thursday will be the same men who last April, in convention, voted for a strike on June 16 if their demands were not met," said Mr. Kelsey. "It is a reasonable conclusion that they have not changed their minds since that time.

One Way for Settlement.

"There is only one way for a settlement, so far as I can see, and that is outright recognition of our union. No other plan will be considered.

"Gen. Johnson, in presenting his labor board proposition, was presenting, as the government's own plan, something that really had been submitted to him by the Steel institute. This plan is an insult to the steel workers' intelligence. It was conceived by the institute. It is nothing more than a company union plan."

Mr. Kelsey pointed out that the union chiefs who were offered the proposal were not empowered to accept it even had they been so inclined. Actual acceptance or rejection must be made by the convention, he said. However, he added that so far as he could glean from mingling and talking with his union colleagues, there was a "unanimity of opinion to refuse the Johnson plan."

Various reasons exist, Mr. Kelsey said, for the union's attitude against the proposal. Among them, he said, is the fact that "mediation boards are detrimental to unions."

"In the Calumet region there are more than 75,00 steel workers," continued Mr. Kelsey. "The Amalgamated association has at least 75 or 80 per cent of them as members. My belief is that the Steel institute will offer something to prevent the strike."

Considered a Conservative.

Mr. Kelsey is considered a conservative, in line with the accredited conservative makeup of this steel district. Union officials in this area said yesterday that radical elements exist only in the east, not the midwest.

"Whether radicals or not," said Mr. Kelsey, "the union, the width and breadth of the land, is of one mind on this matter. It is union recognition or a work holiday on Saturday."

It is possible that Gen. Johnson will address the Pittsburgh convention on Thursday. He has been invited to do so by the labor leaders. The older leaders, it is said, are hoping for conciliation.

REP. FISH ATTACKS WAR PROFITEERING, ARMS BLOOD MONEY

Valley Forge, Pa., June 10.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York said today if the United States ever has another war, "it must be for the defense of the country and not in defense of war profiteers and munitions makers."

Speaking at exercises in Washington Memorial chapel, which marked the opening of Flag week, Fish attacked the proposal to empower the President to set up an embargo on arms and criticized clergymen who urge youths not to defend their country against foreign foes.

Such an embargo, he said, "is an act of war and not of peace."

Speaking of the "next" war, Fish asserted: "America must not become the potential slaughter house of the world or the symbol of arms and munitions to be sold for blood money."

Mobile, Ala., June 10.—[Special.]—Vernon L. Thompson, $5, secretary of the Gulf Mobile and Northern railroad, and George Cochrane, 22, son of President John T. "Get a LIFT with a Camel!"

TRIBUNE WRITER ENDS TRIAL SKY HOP IN RYE FIELD

Interviews Piccard Aid Above Clouds.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 10.—This TRIBUNE writer knows how it feels to be dumped into a field of rye with a stratosphere flyer.

Max Cosyns, 27 year old companion of Prof. Auguste Piccard on the latter's second flight into the stratosphere, and this correspondent started from Brussels this morning on Sosyn's last training flight before his next ascension into the stratosphere June 20.

The ascension ended not unpleasantly after three and a half hours in the rye field a few yards from a high tension wire, on one side a rickety farm building, and on the other a hamlet of the Belgian province of Hainaut.

Trip a Vacation.

Of the trip itself, the writer can only say it was a vacation. There was infinite calm above the clouds, a thin layer of fog underneath, now and then an airplane passing some 3,000 feet lower, and glimpses of meticulous landscape, of tiny patches of fields in various shades of green and brown. Houses were like match boxes, cows like tiny fat worms.

The balloon was rarely visible to spectators from the ground. Prof. Piccard followed it in a fast car, but lost track of it.

Cosyns, whose altitude record of 52,000 feet was beaten only last year by Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle of the American navy, does not intend to set any more altitude records.

He aims only to extend studies of the world mystery rays, or cosmic rays.

Will Go to 52,000 Feet.

"I shall go to 52,000 feet again this year, starting from Hour Havenne in the Belgian Ardennes hills June 20 or shortly after," Cosyns said while throwing out sand from the bag with a small child's shovel.

"My intention is to rise as slowly as possible, stopping at certain levels to do experiments on cosmic rays. So far, stratosphere balloons went up straight to their greatest height in less than an hour. I have invented a device whereby I can stop every few thousand feet.

"I shall use the same yellow rubberized silk balloon without the net which Piccard took on his two ascensions. But our closed gondola is painted black on the lower part so that the sun warms our feet, and white on the upper part so as to keep our heads cool.

"The instruments are the same as on the preceding flights—that is, intricate counters to measure the intensity and direction of primary and secondary, hard and soft cosmic rays, and also some instruments of navigation, an American short wave radio set and two parachutes, with which we will jump through our manholes in case lightning destroys the balloon. A special apparatus will furnish oxygen in the hermetically closed cabins, which we will open only below 15,000 feet."

DRIVER ROBBED OF $100.

Clarence Schreifer, 2345 West 23d street, driver for the Monarch Brewing company, 2419 West 21st street, was robbed of $100 yesterday by three armed men who leaped to the running board of his truck at Campbell Park avenue and Leavitt street.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobile stolen, 6; recovered, 14; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Saturday].

Three bandits in an automobile yesterday outdistanced two Oak Park policemen in their squad car after a running gun battle from the suburb into Chicago. The chase began at Madison street and Harvey avenue in Oak Park, where the policemen, Tony Brown and Clarence Mau, tried to curb the suspects' car.

The driver of the car increased its speed and his two companions, riding in the rear, broke the window glass and opened fire on the police car with revolvers. With Mau driving and Brown firing from the running board, the squad car gave chase. The chase led east in Harrison street into Columbus and Garfield parks in Chicago, where, at Cicero avenue and Jackson boulevard, the faster bandit car was lost to sight. The police car was struck by five bullets.

The bandit car later was found abandoned in front of 6321 North Washtenaw avenue. There were seven bullet holes in the body, but no blood stains. The car had been stolen on June 4 from John A. Mack, 2417 South 52d avenue, Cicero. The license plates were stolen from an automobile owned by Janet Dinsmore, 3050½ North Laramie avenue, on June 8.

Black Damp Kills Two Men as They Dig Well

Youngstown, O., June 10.—(AP)—Two men were killed by black damp seeping up from an abandoned mine, near North Lima, ten miles south of here, today. Peter Cisek, 56, and John Gleydora, 49, were the victims. They were digging a well at Gleydora's farm and had gone to a depth of 26 feet.

SURGEONS' GROUP DRAFTS HEALTH INSURANCE RULES

Provides Medical Care on Partial Payments.

A set of principles to be applied in drafting voluntary health insurance plans based on small prepayments designed to assure proper hospitalization and medical care to persons of moderate means was approved yesterday by the board of regents of the American College of Surgeons, which held a regular meeting in the college headquarters, 40 East Erie street.

Various types of health insurance or group hospitalization plans have, in the past, evoked bitter opposition from medical leaders. The reason for this, one medical spokesman explained yesterday, was because "certain features of the plans were incompatible with medical ethics."

Declaring that the college of surgeons believes it is the duty of the medical profession to assume leadership in the movement and to control all measures directed to that end, the report added that encouragement should be given to the trial of new methods designed to provide more adequate medical services to the whole community.

Must Meet Code of Ethics.

"All such experiments," the report added, "must be conducted strictly in accordance with the accepted code of ethics of the medical profession in order that the interests of the patient and of the community may be protected."

The report insists that the care of paupers should be a direct obligation on the community and not on the medical profession or hospitals. The hospital insurance plans, according to the report, should be for the benefit of persons of limited resources who are unable to meet emergency medical expenses.

The report holds that any plan for prepaid health and hospital insurance should be free from the intervention of commercial intermediary organizations operating for profit. After deduction of the clerical costs of operation of the hospital insurance fund and such accumulation of reserve as may be advisable, the full amount paid by contributors should be available for their medical and hospital services.

Control of Insurance Plan.

Any health insurance plan, says the report, must be under the control of the medical profession, in concert with the hospitals and allied services which may be involved in the individual project, together with a group of citizens representative of the whole community and of the industry which is interested in the plan.

The report holds that persons who make prepayments to insure hospital and medical care should be allowed to choose the physician and hospital to the end that the responsibility of the individual physician to the individual patient shall always be maintained. However, where hospitalization is required the choice of a physician must be limited to the staf of the hospital involved.

"Periodic prepayment plans for medical and hospital service," the report commented, "should eliminate many of the conditions which have brought about the development of industrial contract practice."

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

SPAIN'S BIG GUNS AND FLEET PUT ON VIEW FOR ZAMORA

Work of Fortifying Coast Brought to Light.

MADRID, June 10.—(AP)—President Niceto Alcala Zamora departed today for the Balearic islands, accompanied by military chieftains and his presidential staf, to review Spain's most elaborate naval maneuvers since establishment of the republic. The demonstration comes at a significant time. Vast improvements in the islands are being undertaken and the coastal defenses of semi-autonomous catalonia are being projected.

Three foreign nations, too, are watching developments in the Mediterranean with the closest attention. The Balearics are the so-called strategic heart of the Mediterranean, one of the chief focal points of controversy whenever the "Mediterranean problem" is discussed. British, French, and Italian interests are concentrated in the surrounding region.

Improve Submarine Bases.

Spain recently has decreed an elaborate fortification program, including the Catalonian and Balearic coasts. Mighty guns comparable in caliber to those of the American Atlantic and Pacific coastal defense are being installed, although there are only about half a dozen of them.

Improved submarine bases and anti-submarine defenses, air fields, and anti-aircraft stations are included in the projected plans. The total expenditure is reported from official sources to be several hundred million pesetas, although the exact amount is not revealed. More strict residence regulations for aliens recently have been ordered in the Balearic islands, designed partly to prevent espionage.

Although Mediterranean war talk is actually merely one of the many European political scarecrows, the Balearics undoubtedly hold a central position of great significance. France, Italy, and England are interested in seeing them adequately fortified to prevent easy capture in event of trouble. French and Italian rivalry for Spanish favor has been espcially keen in recent years.

Catalonians Alarmed.

Zamora's visit is reported to be connected with an examination of the fortifications planned for protection of the zone. The naval maneuvers include "attacks" on Catalonia and the Balearics designed to determine the extent of the necessary defense program. Catalonians are definitely alarmed over the demonstrations, evidently believing the maneuvers to be a show of strength on the part of the central government.

Possibly because of these expressed apprehensions from Barcelona, government officials have been secretive regarding the purpose of the president's visit to the proposed defense projects, saying it is merely a "courtesy review of the fleet."

ITALY TO BUILD TWO 35,000 TON WARSHIPS SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 10.—The Italian government officially announced today that it would lay down two 35,000 ton battleships this year to build the navy up to Washington treaty rights. One ship will be built in the Trieste naval yards and the other in Genoa.

Great Britain's Nelson and Hood are the two latest models and the most recently constructed of battleships around 35,000 tons. By utilizing her 70,000 tons to construct two large ships, Italy will surpass the heaviest French type of ship, the Dunkerque, which has only 25,000 tons. The decision to build battleships is apparently to enable Italy to exercise preponderant force and uphold her shipping lines in the eastern Mediterranean and the Black sea.

Today's official statement said the Italian government has hitherto refrained from building battleships, awaiting the outcome of the general arms limitation conference, but that since other nations have begun to increase their naval armaments, Italy will have to build. Construction of the two ships will add about $87,000,000 to the budget.

The war vessel will carry him to Istanbul and he will take a train from here to Ankara.

Italy Will Pay Nothing on Debt; Follows Britain's Lead

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 10.—Italy has been watching the reaction of American public opinion to England's failure to make the June 15 instalment on her war debts, and it is expected that Premier Mussolini's government will issue a declaration early next week announcing that Italy, too, will pay nothing.

According to opinion expressed here, American insistence on payments in full for June 15 was a good thing, for it made things easier to refuse to pay anything at all, and brought about in practice that united front on war debts which Mussolini preached in a series of newspaper articles a couple of years ago.

Italy Pleads Deficits.

In her declaration of inability to pay the June 15 instalment, Italy's reasoning will take the same lines as the British. And it may be pointed out also that Italy's billion lire trade deficit, and four billion lire budget deficit make it harder for her this year, than ever, to make even a token payment.

[The lira is currently worth 8.67 cents.]

The Italians point to the case of the French failure to pay even a token as further good reason why they should hand over nothing more to Uncle Sam.

"The French have fewer reasons for not paying than Italy," said a spokesman here.

"First, France is far richer than we are. Second, the French reparations share was much higher than ours. Third, she got more colonies. Fourth, when she refused payment, she had 90 billion gold francs [currently $5,960,250,000] in the bank. France spends much greater sums on military armament than we."

The European Tradition.

The reasoning is that since France and England refuse to pay, Mussolini's government, as a good European government, can't pay anything either.

Italy's funded debt is about $2,000,000,000. Her token payment last year amounted to about $1,000,000.

Newspaper comment on the United States war debt situation indicates that there has been a general understanding to create an impasse and outmaneuver congress so that the debts can either be scaled down or canceled.

Says one paper today: "The United States government, by insisting on integral payments, has really aided us to pay nothing at all."

SCHOONER HITS STEAMER; SINKS WITH CREW OF 5

Wind Carries Victims Away from Rescue.

BY JOHN M. BROWNE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 10.—The schooner Ethel Collett, 50 tons, went down 10 miles north of here with Capt. Martin Ford and four seamen early this morning after a head on collision with the steamer Silver City, captained by Reuben Vardy.

The Silver City, bound north on a salmon collecting cruise, towing the 74 ton schooner, I'm Alone 2d, left here for Hickman's Harbor, Trinity bay, at 10:30 o'clock last night. When off Torbay the mate on the steamr bridge sighted the Ethel Collett, which was en route from Conception bay to St. John's.

Vessels Alter Courses.

The schooner was seen running south for half an hour. The mate on the bridge, following the rule of the road, set the course of the Silver City to the starboard. The approaching vessel, for reasons that will never be known, altered her course in the wrong direction, bringing her to a head on collision, striking a glancing blow. The schooner's speed before a stiff northwest wind carried her along her course for some minutes. There was no fog, but there was intermittent sleet and rain.

Capt. Vardy, who had retired at midnight, rushed to the deck. He ordered the Silver City turned about, and, still towing the I'm Alone 2d, gave chase to the schooner. Not a word was heard from the Collett in response to calls from the steamer's crew calling for bearings, so that a rescue could be made. Sufficient time elapsed, Capt. Vardy says, to have saved the Collett's crew if she had not drifted on.

Hear Victims' Cries.

The Silver City's stern chase brought her within 100 yards of the derelict when the cries of the men on the sinking vessel, "'Save us, God save us," could be heard over the strong prevailing wind. The doomed schooner shot bow foremost beneath the waves.

The Silver City continued the search for wreckage and bodies until 8:30 a. m. today and returned to port, evidence for identification of the schooner having been secured, an empty water barrel.

A police boat put out from St. John's and picked up wreckage, a dory, and a valise which contained correspondence and papers which gave conclusive identification of the Ethel Collett.

CHINA IS PERTURBED OVER DESAPPEARANCE OF JAPANESE CONSUL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 11.—[Monday.]—The Chinese national government today declared it is seriously perturbed over the disappearance of Eimei Kuramoto, Japanese vice consul, who has been missing since Friday night. Police and gendarmerie throughout the Nanking district are scouring the area, particularly the banks of the Yangtse river, for the missing official. The belief is growing that he has committed suicide or has been murdered.

The Chinese report claims that Kuramoto last was seen at the Nanking railway station when Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese minister, was departing for Shanghai. On the other hand the Japanese alleged Kuramoto last was seen at the consulate when he walked down a darkened street looking for a taxicab.

The Chinese claim Kuramoto had resided in Nanking for a considerable period and was familiar with the city. They point out he was not likely to have become lost while returning home from the railroad station. The Chinese also claim it was possible Kuramoto boarded the train and came to Shanghai, but this report is denied. However, Chinese newspapers here published a report alleging that Kuramoto was seen here on a jetty. They suggest he may have boarded a vessel bound for Manchukuo.

MOTHER, SISTER SEE BOY DROWN.

Ottawa, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—Eugene Peterson, 11 years old, of Dayton, was drowned today while swimming in the Fox river at the Dayton dam, four miles north of here. He was in the water with his mother, Mrs. Ever Peterson, and his sister, Eveline, but after awhile got beyond their reach and suddenly went down into a water hole.

RUSSIA ELATED AT RECOGNITION BY LITTLE ENTENTE

Called New Link in Soviet Peace Chain.

MOSCOW, June 10.—(AP)—Recognition of the soviet government by Rumania and Czechoslovakia, and the certainty that recognition will be extended soon by Jugo-Slavia, were hailed with great enthusiasm today by the Russian public and the Moscow press.

The new understanding with the little entente, established at Geneva yesterday, was regarded as a triumph for the peace policy of Maxim Litvinov, Russian commissar for foreign affairs. It was pronounced a stabilizing influence in the troubled European situation.

The Pravda said that recognition is of special significance at this time "when the Danube is being converted into a military area."

Boasts of Peace Links.

"The raging race of armaments in all imperialistic countries shows that war clouds have lowered not only over the far east but also over Europe," the Pravda continued. "On this background the recognition in Geneva means an additional link in the long chain of measures for peace guarantees created by the soviet union."

Establishment of diplomatic relations between Russia and two nations of the little entente "is a blow for a group of adventurers which is opposing guarantees of safety and is still organizing military plots," the Pravda concludes.

The Izvestia said that recognition by the little entente strengthens guarantees of peace in the nonaggression pacts into which the Russian government has entered with many nations and proves the soviet union "is the greatest factor in maintaining peace in the world."

Nazis See French Hand.

BERLIN, June 10.—(AP)—Recognition of soviet Russia by the little entente powers is regarded by the German press to be an accomplished fact, although Jugo-Slavia's formal assent is being withheld pending the return of Foreign Minister Yevtitch to Belgrade from Paris.

Formal conclusion of the recognition agreement has been set for a meeting of the little entente at Bucharest June 18 to 20, and the expectation that Louis Barthou, French accomplishments of the Bucharest at that time is interpreted by some German observers as a revelation of "French anti-German machinations."

German papers agree a new chapter in relations between soviet Russia and the powers of southeastern Europe has been opened. It is expected the next step probably will be conclusion of a commercial agreement between the little entente and Moscow, one of the purposes being to minimize the effect of soviet dumping of lumber and cereals in the entente nations. Nonaggression and mutual assistance pacts are said to be in the background.

EXHORTS WEST POINT GRADUATES TO SCORN SAFETY, EXPEDIENCY

West Point, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—Expediency and safety must never rule lives, members of the graduating class at the United States military academy were told today by the Rev. R. E. Foust, chaplain, in his baccalaureate sermon.

Citing the attitude of a coast guard captain to a seaman reluctant to risk his life on what seemed to him a foolhardy attempt at rescue, he said:

"The captain turned to the fearful man and quietly said, we must go out. We do not have to come back."

This was the attitude the chaplain urged the class to have toward their lives, telling them "you can never trade your birthright except you squander your very soul."

KELLOGG HAILS INVESTIGATION OF ARMS TRADE

Washington, D. C., June 10.—(AP)—Foreseeing no likelihood of another world war, Frank B. Kellogg said today he was "extremely gratified" that the senate had authorized an investigation of munitions manufacture, and predicted its committee would make "startling revelations."

"The Nye investigating committee will strike real pay dirt," the former secretary of state asserted.

year, declared there was a close and definite connection between "war talk" and the selling of armaments, and hoped the senate committee would dig deep into the whole "revolting business."

"I see no probability of a world war again," the co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact said. "Nations and peoples have come to their senses, and have not forgotten and will not soon forget the awful horror, misery, and beastliness of the last conflict, which still has the world prostrate.

"'Civilization nearly succumbed in that conflict, and it would be ruined in another."

STERN RUSSIAN LAW IMPELLED BY FEAR OF WAR

MOSCOW, June 10.—(AP)—The new statute providing a death penalty for treason and making adult relatives of military traitors hostages jointly responsible and subject to heavy penalties is justified by the Moscow press today on the ground of necessity.

The Izvestia said the needs for such stern legislation are apparent when "capitalistic politicians" are using only "insincere phrases" in their disarmament speeches. The newspaper says dark forces are carrying on a feverish preparation for new wars and a redivision of territory at the expense of the soviet union.

The enemies of the soviet régime are said by the Izvestia to be endeavoring to undermine the Red army through coöperation with former owners of Russian properties abroad.

"Our Red army is our stronghold of peace and revolution," the newspaper added. "It is the flesh of the flesh and the blood of the blood of the working classes and the laboring masses."

COOL QUARTERS KEEP CONGRESS FROM QUITTING

Members Talk Home, but Linger On.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Newspaper reports from the capital these days frequently mention the near tropical heat which prevails. There is an implication in these stories that congress is making a noble sacrifice in extending its meeting late into June.

What seems to be not generally known is that both houses of congress are air conditioned and swept by cool and refreshing breezes which make them very pleasant gathering places in which to read and write, chat and make speeches.

One observer went so far as to assert that air conditioning, hailed as one of civilization's greatest boons, may prove a menace to the nation in so far as congress is concerned. There is a very obvious reluctance on the part of senators and representative to leave the comfortable legislative halls on hot days. As a result, the daily sessions stretch well after 6 o'clock in the evening, whereas 5 p. m. was a prompt quitting hour when the weather was still cool.

Ashurst Sizes Things Up.

Most of the legislators have publicly expressed themselves in favor of an early adjournment. Privately, they seem to be in no haste to quit. A penetrating summary of the situation was delivered last Friday on the floor of the senate by Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], who spoke in eloquent fashion as follows:

"There is at this time quite naturally much speculation in the press as to when congress will adjourn. I embrace the present opportunity to say that I am opposed to any adjournment of congress until legislation helpful toward national recovery shall have been enacted.

"Industrious as this congress has been, it should not adjourn unless, and until, its task shall have been fully performed."

Duty Before Fences.

Senator Ashurst confessed that he was personally anxious to go home and "repair some political fences that are now in a condition of disrepair."

"It is far better," he continued, his voice trembling with emotion, "that I should lose the nomination than that I should be remiss and truant to my duty here. I can with equanimity sustain any political defeat but I have not the temerity—the audacity—to face the charge that I abandoned my post here to promote my reëlection."

Senator Ashurst sent a copy of this speech to the press gallery, while Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] was moved to comment dryly:

"Whatever comment may be made upon the rare talent of the distinguished senator from Arizona, no one will claim that he is short of political psychology. He expresses the sentiment that probably is in the minds of a great many senators."

GIRL, 4, MISSING WEEK WITH NO CLEW; POLICE ADMIT BEING STUMPED

LEAH MINERVA DILLEY.

"The searchers are still out, but we haven't found a single trace," headquarters reported.

Of rumors that the girl was kidnaped and was being held near Sharon or that she met with violence or drowned, one official commented:

"We don't know what to think now."

The child is one of a family of 10 children.

"My baby is not in the water," the mother, Mrs. George Dilley, asserts. "Leah was always afraid of water. She cried even when I gave her a bath."

COUPLE, BURNED IN CABIN BLAST, DIE OF INJURIES

James T. Bell and his wife, Elle, of 6044 Stony Island avenue died yesterday in a hospital at Kankakee of burns incurred when their summer cabin on the Iroquois river was fired by the explosion of a gasoline stove Saturday night. Neighbors rescued the couple from the blazing cottage, but not until they were seriously burned.

The victims were brought 20 miles north to Kankakee in an automobile. Neither was able to tell how the fire started, but from an examination of the cabin it was evident the stove blew up, showering Bell and his wife with the blazing fluid.

Bell, who was 38 years old, was an efficiency expert for Wilson & Co., Inc., packers. Two daughters, Eleanor, 15 years old, and Imogene, 18 years old, survived. An inquest will be held today.

Calumet City Renames 154th Street for Pulaski

A parade in which Mayor John W. Jaranowski appeared as Casimir Pulaski was held in Calumet City yesterday afternoon as the main thoroughfare, 154th street, was renamed honor of the Polish hero of the revolutionary war.

Judge Roman Posauski and City Clerk Frank W. Angel donned costumes to impersonate Thaddeus Kosciuszko, and George Washington. Following the parade, Anthony Czamecki, collector of customs, addressed an assemblage in Payne's grove, 154th street and Torrence avenue.

SCHALL CHARGES PRESS GAG IS AIM OF WIRE CONTROL

Avers President Wants News Censored.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—[Special.]—Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] charged today that censorship of the press is aimed at by that provision of the communications bill directing the commission to report to congress by Feb. 1, 1935, "recommending such amendments to this act as it deems desirable in the public interest." He predicted that the commission would propose a censorship of news dispatches transmitted by the communications services over which it will have complete control.

"The Dill-Rayburn wire control bill is the new wedge to censorship of the press of the United States," said Senator Schall. "Under its provisions the commission is to report back to the next session Roosevelt's ideas of wire control. This bill places telegraph and telephone companies under the same restrictions as the radio. Every one knows that the radio is censored by the Roosevelt administration.

Avers It Is President's Wish.

"The President desires censorship even more than he did in the first session when he demanded passage of the Sumners bill, which made publishers liable to $10,000 fine and ten years in prison for printing news matter not first approved by the President or his duly authorized agents. 'Even more now,' because if the truth is told to the people from now until election there will be returned an anti-Roosevelt congress. Since the commission appointed under the Dill-Rayburn bill will be named by him its report can be forecast in advance as favoring censorship of press dispatches.

"Thus, for this reason, the safety of the nation lies in pledging every candidate for election this fall against press censorship. A campaign should be vigorously waged against every nominee who refuses to sign this pledge by going into their districts and calling on the electors to defeat all candidates who do not pledge themselves to support Article I. of the constitution of the United States. I am ready to go anywhere or to do anything I can to help.

Says Newspapers Too Silent.

"The press must be protected in its freedom. Te newspapers are entirely too reticent about this matter and the people must take it in hand for themselves, as their future liberty is all dependent on the right of a free press and free speech. These are the two essential weapons to get back for us the rights already stolen from us by this administration under the guise of 'recovery.'"

COURT TO HEAR INSULL ATTACK U. S. JURY TODAY

Marks Defendant's Second Move to Avoid Trial.

Samuel Insull's second move to avoid trial in the federal court is scheduled for today before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, Insull's lawyer, plans to make a plea in abatement attacking the validity of the grand jury which indicted Insull and 16 others in February, 1933, on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The first move in behalf of the former utility czar was a plea attacking the jurisdiction of the court to try Insull, a move which was overruled by Judge Sullivan last week. Judge Sullivan is expected to give a ruling on the new motion after oral arguments today. If the plea in abatement is overruled the next move by Attorney Thompson will be the filing of a demurrer.

Bills of Particulars.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said that if the demurrer is overruled the next step will be a hearing on the request of Insull's co-defendants for bills of particulars, which has been held up waiting for Insull's technicality defense to reach that stage.

The indictments in the state courts against Insull and his brother, Martin, who was head of the Middle West Utilities company, are also being delayed pending the disposition of preliminary motions. The trial of Samuel Insull Jr., who is also indicted with his father in the mail fraud case, and five other officers of the Northern Indiana Public Service company, scheduled to begin today at Crown Point, has been postponed until July 2.

Hear Arguments Today.

At the federal court hearing today the arguments will involve the methods used in the selection of the federal grand jury which indicted Insull. Attorney Thompson will argue that twelve of the twenty-three grand jurors who voted the indictment were residents of Cook county, where the proportion of Insull investors was greater than in surrounding counties.

Charles M. Bates, clerk of the United States District court, may be called upon to testify as to the system used in calling citizens for jury service in the federal courts.

Insull made his second visit to the World's Fair last night.

Headaches always come at the wrong time!

You'll never have to put up with an ordinary headache and all its accompanying annoyance, if you have a bottle of Bromo-Seltzer in your medicine cabinet. This fine old remedy relieves pain quickly and effectively.

So much better than mere pain-killers. Because it is a balanced compound of 5 medicinal ingredients, each one of which has an important effect in making you feel better. Also, you take Bromo-Seltzer as a liquid, so it's quicker to end your pain. Prompt relief for gas on the stomach is also assured. For, as Bromo-Seltzer dissolves, it effervesces.

Be sure and buy a bottle for your home. Keep it handy so you can relieve headaches, neuralgia, and other pains of nerve origin at a moment's notice. Insist on "Emerson's"—the one and only Bromo-Seltzer in the familiar blue bottle. A standby for over 40 years.

NEW PRICES CHANGE THE PICTURE

IF YOU READ the papers last week you probably saw that Plymouth had substantially reduced its prices.

Unless you are in the automobile business you probably don't realize just what this means.

It means the prices of "all three" are now so close you can well afford to dismiss that factor from your mind. What you should think about today is WHAT YOU GET FOR YOUR MONEY.

For instance, take this question of SAFETY. Surely nothing is more important than the protection of your family.

When you put your foot on the brakes you want your car to stop RIGHT IN ITS TRACKS.

When emergencies happen you don't want to depend on ordinary brakes that often make your car skid and swerve dangerously.

With Hydraulic Brakes you can jam the pedal down to the floor and STOP DEAD. The marks on the pavement will track straight ahead.

Even if Plymouth COST MORE it would be worth it . . . just for this one feature alone. But add to this the security of a Safety-Steel Body . . . the comfort of Floating Power engine mountings . . . the smoother ride of Individual Front Wheel Springing . . . and remember you get these features in Plymouth without spending one extra red cent.

Don't buy your next car through habit. Don't be blind to the changes that have taken place in the low price field. Go look at a Plymouth today . . . at any Dodge, DeSoto or Chrysler dealer. Buy no car until you do.

DOCTOR'S STORY OF QUINTS' BIRTH, GROWTH IS TOLD

Account Is Based on the Case History.

The following account of the Dionne quintuplets' birth and development, based on the case history, is the first story in which the facts have been authorized and checked by Dr. A. R. Dafoe.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Canadian Press.]

CORBEIL, Ont., June 10.—Hardy French-Canadian parentage, built up through generations of outdoor life in Ontario's north country, is the outstanding reason the tiny quintuplet daughters of Elzire Legros Dionne are still waging their brave struggle for existence. The babies were thirteen days old today.

A virile blood strain, unweakened by intermingling, and the orthodox care of a general practitioner who brought 1,500 babies into the world, has carried the quintuplets through in the face of handicaps that made their birth an event of world-wide import. The babies are gaining strength and within six or eight weeks will have attained the life expectancy of a normal child at birth. The multiple birth is not thought to have been due to heredity. Rather, it was a biological abnormality.

Attractive Mother Only 24.

The attractive mother, only 24 years old, will soon be back at the tasks of attending her five older children and aiding in the work of the Dionne farm. The 31 year old father works his farm alone though he weighs only 130 pounds.

The fact that after the birth of each of six other children Mrs. Dionne was up and about her work in three days indicates her hardihood. Five of these older children are living. Even after her life was threatened by complications attendant on the birth of the quintuplets she was able to leave her bed with the consent of her physician after eleven days. Most mothers in city hospitals take longer to recover.

The case history of the quintuplets reveals the pregnant condition was made known to the physician one week before the births and a visit was paid the expectant mother.

Physician Baptizes Children.

The physician was called to the two story four room Dionne home at 4 a. m. May 28, and when he arrived two children had been born and a third was being delivered. The fourth and fifth children arrived while he was present. The quintuplets were premature by two months.

The 50 year old country physician was uncertain he could save the lives of mother or children. Mrs. Dionne suffered a post-partum hemorrhage and, assisted only by a practical nurse, Dr. Dafoe carried out the usual treatment and cared for the infants. Although a Protestant, he baptized the children in the Roman Catholic faith, using the Latin form.

The physician emphasizes there was only one placenta. The fact there was only one led Dr. Dafoe to the opinion the children are identical, not fraternal. That is, there was only one ovum.

The days after the birth of the children and until proper facilities were available for their care were anxious ones for the physician. For the first few days Dr. Dafoe fed the children human milk collected from mothers in the district, but a shipment from Chicago eased his worries about food. Then came the assurance from Dr. Alan Brown of the Toronto Sick Children's hospital that a daily supply will be sent as long as the children need it.

Incubators Help Greatly.

Incubators sent from Chicago and Toronto—operated by hot water because electricity is not available—also have aided greatly.

The children now are being fed 2½ ounces of milk between them every two hours and in addition a small quantity of water in between feedings. A patented bottle, shaped like a tube and with a regular size nipple, is used. The bottle has a rubber bulb at the opposite end from the nipple and squeezing on this forces the food gently into their mouths.

The five tiny girls, who have been kept in incubators now for nine days, have characteristics that identify them readily to their nurses and physician.

Characteristics of Babies.

Yvonne is the plump one. Annette is next in the weight line, and then comes Cecile, who is vigorous and stretches often. Emilie has partially contracted arms, a condition that will not last. Marie is easiest to pick out because she has a red birthmark on her right thigh and cuddles up in her incubator like a little squirrel.

Yvonne was reported "somewhat weakened" today. Dr. Dafoe declined to say whether he expected her to die. The five children gained 4½ ounces in the last twenty-four hours. They now total 10 pounds 11¾ ounces.

Ram Aristocrat Joins Farm Colony

Meet the New Ram.

June 10, 1934.

I HAVE just managed to get a formal introduction to the aristocratic Corriedale ram that arrived at the auxiliary farm a few days ago. All joking aside, this introduction was quite an impressive occasion. First because this ram sort of stuns you with his good looks, and secondly because never have we seen such perfect manners in a young ram. He's almost as tame as a pet dog. I can see where all the sheep are going to turn around for a second look when this fellow from Sheridan, Wyo., walks through the pasture.

Right now this ram [he hasn't been given a name yet] is in the sheepfold all by himself. When I went out to see him Rawlings called him over just like a pet and up he came to stand inspection. He's a clean, white faced sheep with no wool coming down to his eyes. While he stood quietly I parted his magnificent coat of wool in one place to see how white it is and also how long it is. Then I noticed how the wool was growing way down on his legs to within an inch and a half of his hoofs. With a straight back, powerful hindquarters, fine head, and arrogant mien, this Wyoming ram looks every inch an aristocrat. In his ear he has a private-brand, metal tag bearing the name of the former owner, M. Moncreiff, Sheridan, Wyo. This well bred ram is going to be turned out with a selected group of ewes this fall for the purpose of producing a much higher grade of both wool and mutton.

A pair of barn swallows is mighty busy right now building a nest in the quarters occupied by this ram. I saw them darting in and out of the sheepfold twittering softly. After looking around for a few seconds I found where the birds had just started their mud nest on the side of a rafter. They certainly showed good judgment in picking this particular spot for their mason work because there are two nails sticking in this rafter to give them a sort of anchorage for their new home.

While the swallows were hauling mud from the pond about a half mile away in order to make their nest, just outside in the barnyard I could see the Barred Rock hens that are bringing up turkey families ordering every young poult to take his dust bath. The "bathing pool" is a strip of earth next to a rail fence. Here the hens and the young turkeys slide into a thin bit of shade next to the fence, and then excavate shallow depressions in which they can fluff the dust over themselves. And above all this activity sounds the shrill, high pitched "peep, peep, peep" of the poults talking to each other while they take their dust baths.

The last wild goose to leave her nest at the big pond has just received a black mark for her work. She didn't hatch out a single gosling. That makes five wild geese with failures this spring. Not one of these birds has hatched out any goslings.

The showers which put more water into the pond last week apparently didn't pacify a big turtle that used to live in the water hole. This big fellow, approximately 15 or 16 inches long, must have thought that he could find a better place to live because he left the pond and started hiking across country. But he was picked up by one of the boys and converted into turtle soup in short order!

CONVICT WOMAN IN OUIJA BOARD KILLING IN WEST

St. Johns, Ariz., June 10.—(AP)—An Apache county jury convicted Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley of "intent to murder" in the "ouija board" killing of her husband, Ernest J. Turley, retired navy gunner's mate.

Turley was shot last Nov. 18 by his 15 year old daughter, Mattie, who is serving a term in the Arizona State School for Girls on plea of guilty to "attempted murder," made before her father died Dec. 26 in Naval Base hospital in San Diego.

The jury took the case last night.

Judge P. A. Sayer set July 7 as date for sentencing. Mrs. Turley's counsel gave notice they would seek a new trial. The penalty is five years to life imprisonment.

The jury heard 11 days' testimony, by which the state sought to prove that Mrs. Turley influenced Mattie by occult means and promises of reward. The defense sought to establish the shooting was accidental.

Mattie testified that under the influence of her mother and her ouija board she deliberately shot her father "so mother could marry a handsome cowboy."

HOLD WOMAN IN KILLING.

Mrs. Anna Johnson, 36 years old, 1707 Carroll avenue, colored, was being held by Warren avenue police last night in connection with the fatal stabbing in her home Saturday of Philip Reese, 34, 1738 Fulton street, also colored. Two other colored men were also being held.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLANNED SOCIETY.

President Roosevelt has outlined his plan for American society. His message to congress was a preview of what he proposes to ask in legislation later when he will try to make the New Deal produce the New Era. He wants to banish fear and insecurity from life. He would make the government the means by which every citizen could be guaranteed, for himself and his family, protection against hazards and misfortune.

The President sees as avoidable evils such terrors of life as loss of employment and revenue and destitution in illness and old age. He believes the government can take people from barely endurable conditions and place them where the future will give them a living with security in decent homes with no fear of want.

Progress toward these terms of life has been the purpose of civilization. America has been dedicated to such ideals. Its achievements turned all men's faces to it, and they came to it from all parts of the world, realizing here hopes they could not have entertained elsewhere. The world recognized that the American social system under the American form of government made this civilization possible.

Mr. Roosevelt's hopes for the future are the hopes common to all Americans. He has one way of seeking a realization of the ideal. It is not the way many Americans can adopt. THE TRIBUNE cannot adopt it. The President appeals to experience. We believe it will give evidence against him.

His way is along a road which has been traveled before, in older times and in these times. It is the road which was taken by Hitler, by Mussolini, and by Lenin and his successor, Stalin. These extremes have a common meeting place. To their ideas THE TRIBUNE prefers the principles of Washington, of Jefferson, and of Lincoln, founders and defenders of a nation which has safeguarded liberty and fostered material welfare. Idealism and reality were joined in the American system which has flourished and prospered.

THE TRIBUNE does not believe there is any reason to confess defeat and throw the sponge in the ring. People of little faith may have succumbed and have become defeatists, but their fears are not justified by the past or waranted by what any one can perceive of the future.

We cannot conceive of a nation successfully meeting the future if the government assumes all the responsibilities its citizens care to throw upon it Such a scheme would demoralize almost any citizenship and no public treasury could stand the strain. The government itself is supported by the individuals who can support themselves. It does not derive its revenue from magical sources but from the products of national intelligence and work.

If the exercise of intelligence and of labor is not required for the full life in America there soon will be little reason for one citizen to exercise himself more than another. Some extraordinary persons may work because it is the law of their lives, but if Smith does not have to do so and is yet as secure and protected as Jones, Jones will seek the same advantages as Smith. Jones would be a strange creature if he drove himself to tasks which supported Smith.

Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin perceive this danger to their schemes. Therefore they command. They conscript and shackle. Their planned societies require and use compulsion.

Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln conceived another form of society. It has endured tests. If sustained it will endure tests to come. In other directions there is moral and physical collapse. THE TRIBUNE cannot follow President Roosevelt on the road to Berlin, Rome, or Moscow.

EXTRA! ENGLAND'S PLAYING BASEBALL.

England and Scotland played a baseball game recently in Edinburgh and Scotland won, 24 to 3. The Scotch team was made up of students from the University of Edinburgh and the University of Scotland. The English players represented the Nation Baseball association. It was the first international game for the teams.

How long has this been going on? The news report is inadequate. Is something momentous happening all unobserved in the British isle? [Query to proofroom: how do you propose to play it this time? Ile or isle? If British ile, you fight the war. Wherever the British strike ile they send their battleships.] Heretofore the English have not been able to see baseball any better than they now can see the American debt. It has been a glorified game of rounders.

Americans have not been able to understand how the skill displayed in baseball could be overlooked by English spectators, who have been given exhibition after exhibition, received politely but in boredom. Although the fine points of cricket are lost on the average American, the game has been taken up in the United States and visitors are offered many handsome opportunities to give our players a trimming. American colleges obligingly have taken up rugby football, and here again many handsome opportunities are offered the visiting sides, Canadian or English.

Soccer, for some reason the most dangerous of international sports, even more poisonous than tennis, has long had a foothold in the American calendar. American soccer is seldom quite as good as the foreign challenge of it but the sport has been fostered by players who knew the game abroad or who have inherited it from migrating predecessors. Americans cannot understand why the English think rugby a better game than American football, which the colleges developed from rugby. Here, as in the cricket-baseball issue, temperaments differ and the eyes follow the temperament.

Of recent years sports have tended to spread themselves across national boundaries. The athletes like variety and novelty. The wider the range of sports the more chance there is for individuals to find a play for their particular aptitudes. All this being granted, Americans are unprepared to learn that the British are playing baseball. Now the walls of Jericho do come tumbling down. England, although apparently serene, must be quivering under the crust with radicalism, new dealing, and revolution. The last of the Tory squires must be toddling with bowed head toward the graves of his ancestors. To the American movies and the American language, Gothic invaders, is added the game of baseball.

The Tory squire hears a frightful voice crying: "Stri—ke thr—e—e—e, yur out." That squire has been a stout hombre in his day and way. He will greet the invader with "Nertz to you," and dive under the roots of the ivy, seeking peace.

APPROVAL OF BAIL BONDS.

State's Attorney Courtney has asked the judges of the Municipal court to adopt a rule providing that all bonds in felony cases be submitted to the bond department of the state's attorney's office before they are accepted and the prisoner released. The proposal, we understand, has the approval of a majority of the court but is opposed by a minority who contend that it would unduly restrict the authority of the judges or that it would cause unnecessary delays in the release of reputable citizens who are not likely to get out of reach when trial is at hand.

We do not think the objections are of much weight. As for the judge's authority, it would remain unchanged under the proposed rule. The judge would still have full authority to accept a bond and release the prisoner, but he would have the information essential to a proper decision. If he chose to ignore the report of the bond bureau he would have the same authority to approve as he now has. But the hasty and suspicious action which from time to time discredits the courts would be either prevented or at any rate discouraged. Judges of integrity cannot object to the rule which is a protection for them, while the objection of judges who wish to retain the ability to grant favors ought not to be considered.

Bond approval at midnight has been scandalous and the new rule would eliminate this scandal by requiring that bonds shall be approved only during court hours and only by judges of the felony court, the automobile court, and the bond court. Both the felony court and the automobile court are in the same building as the state's attorney's bond department and delays could not be serious. It is objected that a reputable citizen might be taken after the bond department had closed, and this might occur Saturday night to keep the person charged, perhaps without reason, until the opening of the courts Monday. State's Attorney Courtney remarks upon this objection that exceptions should be made in special circumstances, but the exceptions should be defined as fully as possible so as to prevent or reduce abuses of bail.

In short, we think, Mr. Courtney's plan should be given a conscientious test. If it doesn't work beneficially it can be repealed.

HOW THE BABY GROWS!

It will be recalled that the original emergency railway legislation, known as the coördinator act, provided that the expense of this new bureau should be borne by the railways, which were to contribute one dollar for each mile of railway under operation. After a year's experience the coördinator has discovered that such small allowance cramps his style to a certain extent and has asked two dollars per mile for the ensuing year. The new baby bureau will henceforth cost a half million dollars annually.

In unanimously acceding to the coördinator's request the house very probably had in mind that this amount would be paid by the railways and therefore was not an administration expense, but in assuming this attitude they entirely overlook the fact that the interstate commerce act places upon the interstate commerce commission the duty of so adjusting freight rates that the carriers will earn a fair return on property devoted to purposes of transportation. The money must come from somewhere. Very few railways have surpluses, and accordingly it must be borne by commerce.

The experience of the commission, however, has been that to increase railway revenues by the process of advancing rates is very much like climbing a sand hill. A step forward is contemplated, calculated to yield a given amount of progress or additional revenues. After the step has been accomplished it is found that the sand or commerce has so adjusted itself that the net result is a diminutive fraction of the determined purpose. A slip backward even may result.

PLENTY OF HELP.

[Detroit News.]

Like Dickens' novels, the Congressional Directory rewards the reader with new and overlooked riches at every reading. During the incubation of an idea having to do with agriculture it occurs to a writer to consult the directory for the present official designation of Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and nominated but not confirmed as undersecretary of agriculture. This, among other things, is what meets the eye:

There is an assistant secretary, Dr. Tugwell, and three assistants to the secretary, Messrs. Appleby, Baldwin, and Le Cron. There is also a private secretary to the secretary, Mary Huss. Then there are assistants to the assistant secretary, F. P. Bartlett and Grace E. Falke, who are not to be confused with the secretary to the assistant secretary, Faye M. Bailey, or with the special assistant to the secretary, who is Julien B. Friant.

If the whole thing is still not clear and one feels that clarity is important, there is also in the department a director of information, M. S. Eisenhower, whose special mission, we take it, is to know an assistant secretary from a secretary to the assistant at a glance.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Dear Jim: You say we've all become so listless because of the can opener, prepared food at the delicatessen, tinned food, and ready sliced bread that we don't know what to do with our leisure time and that we're liable to be bored to death, and you recommend that everybody adopt a hobby costing not more than a dollar a week.

Listen, Jim, where are you going to find a hobby these days for a dollar a week? I've got a hobby—my motor car. Ask me if I can indulge in my hobby for a dollar a week. But you had better ask by telephone. That gasoline glutton that I ride around in costs me about that much an hour. That bus is going to land me in the poorhouse some day, and I used to think that anyhow I would have the finest car out there, but heck, I couldn't show off in it before the other boarders because of what the gasoline cost me. Did you ever buy gasoline, Jim, for an auto that was born thirsty?

So as a hobby the automobile is out so far as I am concerned. Now what else have we in the hobby line? Well, there's cocktails. A lot of people must be taking up cocktails for a hobby, for every match box, lead pencil, or baking powder can these days contains a cocktail recipe. People sit up nights thinking up new names for the cocktails they've invented. It's a nice hobby and perfectly harmless up to the time you've invented fifteen or twenty cocktails and tried 'em all and begun throwing the chairs out of the window.

But, Jim, believe me, from the heart out I tell you that you can't make a hobby out of cocktails for a dollar a week. One bottle of gin costs more than that, and then there's the overhead, the shaker, the cocktail glasses, the ice, the French vermouth, the Italian vermouth, the whisky, and all the cordials you have to get if you are going to do any real experimenting in new cocktails. And then there's the cute little glasses you have to serve the darned stuff in, and you're not buying any cocktail glasses for a dollar a dozen. Not on your life. The breakage on cocktail glasses alone, take it from one who knows, is enough to make a dollar a week look like a sick kitten.

And besides—even if you do think up a real cute cocktail that isn't down in the bartenders' guide and you invite a dozen friends up, four of them will say, "Oh, nix, I don't like cocktails. Where's your Scotch?" And you've got to have a good brand of Scotch ready—try to buy a good brand of Scotch for a dollar. That ought to get a good laugh out of you, Jim, if you've been buying any Scotch since repeal. Then after that thirsty four have grabbed the Scotch bottle and walked off to a corner with it (good-by Scotch), and you continue to pass around the delicious cocktail that you thought up all yourself, about four more of your guests, usually the ladies, will squeal loudly and say, "Oh, I hate that abominable stuff. I want straight gin." Bingo, there goes a lot more of the gin. The next four guests may sip gingerly of your new cocktail, but they'll say it's too dry or too sweet or that you've got too much curacao or baking soda or cornmeal in it or that you boiled it too long or some dirty crack like that, and if you stand back and turn 'em loose at the bar they'll make you a cocktail as is a cocktail. And bang! There goes every drop of alcoholic stuff you've got in the house. No, you can't play with a cocktail hobby for any dollar a week.

Now what else is there that's rated a hobby that I might take up? There's tennis, but I would get more bored playing tennis than I would watching a race between an earthworm and a caterpillar. And I never could bring myself to say "forty love"; I would be afraid somebody would knock me down with a powder puff. And golf's the same way. It is a grand game for those who like it, but I'd rather play parcheesi or button-button-who's-got-the-button. Anyhow, golf and tennis are a couple of hobbies that'll set anybody back much more than a dollar a week. Think of what tennis rackets cost! And golf clubs! You can probably get along with one tennis racket, but there's no end of golf clubs. Even when you've bought every club you ever heard of somebody will bring out one with a shaft made of whalebone, steel springs, rubber, and raw silk that rings a bell if you're not holding it right, and then you'll have to buy that. For a hobby costing only a dollar a week tennis and golf are distinctly out.

Now, of course, there's polo—but let us hasten on. One dollar wouldn't buy a toothbrush for a polo pony, those animals being very choosy about the kind of toothbrush their valets use on their teeth. Crossword puzzles, even counting in what the newspapers, the pencils, and a dictionary cost, might come in the class of a dollar a week hobby. But wait! I know a game that's a lot funnier than crossword puzzles. You pull the feathers out of a feather duster, and you can get a feather duster for half a dollar. Then you get a small can of New Orleans molasses, say twenty-five cents a can, you smear the New Orleans molasses on your hands and smack your hands down on the loose feathers from the feather duster. Then you pull the feathers back and forth, the game being to get all the feathers on one hand. There's a hobby that's going to cost less than a dollar. Nice, clean sport and it ought to keep a body from being bored. If I must have a hobby costing less than a dollar, me for the feather duster and the can of New Orleans molasses.

DROPSY.

THE old fashioned word, dropsy, has fallen into disuse. It was easy to remember and it was tied to a fairly prevalent disorder and one which any person could recognize. Therefore it came to be widely used. It referred to an excess of fluid in the tissues and sometimes also to excess fluid in such cavities as those of the pleura, the pericardium, and the peritoneum. It has always been an effect rather than a disease; but that is also true of headaches, diarrhea, fever, and other terms which refer to the effects rather than causes, and which are still in fairly general use.

Perhaps one reason for discarding the term dropsy was that the condition was due to so many causes, and quite different ones, such as heart disease, kidney disease, cirrhosis of the liver, and many more, that it was thought best to get a new name. The term edema was selected and popularized. But it was not advisable to stop there.

Research has taught us a great deal about the causes of edema and improvement in treatment has followed. Those cases that are due to heart disease are generally lumped together under the term congestive cardiacs. This heart breakdown can be prevented for years by judicious care. Some surgeons are reporting cases of it treated successfully—at least, as far as relief for a while is concerned—by removal of the thyroid gland.

The next most frequently thought of cause of edema is Bright's disease. As to that kind of edema the views of physicians are undergoing a most radical change. Dr. C. A. Elliott affirms that "the state of the kidneys, save under exceptional circumstances, has little to do with the mechanism which determines the retention of fluid in the body. There is general edema in some diseases of the group called Bright's disease, but it is caused indirectly by changes in body chemistry and not by the condition of the kidneys indirectly."

Drinking very little water as a measure for the prevention of general edema he thinks useless. As for the milk diet in its various forms he thinks that, as a rule, it is quite ineffective. What is more, it may do harm. The low meat and egg diet almost universally used in the old days usually does more harm than good. Both the milk diet and the low meat and no egg diet increase edema by reason of protein hunger.

Dr. Elliott advocates dieting, but along a different line. The diet should contain enough proteins, carbohydrates, fats, iron, and vitamins. The way he would modify it consists principally in reducing the sodium intake. We ordinarily use over 45 grains of table salt daily in and on our food. This should be cut very low—to what is loosely designated as a salt free diet. The diet should be one that is designated as acid base, which means more bread, cereals, meats, and fats and less vegetables and fruits. In place of common salt, potassium salt or some of the salt substitutes can be used as condiments just as diabetics use saccharine as a condiment instead of sugar.

Cabbage and some other foods are high in potash. These should be eaten by preference. Furthermore, the acid trend may be increased by taking some one of the ammonia salts or calcium chloride or muriatic acid. In certain cases in which there is a great accumulation of fluids in the tissues physicians use certain newer remedies, some of which are mercurials, to cause a rapid drainage of fluid from the tissues. All in all, there is much more that can be done for general edema than was possible ten years ago. The suggestion of changed diet may apply to the swelling of the feet, of which so many complain in hot weather. Less salt on their food, more meat and bread, and less vegetables and fruit, and, maybe, a little old fashioned acid tonic may remove the source of their discomfort.

GET RID OF CAT.

M. O. C. writes: You will remember I wrote you some weeks ago about my little girl, 3 years old, who had hard breathing spells which you and two other doctors here pronounced bronchial asthma and which another doctor called bronchitis. We did give her the asthma tests recommended, but on the advice of a nurse we disposed of her Persian cat, of which she was very fond and which she babied constantly. Since this she has had no recurrence of these attacks.

CYST ON CHEEK.

C. A. writes: For many years my husband has had a cyst on his right cheek. At times it fills up with pus and sometimes he squeezes it out several times a day. At other times water or blood comes out of it. Sometimes his cheek need only be touched lightly to cause this stuff to come out and other times it doesn't seem so full. This has a very offensive odor.

REPLY.

This cyst may have originated in one of the salivary glands. Some part of your description indicates such origin. Or it may be due to retention in some other gland. Whatever the source the proper treatment is removal or obliteration of the sac. This is usually done by operation. In some cases the sac can be obliterated by injecting an irritating chemical into it.

MUMPS IS MUMPS.

J. S. writes: Is it possible to get mumps from smoking?

REPLY.

No. Mumps comes from mumps.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, June 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly explain in your column what [1] pauper's bankruptcy is. 2. Can a person owing $200 file a pauper's bankruptcy? 3. If so, how does one go about it and how much does it cost? J. J.

1. These two words are not commonly used together. Any person going through bankruptcy is supposed to have more debts than assets and in this sense would be a pauper. Upon filing an affidavit that the petitioner is unable to pay court fees [commonly called a pauper affidavit], these fees could be postponed. It is possible that this is what you have in mind.
2. He can go through bankruptcy.
3. Ordinarily the first step is to employ an attorney.

LIMITATION PERIOD CONTRACTS.

Cicero, Ill., June 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Twelve years ago my mother loaned my aunt several hundred dollars. My aunt has never returned the money, nor has she paid interest. The only proof my mother holds is a statement written by her in which she states the following: "Helen, I owe you $700," followed by her signature. Can mother regain this money by suing? E. O. B.

The Illinois limitation period on written contracts is ten years from the maturity date. If there has been no payment or promise to pay, it seems probable that this obligation is barred by lapse of time.

WORDING OF WILL CONTROLS.

Oak Park, Ill., June 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise if it is compulsory for an executor or guardian of minor children to sell real estate and stock when the time arrives to make a settlement with the heirs. The heirs do not want it sold. This estate is in Indiana. M. M. B.

Your use of the word "executor" implies that there is a will. In such case the obligation of the executor depends upon the wording of the will. If all of the heirs are satisfied to take the property as it is, we see no reason why any official should insist on selling.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The Englishman is becoming more and more air minded every day. Civilian enthusiasm for aviation was never greater than it is today. Few counties in England are without their private aero clubs, and everybody qualified to express an opinion says Great Britain is on the threshold of a great boom in civil aviation.

No statistics can provide more reliable indications of the increasing popularity of flying among civilians than those recording the issue of A licenses. Ten years ago only 63 men obtained an A license; today A licenses are held by 2,501 men and 103 women. Club secretaries are confident that, with renewals and new licenses, this year will send the total of private pilots up with a bound.

Private clubs have played an important part in making aviation popular. It has been through the medium of the club that the middle classes have taken up flying.

Men and women who joined originally to share the amenities of the ordinary club are being caught up in the enthusiasm of the flying members and swelling their ranks. At first they were attracted by the tennis courts, bathing pools, and gaming rooms. Now the airdrome is the attraction.

It has been demonstrated to them that it costs only a few pounds to learn to fly, and that the actual business of flying is comparatively easy. A sum of $150, in most cases, covers the entire bill, including the annual subscription to the club.

At the Reading Aero club, one of the most go-ahead in the country, it is the women who are demonstrating their keenness in developing an increased interest in flying. They have planned a special cocktail party for the club at-home on June 9, by which it is hoped to raise $250 to serve as a flying scholarship.

At Reading, too, there is a parachute school, and no fewer than thirty pupils have made successful drops. One was a young London schoolgirl who took the jump on her first flight.

F. G. Miles, designer of the Miles Hawke light airplane, is on the staf at Reading, and his plane has done a great deal towards making aviation clubs popular, and even much farther afield than the clubs themselves. His is the only airplane in the world with a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour that can be bought for $2,250. Gasoline consumption is only five gallons per hour, or twenty-five miles per gallon. It is a practical demonstration that aviation is no longer a luxury sport, and brings flying within reach of the middle class purse.

SOLDIERS, NOT TILLER GIRLS.

Chicago, June 3.—Mr. Lindsay's letter, while it was partially deserved, contained a bit more criticism than was necessary. He is no doubt unaware that the parade which called forth his tirade was more a ceremony to open the Fair than a showing of military strength. The city fathers may be neither intelligent nor beautiful, as he says, but it is difficult to run a city without them. For that matter, any celebration in dear old London is always graced by the presence of its lord mayor and aldermen in all the glory of their medieval trappings.

About the soldiers not keeping in step and alignment: It may interest him to know that about seven thousand of those soldiers are members of the National Guard, and as such, drill one night a week. Also, the formation used in that parade was based on the old close order drill, which we had not used for more than a year; and after that length of time, with only two drills as preparation, it would seem that the parade was very well carried off. In addition to that, the formation in which we were marching, three companies abreast in column of squads, is difficult to keep dressed, even with continual drill, so it may easily be seen that for us who never marched in that formation before it was more than difficult.

The various Legion posts have their regular formations, which never vary, whereas a great number of our men were marching in groups new to them. This factor, of itself, is not conducive to a good showing.

If Mr. Lindsay has ever worn a steel helmet, he will know that after a time it becomes most uncomfortable, and a change to almost any position is a relief. The rifles were slung over the shoulder because on a march of that sort that position is easier on the soldier than marching at shoulder arms.

It is, to say the least, in very poor taste for a foreigner to come here and criticize that which helped his countrymen when they most needed help. If he were a citizen he might have some excuse. I wonder if he knows that among the American soldiery A. E. F. means "After England Failed"?

AN ILLINOIS GUARDSMAN.

SPEAKING OF MONEY CHANGERS.

Chicago, June 7.—Starting with the last campaign and continuing ever since, I have read and heard over the radio a lot of talk about "driving the money changers from the temple."

I have always wondered just who these money changers are, and who among the drivers is qualified to cast the first stone.

I have even wondered if the reason for driving them out wasn't mainly just to make room for other money changers.

From what I have read and heard lately it seems to be even worse than that, and it looks now as though it it will be necessary before congress adjourns for the President to ask for an emergency appropriation of a few million dollars to build a sizable addition to the temple to accommodate the new bunch of money changers, as it certainly is getting crowded. G. H. VAN CLEVE.

FACTS FOR P. M'GILOVICK.

Maywood, Ill., June 6.—Your correspondent, Patrick McGillovick, ought to write of his unique experiences during the world war; for dull facts should never be allowed to limit the imagination. He tells of cooling chow by the use of abandoned Scotch rifle butts, but cleverly hides the secret of such remarkable refrigeration. Should he relate this incident verbally to a Scottish veteran, he will probably smile, or keep an eye on a copper, for Highlanders are a dour race who can't always appreciate the subtlety of a Hibernian joke.

Half a million Canadian boys fought during fifty months, losing 51,870 killed in action and 3,750 prisoners. Had the A. E. F. in France, totaling over two millions, suffered in relative proportion to period of service during the nineteen months America was in the war, their loss would have been 76,000 killed in action. The adjutant general of U. S. forces in France reported the total loss in killed, or died of wounds, as 50,150, and 4,416 prisoners.

Such, alas, is the difference between fact and fiction. BUCKTON NENDICK.

SO IT REDUCES OUTPUT AND RAISES PRICES.

Chicago, June 7.—There seems to be a great deal of doubt as to the intent of the national administration, where it is leading and why. The writer does not lay claim to the title of seer, but certain things are definite and clear.

It is agreed that the world must change, and in view of such change the influences of yesterday are no longer the influences of today. With this in mind the administration is endeavoring to build a new order, one patterned on the needs of the present and looking to the future instead of living in the past. It is intended to modify and change the practices of the past only because they are no longer compatible with the environment of the present. To do so would seem to be only common sense. Washington is building on the foundation of an abundance for all instead of a great deal for a few and the scraps for the many, and the thought is that while mistakes may and will be made, the ultimate goal is well worth striving for, the game distinctly worth the candle.

NEW DEAL JUNKS B. T. WASHINGTON LESSON TO NEGRO

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tuskegee, Ala., June 10.—[Special.]—Fifty-three years ago the late Booker T. Washington founded Tuskegee institute and began teaching the Negro that his way to advancement was to get his own parcel of land, live off the fat of his acres, work hard and get away from single cropping cotton, diversify and fertilize and grow two bales of cotton where one grew before and two bushels of corn where only one had been harvested.

Now, after half a century, Tuskegee seems somewhat bewildered, just as are the white planters in the south and the cotton men in the markets of Houston and New Orleans over the effects of acreage reduction under the Agricultural Adjustment administration and the Bankhead act.

A New Philosophy.

For the old philosophy of increased abundance, the New Deal has substituted the doctrine of enforced scarcity. The old teachings have been turned upside down. Much rural labor, mostly Negro, has been displaced by the cut in acres. In the famous black belt of Alabama, just south of the middle line of the state, once champion cotton country until the boll weevil cut in, tenant farmers, share croppers and field laborers, white and black, seem to be getting indoctrinated with the idea "the government owes us a living."

Disbursements of plow-under money and of other farm benefits and of direct relief doles are regarded as having been a life saver for the south and care of the destitute, both in the country and cities finds no critics down here. But the easy money has been so easy to get that in many instances planters and research workers declare it is reducing the desire to work. On the trip, from Cape Girardeau, Mo., through Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, one stock comment the observer has heard bears reference to the almost inexplicable spectacle of farm workers on land lush with means of growing sustenance, on the government bread line during the winter months and even now.

Results Sadden Authority.

This phase was briefly commented on today by Monroe N. Work, leading authority on Negro statistics, who in 1908 founded the department of records and research at Tuskegee.

"The psychological difference is the worst phase," said Mr. Work. "Many people seem to have lost the incentive for self-help.

"Rural workers have found out the government will feed them in the bread line. And what the government gives in the way of a dole is often about twice as much as what the recipient would get if he worked. So why should he work? It's money in his pocket not to work, so he argues. The result has been a great loss of the self-help spirit and of self-reliance and a growth of a tendency to depend more on government doles than upon industry and exertion. That is the sad feature to me—the change that has taken place in psychology."

On a trip to Tuskegee some years ago this observer heard Booker Washington preach a Sunday sermon to some 3,000 Negroes a few miles out in the country. His whole sermon was an exhortation to the farmers, tenants and laborers to use whitewash and paint and slick up their cabins, plant gardens and have plenty of kitchen truck and vegetables, keep chickens, pigs and a cow, increase their scale of living and live on the fat of the land through their own works, improve the methods of farming, produce more cotton and corn per acre and diversify.

Against this philosophy of plenty, which was spread by county agents and agricultural departments, so scores of thoughtful planters have pointed out on this tour, the AAA lessens cotton and corn production by paying rent for acres made idle, while the Bankhead act puts a 50 per cent penalty for raising more cotton on an acre than is stipulated in the contract with the government.

Few Have Gardens.

The AAA is stimulating the growing of gardens and the raising of chickens and cows by persons working on the land in order to derive the family sustenance, but that is uphill work. Families are in the field working on the cotton and the corn, and many of the cabins have well kept truck patches and chickens and a cow and perhaps a pig or two. But they are far from a majority. And the bulk of the cotton field hands see their employment reduced by the 40 per cent cut in acreage. The one crop system still holds farming back in many of the counties. During the war, most people in this area, except the most shiftless, had gardens. After the war cotton went up like a skyrocket and home gardens slumped.

Cotton is the great cash crop. Small farmers find it difficult to market corn and other crops, unless there is a local market. In egg raising, for example, research workers say a farmer in most places would find it difficult to take a basket of eggs to the store and trade it for a pair of overalls.

The per capita farm income in Alabama for 1928 was estimated at $238, and the farm family production value was $1,190. This, however, is not much of a measure of the actual cash a tenant or cropper actually handles in a year. For day labor the rate runs from 75 cents to a dollar a day from sunup to sundown, and some authorities figure the days worked per year generally range between 100 and 150 when employment is good.

Whites Improve Schools.

Education has progressed in recent years in Alabama and other southern states and racial relations have kept improving. The school plan set in motion by the gifts of the late Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, a benefactor of Tuskegee, has established many new schools.

In the last two decades some 5,000 of these schools have been built in the south for Negroes, at a cost of some $26,000,000. Of this four millions came from the Rosenwald fund, the Negroes gave five millions, the local whites in the community one million and the educational authorities $16,000,000.

It stimulated the white people to improve their own school houses. There was hardly a community where a Negro school was established that did not see to it that a better school was put up for white children. It is estimated that the four million dollars given by Mr. Rosenwald probably was instrumental in the building of at least 100,000,000 dollars of school buildings in the southern states.

One trouble is that little advance has been made in the pay of teachers in the Negro schools, although their educational requirements have been advanced. The pay of rural Negro teachers runs $15 to $40 a month, with a probable average estimated at $30 a month, which is little more than an ordinary cotton field hand gets, when he is employed.

Illiteracy is diminishing. When Tuskegee was established in 1881, the Negro's illiteracy was rated at 75 per cent; today it is at 10 or 12 per cent; Negroes owned 10 million acres, where today they own 22 million acres, although much of this has been lost through taxes. When property holdings of the Negro half a century ago had a total value of 70 million dollars, in 1931, they were figured at 2½ billion dollars. Where in 1881, 120,000 Negroes owned their homes, in 1931, 750,000 owned homes, a few indications of the progress in which Tuskegee has taken a lead. Of the graduates of Tuskegee, 35 per cent are in teaching, 30 per cent in mechanical industries, 12 per cent in business, and 20 per cent are home makers. About 75 per cent of them have located in the south, the others in the north.

CITY'S BEACHES PLAN OPENINGS FOR THIS WEEK

300 Life Guards Given Final Drills.

Most of Chicago's 14 major beaches will be formally opened this week with a force of nearly 300 life guards assigned to them.

In all of the parks and at the city's natatoriums and pools for the last two weeks workmen have been making final repairs and adding beach equipment while the guards were being drilled in rescue and resuscitation methods.

Common sense will govern bathing suit requirements, according to beach officials. Lincoln park commissioners, however, made a special regulation forbidding men to swim in trunks only.

The city of Chicago and Lincoln park beaches will open next Saturday, and the south park opening is scheduled for June 23. At west parks 26 pools are now available to the public and 14 more will be opened July 1, when repair work is completed.

130 Lifeguards Drilling.

A force of 130 life guards is drilling for work at the three large city beaches at 76th and 79th streets and Touhy avenue, said Walter Wright, superintendent of parks, recreation and aviation. Three natatoriums have been made ready for summer crowds and 12 wading pools will be in use.

South park commissioners have added complete equipment to Jackson park, Calumet park and 47th street beaches, said James L. Nolan, personnel director in charge of recreation. Fireplaces, games areas, ping pong tables, volley ball equipment, and beach umbrellas have been provided and other equipment has been repaired.

"We are going to make our beaches places where people can enjoy themselves," Mr. Nolan declared. "We even have card tables for bridge."

While the formal opening at south parks is June 23 and the 25 guards will report for duty then, opening ceremonies will be delayed to June 29 when the East 63d street council and the Woodlawn Business Men's association will hold a sports day and water carnival at the Jackson park beach. A day of exhibitions and contests will be concluded with a community dance at the Jackson park beach house, at which a Miss Woodlawn of 1934 will be selected.

Repair Swimming Pools.

Lincoln park's 90 life guards have been drilling for two weeks at Diversey beach under Leo [Paddy] Driscoll, former football and baseball star. Swimming pools at Stanton and Hamlin parks are being repaired and will be ready July 1. The pools have been closed for two years.

Public works administration employés early in the spring repaired equipment and screened the sand at all of the swimming places. The following Lincoln park beaches will be open and patroled Saturday: Ohio street, Oak street, North avenue, Fullerton avenue, Diversey street, Belmont avenue, Montrose-Wilson, and Foster avenue.

"Our beach regulations are similar to those of the city," said J. Frank Lyman, Lincoln park superintendent. "We will let common sense dictate what is to be worn. However, we will not permit men to wear topless swimming suits, and we anticipate no difficulty over the rule."

West parks will make no special bathing suit regulations unless they become necessary, said William J. H. Schultz, in charge of recreation. The 45 guards who will serve at the park's system's 40 pools were selected after tests last week.

Utilities Official Dies After Dog Brings Two Rescuers

Denver, Col., June 10.—(AP)—William Sherman Fisher, Denver utilities executive, died of heart disease despite the efforts of his cocker spaniel. On a week-end fishing trip, he apparently fell into the water last night upon suffering an attack. Juggers, his dog, immediately set up a clamor which attracted two fishermen, who pulled him ashore. He died two hours later.

NEW BOOK GIVES PUBLIC PICTURE OF TAX SYSTEM

The first comprehensive compilation of the state's tax laws is to be made public in a 532 page volume today by the Illinois State Tax commission. The publication, which represents almost a year of research, covers every phase of the state's complicated taxing structure.

The volume, entitled "Illinois Tax Laws," was compiled under the direction of Commissioners Scott W. Lucas, Barnet Hodes, and Simeon E. Leland, J. W. Huston, formerly taxation research assistant at the University of Chicago, was in charge of its compilation as research associate of the commission.

Not only does the volume give all the tax laws for the benefit of various taxing officials and all persons interested in tax matters, but it also includes many of the important tax decisions by the courts in the last 75 years. The volume is to be distributed to officials and those interested in taxation, as part of Gov. Horner's program to bring about a fuller understanding of taxation.

Little Tax Law Change.

The volume places emphasis on the fact that there has been little change in tax laws since 1872. With each session of the legislature adding laws since that date, an unbalanced system of law has grown, which should be revised, the book asserts.

"Preparation and publication of the book is in line with Gov. Horner's desire that the state as a whole, and certainly every public official, be acquainted with present tax laws," the commissioners say in the preface of the volume. "Very shortly an effort will be made to revamp the present antiquated revenue laws of the state.

"Obviously, before we can know what reforms are essential, we must know what laws need reforming. Citizens perusing this encyclopedic analysis of Illinois tax laws will discover an astonishing maze of regulations that indicate the problem of taxation is more than just a problem of where the money comes from to satisfy the various tax collectors.

"The book indicates the 'ancient' status of Illinois tax laws, by revealing that ferry boats are still subject to a tax in this state. Modernism is also represented by provision for a $2 state fee on each airport, air school, or landing field under a 1931 law."

On Taxable Property.

Most of the volume is concerned with the taxation of real and personal property. The book shows what property is taxable, how the levy should be extended, and what property is exempt and under what conditions.

In view of the recent agitation for a tax limitation of 1 per cent on real estate, the volume has a compilation of present tax rate limits. There is also a table showing miscellaneous taxes and licenses now in effect under the state law.

The publication of the volume is the result of conferences held by members of the commission with taxing officials throughout the state. It was learned by the commissioners at these conferences that many local assessors and other tax officials were ignorant of many provisions of the state laws.

Four Children Sleep Through Tragedy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hazel Murdzia, 36 years old, of 918 North 14th street, was strangled to death during the night by her husband Michael, 41 years old, who then hanged himself in the basement.

Shortly after the police arrived Horace Olin, 64 years old, an uncle of Mrs. Murdzia, who discovered the husband's body this morning, fell dead from excitement. He had been receiving treatment at the County dispensary for heart disease.

During most of the commotion, the Murdzias' four children slept peacefully in nearby bedrooms. They awakened as an ambulance hurried away with the body of their uncle.

Father Twice Injured.

Murdzia's health and despondency, police and the coroner's office concluded, caused the triple tragedy. In January, 1932, while Murdzia was employed by the Clayton construction company, a ditch caved in on him. Injuries to his right leg forced amputation of portions of it on four different occasions. Shortly before this accident, injuries had paralyzed his right arm.

Tuberculosis of the bone set in because of the injuries, and Murdzia was at Muirdale sanitarium until ten weeks ago, when he left and refused to return.

Neighbors and roomers at the Murdzia home said that the couple often quarreled. The coroner was told, he revealed, that the husband had tried once before to strangle the wife.

Uncle Summons Police.

Mrs. Clara Roebbe, a roomer, asserted she saw Murdzia and his wife in their room last night at 11 o'clock, and shortly afterwards heard a scuffle. Police believe that the wife was choked at that time.

The uncle, Horace Olin, called police shortly after 8 a. m. today. He told Patrolman Harry DeCotron, the first to respond to the call, that Murdzia was hanging in the basement. Handing the patrolman a large knife, the uncle asked that he cut Murdzia down.

While DeCotron was in the basement, he heard a heavy thump upstairs. Investigating, he found that the 250 pound Olin had collapsed. The uncle was dead before physicians arrived.

Detectives Find Wife.

Detectives who arrived shortly afterwards sought the wife, whom they desired to question. They found her strangled to death in the bedroom.

The four children of the Murdzias are Stella, 8 years old; Roy, 6; Richard, 11; and Mitchell, 15.

Quincy, Ill., June 10.—[Special.]—St. Antonius, Roman Catholic church in Melrose township, 7 miles southeast of here, will celebrate its diamond jubilee Tuesday. On Dec. 6, 1859, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Derwick donated 10 acres of lands for a church and cemetery. The present church, a brick structure, was erected about half a century ago. Five Winnetka Girls' Debuts to Be Same Day

Three of Them to Bow at Saddle and Cycle.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF present plans materialize—and debutante plans always are a bit uncertain at this time of year—Tuesday, Sept. 18, will be a busy and gay day for the debutante crowd, for five Winnetka girls are going to make their débuts on that date. Two of the five, Elisabeth and Susan Ballard, will be presented at a tea at home, and the other three will make their formal bows at a dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle. They are Henrietta Boal, Leslie Wilson and Laura Bartlett, daughters respectively of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Karl Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund B. Bartlett. The Ballard sisters are the two eldest of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard.

Mrs. Ballard and the four younger ones, Joe, Mary, Ernest, and Sam, left last week to drive east to Chebeague Island, Me., to spend the summer there. They will be joined later by Betsy, who is at Bryn Mawr, and Teddy, who is at Andover. Susan, who is at Vassar but who plans to spend next year in Paris, will be at a French camp in Vermont this summer, and Mr. Ballard will commute between Winnetka and Maine. Now he is with the James L. Houghtelings for a few days, for the Ballard house is rented for the summer to the Alvin Bastiens.

Miss Boal, who is completing her freshman year at Vassar, will be at home in a week or two and will go to Charlevoix with her family about July 1. Mr. and Mrs. Boal's annual Christmas "at home" will be a reception for their debutante daughter next winter.

Miss Wilson, who will be a sophomore at Vassar next year, plans to return to college after her debut and be at home just for the holiday whirl. She is making some visits in the east now and will not be in Winnetka until June 22. Miss Bartlett is finishing her freshman year at Sarah Lawrence college and will return there after her début next fall.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour to Sail for England.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is sailing on Saturday on the Berengaria for England. Mrs. Armour has become almost as interested in miniature objets d'art as Mrs. James Ward Thorne and one of her chief reasons for visiting London this summer is to obtain more of the tiny treasures, which are found more often in old English shops and markets than in this country. Upon her return in about eight weeks she will go west to Santa Barbara for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, and her grandchildren, John and Lolita. Lolita, who is six months old, is a very recent addition to the family and Mrs. Armour reports that she is an unusually lovely infant. Mrs. Armour does not plan to start building her new home in Lake Forest until late August or early September. Somehow in the late summer or early autumn she is going to squeeze in a visit to her country place, The Timbers, near Traverse City, Mich.

John Porter to Wed Two Days After Graduation.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Porter of Hubbard Woods will be leaving next Saturday for Connecticut to see their son, John, graduated from Wesleyan university on Monday, and to attend his marriage in Perth Amboy, N. J., on Wednesday. His bride will be Miss Gertrude LaCour Olsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Olsen of Perth Amboy. The wedding will take place in the Lutheran church. Mr. Porter and his bride will motor west to Hubbard Woods for a short honeymoon and then will make their home in Bronxville, N. Y., where he will teach in a public school. Miss Olsen was graduated from Smith in 1933 and has been doing graduate work at Bryn Mawr the last year. Miss Margaret Gordon of Winnetka, a classmate at Smith, will be one of two attendants at the wedding, the other being Miss Peggy McDonald of Brooklyn, also a classmate at Smith.

Nora McCurdy Faces Exciting Schedule.

The popular Miss Nora McCurdy, niece of Owen Barton Jones, and a frequent visitor in Lake Forest, has a schedule of exciting events ahead of her that will mean strict adherence to wristwatch and timetable. A student at Bryn Mawr college, she is now visiting in Providence, R. I., with friends, before meeting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gladwin, in New York. The Gladwins were in Lake Forest last week on their way from their home in Pasadena to New York. With Miss McCurdy, they will return to the Joneses' home Wednesday.

On the 23d their gay young daughter will once again fly eastward for the Harvard-Yale boat races. Then, on the 25th, the Gladwin family will bid farewell to Lake Forest and go to New Mexico for the summer. Meanwhile they will have "done" the Fair, and been guests at several social functions.

Until the Russell P. Kelley's leave for California late this month they will be staying with Mr. Kelley's mother, Mrs. William V. Kelley, in her Lake Forest home. The Kelleys have rented theirs for the summer and will pass the hot weather months near Santa Barbara instead of on Lake Michigan.

Chicago will be particularly interested in the success of the Yale 150 pound crew which will race at Henley-on-the-Thames early next month because the crew's manager is Robert Hall McCormick III. He and the crew sailed recently on the Rotterdam. Young Mr. McCormick will remain abroad after the racing is over, travel-

Women's Band Changes Seats, Betters Music

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A few days of test and experiment, the trial and error method, have been of great value in projecting the music by the Woman's Symphony orchestra in the Ford Gardens at A Century of Progress. At a week-end concert in the attractive open air auditorium it was observed that the choirs of the orchestra had been reseated in various manners, so that the weak toned instruments stood out in their proper values, the brilliant were no longer overpowering, and echoes had been overcome.

In addition, the sound amplification had been set to a new and high efficiency. In consequence, Ebba Sundstrom and her feminine band were being received with great enjoyment by the listeners. With one more improvement the Ford auditorium will be just about an ideal spot for music. The cement floor, now blindingly bright on the eyes in the afternoon, should be colored to a neutral dark color to overcome the glare.

Other spots in the Fair were doing their valiant share for the cause of music. The Chicago Symphonic choir, directed by Walter Aschenbrenner, a talented and expertly trained singing organization, gave a concert yesterday afternoon in the Swift Bridge theater, presenting music grave and gay, religious and secular, all of high merit, all beautifully performed.

Much music was also proceeding from the Court of States. Between the hours of 1 and 8 o'clock concerts were scheduled by the East Aurora school band, the Hyde Park High school band, chorus, and orchestra, the People's church choir, the French Choral society, and the Bowen High school boys' chorus, girls' chorus, and band.

Two piano recitals were given in the loop district yesterday afternoon, Stephanie Handzel appeared at the Studebaker theater under the auspices of the Chicago Slovak societies. She is an accomplished and excellently trained artist, authoritative and brilliant in some seldom heard music by Martinu and Suk as well as in the more conventional Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, and Liszt. She was assisted by Mme. Marie Havelka, soprano, and Dr. Stephen Osusky, violinist.

Erwin Kaplan, of the younger generation of pianists, played at Kimball hall. He is technically proficient, he produces an excellent tone from the piano, and he interprets with considerable imagination. In other words, he has made a first rate start on the art of music.

Gilbert and Sullivan Manager Hunts House for Summer Run Here

The Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta company of New York, which is now playing an engagement in Boston, may come to Chicago for a summer run, beginning late in June. S. M. Chartock, its impresario, is now in this city to make a survey of the theatrical situation and find a convenient playhouse.

This organization has given Gilbert and Sullivan revivals on Broadway for a period of ten weeks. Its repertory includes "The Mikado," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Pinafore," "Iolanthe," and "Trial by Jury." Its principal players are William Danforth, Frank Moulan, Herbert Waterouse, Vivian Hart, Vera Ross, Roy Cropper, and Allan Waterous.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE latest story about Mr. Frederick Stock, celebrated and beloved conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, comes from Ephraim, Wis., where he is resting at his summer home until he comes back to conduct at the Swift bandshell at the Fair. The other day he passed a golf practice place and decided to stop and do a little driving. He bought a pail of golf balls and began to work on his stroke. The fellow in charge watched him for a time, then came over to offer his idea as to what was wrong.

"Do you know what's the matter with you, mister?" he asked. "You ain't got no rhythm."

THE other day when the temperature was at its highest, a lady riding on a southbound street car saw a little sight that pleased her so much she wrote in about it. An old colored man was seated in a wheelchair outside a store on Cottage Grove avenue with a mongrel dog seated beside him on the chair. The dog's head was tilted back to get full benefit from the breeze afforded by the tattered straw hat which the man was fanning back and forth in front of the dog's face—obviously for the dog's comfort and not for his own.

WE were forced to reflect upon the many ridiculous aspects of modern day existence that are taken for granted in a downtown department store the other day. A salesman picked up a telephone that had been ringing, to say "Good afternoon, men's underwear."

WHAT sounds like a European's idea of an American giving a party is one Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris recently gave in England, as reported in a letter from England. Mrs. Morris, who has a son at Oxford, chartered a launch at Oxford and took nearly a hundred guests on a cruise up the river. Starting from Folly bridge at 7 o'clock, the party went past the college barges through the various locks to Abingdon, where they tied up. Supper was served on deck and in the saloon, and there was a band, which played for dancing after supper. The high point of the occasion to us, however, was that Mrs. Morris, mistrustful of the changeable English weather, chartered the Town Hall in Oxford, to which the party could be transferred at a moment's notice if necessary.

AN arrival in town today that will delight Chicago friends is that of Elizabeth Hawes, the youthful American designer of clothes, whose success is phenomenal. Miss Hawes is in private life Mrs. Ralph Jester, and her sculptor husband is a close friend of Shephard Vaidgesang, Louis Skidmore, and Nat Owings, that triumvirate of youngsters who practically run the World's Fair. Miss Hawes is slim, dark, beautiful, and famous, and there will be a number of parties in her honor if she has time for them during her stay.

Museum Exhibits Famous Flashing Lighthouse Lens

The famous flashing lens from the Barnegat lighthouse in New Jersey, which was installed in 1858, is now on exhibition at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park, it was announced yesterday. The lens stands over ten feet high, has a diameter of six feet, and weighs almost two tons. Made up of 24 central panels, the lens magnified the light from a feeble oil or gas burner so that it could be seen several miles out at sea.

Lucille Lund, Northwestern university graduate, who was recently chosen as a 1934 Wampas baby star in Hollywood, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Los Angeles Limited train. She spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Michaud, 1807 Sherman avenue, Evanston, and then planned to go to Minneapolis, where she will attend the Shriners' convention. She will return here within a few days to attend the national convention of her sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta, and later will rejoin the other Wampas stars.

Miss Lund broke down and admitted before leaving Hollywood that there was a romantic reason why she chose to come back to attend the Northwestern commencement. But she wouldn't tell the young man's name. She added, however, that it might become public while she was in Evanston.

Bishop Stewart Extols Valor to U. of I. Seniors

Attending solemn baccalaureate services in college and university chapels, capped and gowned seniors yesterday entered upon a week of scholastic exercises that will officially mark the termination of their studies.

More than 1,700 seniors, of whom approximately 600 are from Chicago and its suburbs, gathered in a special chapel at the University of Illinois' gymnasium in Champaign, Ill., to hear the spiritual and valiant qualities of the man "who never flinches" extolled by the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

Taking for his theme, "Like one who saw the King Invisible, he never flinched," Bishop Stewart told the seniors that the best definition of religion is faith plus valor, or valor which leads to faith. He asserted that those who saw the King do not flinch.

The seniors all are to receive their degrees today from Dr. Arthur H. Daniels, acting president of the university.

At the University of Chicago the deep university chapel was crowded as 934 graduating seniors heard the sermon of the 176th convocation delivered by the Rev. Charles Whitney Gilkey, dean of the chapel.

These religious services will be followed tomorrow by the awarding of degrees and certificates to the seniors in the chapel. There will be two separate ceremonies, one at 11 o'clock in the morning for 388 advanced and professional students, and the other at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for the 546 baccalaureate degrees. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, will preside at both.

Noteworthy among the students to receive degrees is Linton Jerome Keith, 4255 South Maplewood avenue, who completed his under graduate career under the university's new plan in two years. There will be 13 students graduating who completed their courses in three years.

A solemn pontifical mass was celebrated yesterday morning at St. Vincent's Catholic church for 291 graduates of De Paul university. Following the mass the sermon was preached by the Very Rev. Msgr. Philip Mahoney, rector of Quigley Preparatory seminary. Graduation exercises for the school will be held Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

In the afternoon 656 seniors of Loyola university heard services at St. Ignatius church. They will receive their degrees at a convocation on Wednesday night.

Second largest of the graduating classes in the Chicago area will be that of Northwestern university. More than 1,350 candidates will be given degrees Saturday afternoon in Dyche stadium. Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, will deliver the principal address, speaking on the subject, "Brains in Government."

Before a crowd of 3,000 persons in Valparaiso, Ind., 112 seniors received their degrees at the 63d annual commencement of Valparaiso university. Wilber M. Brucker, former governor of Michigan, delivered the address.

Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, will deliver the adress tonight when 134 men and women are graduated from Kent College of Law. The exercises will be held in the Goodman theater of the Art institute.

Good Morning!

A human, touching and finely acted picture is "Little Man, What Now?"—adapted from Hans Fallada's best seller of last year.

It is the story of the vicissitudes, heartaches and victories of a much in love young couple who start life together with practically nothing to go on but their devotion to each other.

A baby is coming. . . . Hans loses his job. Hans is one of those sensitive, apprehensive souls who seems to attract adversity by expecting it. But his gallant young wife has optimism enough for two. Her ready laughter and indomitable faith see them through. The finale points to brighter days ahead.

I'm told that the action in the novel was supposed to have occurred in the reich—up to the present revolution. The picture version slides lightly over specific backgrounds and political situations, resolving itself into a story about a young couple who might be just any young couple.

Universal's fascinating young star, Margaret Sullavan, who did such beautiful work in "Only Yesterday," achieves a repeat triumph as Lammchen. She has a freshness, spontaneity, and sincerity that are all her own.

Douglass Montgomery as Hans is effective, but rather maddening. He is so persistently down in the mouth—such a wooer of woe! You feel that Lammchen deserves a stronger arm to lean on. But—she's content—so we might as well be.

Alan Hale is splendid as a merry rogue. Catherine Doucet as his mistress and Hans' stepmother gives a brittle, amusing impersonation of a most reprehensible lady. All other röles are neatly taken.

Settings and dialog are excellent, and Mr. Borzage did a creditable job of directing.

Events move rather slowly with, I imagine, persistent loyalty to Herr Fallada's book.

Dorothy Dell's Death Attests Hoodoo in Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 10.—[Special.]—There have been "jinx" motion pictures just as jinx ships and jinx baseball clubs, and the one in which the late Dorothy Dell and the late Lew Cody worked last was surrounded with an aura of ill-fortune to its cast. The tragic death of Miss Dell in an auto crash last Friday morning snuffed out one of the most promising young careers in the movies. Cody's sudden death of heart disease was just as unexpected.

"Shoot the Works" has not been released yet. It's an interesting and somewhat melodramatic modern story with currents of comedy and romance that could ordinarily be expected to click as profitable entertainment. But profit or not, inside the industry it will always be a hoodoo picture.

Three years ago Dorothy Dell, then in the Follies after being proclaimed "Miss Universe," was invited to a yacht party given by Harry Richman. Dorothy didn't go. Helen Walsh, another show girl, went in her place. Miss Walsh lost her life in an explosion on the yacht. Miss Dell's parent, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Goff of Hattiesburg, Miss., and New Orleans, and her sister Helen will accompany the 20 year old blonde beauty's body to New Orleans.

Helen Mencken is forgetting her difficulties with Equity over her short local stage run by playing the pathetic vaudeville singer in Paramount's "You Belong to Me," with Lee Tracy and Helen Mack. After some difficulty, the studio found a satisfactory 5 year old actor in the person of David Holt. Miss Mencken's röle in this film is reminiscent of that in her first movie, "Applause," filmed some years ago in the east.

Two bike riders have talked Joe E. Brown into backing them with outfits to race in a Hollywood six-day grind.

Just to demonstrate he can eat with chopsticks, Brown threw a party on his return from Japan and went through all the courses with oriental feeding implements. Everybody else was allowed knives and forks.

W. C. Fields says it serves him right for giving up golf to play tennis. He strained a tendon and is carrying a cane.

Actors who want to have their contracts renewed at Warner studio are taking polo lessons and buying polo ponies. This followed an incident when word was passed along that officials of the studio who are recent and enthusiastic converts to polo debated about dropping the option of one film player who was slightly flat as an actor, but decided they couldn't part with him because he was too valuable on a horse. Actors who lose jobs at studios which are polo hotbeds have been selling their recently purchased ponies to actors who sign new contracts at the same.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to take him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara decides she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money. Before turning it in she goes on a wild drive in the country and runs out of gas. A stranger who has followed her in a car takes her back to town, where she meets Jerry for dinner. The stranger, unknown to Cara, is Redman Harmer. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. Cara gets $2,000 for her car and gives half of it to Jerry.

INSTALMENT XIX.

ENCHANTMENT.

It was Benjamin who saw Cara off on the train in the morning. And he was wishing that he could care less, that he couldn't care at all.

She traveled second class, no compartment reserved for sleeping as would become a steel princess. He said nothing. He had taught her these modest ways, "Wait till you earn it," just as he would have adjured a son. That was what was so wonderful about her—being so content, never protesting: "But I'm a woman." Never saying even in the old days: "Give it to me, you're rich."

But this morning he had plucked her a couple of the biggest gardenias from his glass houses, for the lapel of her coat. She pinned the gardenias to her coat, and under it her heart seemed to break. The flowers meant: "Please, Cara." They meant: "This is the end of sonship." They added: "You're a marriageable daughter to me from now on." At least, to her they explained that.

"How sweet of you, father," she choked, leaning out to kiss him. Also he bought feminine magazines, not journals of trade and science, and put them into her seat. As he performed this masculine civility, their eyes met and they knew that the whole angle of each upon the other had changed finality. The great partnership faded like a myth between them.

"Good-by."

So she was off.

She did not see Jerry when she jumped out of the long train after it had puffed to a standstill at Edmonton. She was going straight to the only hotel she knew there, to bathe, to eat, and to inquire for the next steamer service up the river to Athabaska. A taxicab bore her and her baggage away. But Jerry Flint, fresh and groomed, stepped out of his first class compartment—which he had engaged himself alone—as soon as she had turned her back upon the train, and followed at a cautious distance out of the station. All his belongings—still scanty—he carried in a handsome suitcase that he had bought out of that thousand dollars Cara had sent to him yesterday. His taxicab now followed hers out into the town.

She went straight up to a room with bath, and he lurked in the lounge downstairs, smoking a cigaret, waiting to surprise her by his mere appearance. Then he thought he could surprise her more. A little male authority! A little arrogant management! He went to the desk, made all inquiries about steamers, had reservations telephoned for, and had paid for both their passages by the time she came down.

And then he came forward. He was all charm. Lean and lithe and young and tall, the splendid young male of the Alster sailing boat, reckless and careless and debonair. He took her hands.

"So after all, you see," he proclaimed triumphantly, "we go into this silly exile together!"

For the first time in her life she could have fainted. She did not.

She was confounded, and yet she exulted. The nerves of her very finger tips thrilled in Jerry's hands.

"I know. I know! But now you've come here to be with me for a whole glorious month, Cara!"

"Can we?"

"We will," he asseverated. "Isn't life simple when we allow it to be? The steamer leaves tomorrow. I've taken our tickets."

"This," she whispered aloud to herself, "is just the maddest thing."

"No. The sanest. I wasn't going to let you get away from me. There's something in the wind—I know it. If you don't tell me, you don't. But you're not going to forget me. No. That isn't going to be so easy. In fact, I won't allow it."

"My mother. . . .?"

"Ah, I've sent a note to your charming mother, telling her I'm leaving Toronto for a short while."

"She'll guess."

"I don't think so. I spoke definitly of an invitation to New York, and explained I wanted to wait for your return for my first concert in Toronto."

He was very clever. She admired his mental dexterity; and loved the danger zone in which now she found herself.

"Let's travel as man and wife," he said, making it sound simple. "It's easier."

"I mustn't do that," she said slowly.

"Let's be married here!" He made it sound as simple, though impulsive. She shook her head.

He gave in for a while.

"Let's at least have lunch!"

She loved him best when he laughed, as he laughed then. "We'll be wonderful companions," she said steadily.

Half through a luncheon which he ordered regardless of price—hadn't reminded her that at least she hadn't commanded him to go back.

"Not that I'd have gone."

Cara knew that from the moment she had seen him there in the cool shadowy lounge of the hotel she had rejoiced. She knew that care had fallen from her, and that, as ever in the heart of youth, illusion rose again, a belief in the future, a sense of victory over fate. A month with Jerry, paddling down strange rivers, walking through hardly blazed trails, stalking deer, seeing the dawn come up and the sun go down, sailing through craggy channels from lake to lake, finding new beauties and new adventure, always together! Her eyes, blinded by the dazzling light shed on such prospect, looked no further.

"When I go home and have to save Follettes, I'll never lose this month," she thought secretly.

Just as in Hamburg, in London, and on that Atlantic journey, she was again led by glamor. As if this heavenly glamor took her by the hand and set her feet towards gradually unfolding enchantment, she felt helpless and happy.

Yet Jerry Flint, intuitively knowing all this, knew also that he could not rush her off her feet, knew her still to be, at the core, strong and sane and devoted. Her love for him was not so deep as yet as that devotion which was at the very roots of her for something he did not understand.

He could not understand why this modern daughter of the rich Follettes should not dare undauntedly to take her own way when it came to a lover.

No doubt the old man, rapacious as the very rich were, wanted some particular alliance for her. But, foiled, he would have to accept what came.

This expedition so shattering to him when he first heard of it, now showed of incalculable value as soon as he had seen it to be an unbeatable chance of slipping away with her alone.

He remembered the eyes of Benjamin and Anny as they had regarded him.

But they would have to acknowledge him, if not gladly, at least courteously, when he and Cara returned to them, man and wife.

He had no doubt at all about this consummation. A month in the wilds; and a marriage ceremony at the first sizable town on the homeward way. A dutiful telegram of announcement—it would be done.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

RESPONDING TO ONE NO TRUMP —THE REBID.

I have explained how the responding hand, after making a suit takeout in the first round of bidding, can warn his partner of the weakness of his holdings by rebidding the same suit after the probable rebid to two no trumps by the opening bidder. Conversely, when the responding partner's hand is strong enough to make a three no trump contract desirable, he should relieve the opening bidder of doubt or guess by himself raising to three no trumps on the second round.

The exact minimum strength which justifies the raise in no trumps instead of the warning rebid of the suit is a somewhat delicate matter to be very positive about, because obviously one should make some allowance if one's partner is uncetain in the play of no trumpers which offer some problem requiring careful handling, or if he has proved unable to wean himself from old fashioned weak no trump bids and persists in shading them for fear lest a game be lost if he passes. Use your judgment of your partner as well as your knowledge of the system. The minimum hands I personally consider strong enough to make the rebid unnecessary are about as follows:

First. If the strength is distributed over three suits, the five card suit, if a minimum holding in itself, should be accompanied by a K J and a queen, or an ace and a queen, or a king-queen and a jack, or the approximate equivalents.

Second. If the encouraging feature is the strength of the suit itself, it should be headed by two of the top three honors, and the hand should include a king or Q J x outside the five card suit.

Sp. K J x x	Di. Q x x
Hts. x x	Cl. Q x x x x

if the bidding had been "one no trump, two clubs, two no trumps," I would now bid three no trumps, not three clubs, with a partner who played good cards and was sound in his opening bids. With a less reliable partner I might seek safety in three clubs, considering that my hand needed an additional protective card in order to justify optimism. For instance, a heart holding of J x or Q 10 of diamonds or Q J x x x in clubs.

With the hand as first given I would look to the two spade honors and the queen of diamonds to give the declarer playing facility in both those suits, while my clubs would be perhaps protective rather than aggressive in the development of the play.

As an example of the second type I would need

Sp. K x x	Di. x x
Hts. x x x	Cl. K Q x x x

This club holding makes it practically certain that the opening bidder holds the ace, so the suit must be good for four if not five tricks. This prospect of a suit to play for immediately, compelling the enemy to make embarrassing or revelatory discards, amply compensates for the fact that your holdings in two suits are absolutely worthless. The more your high cards are concentrated the less optimistic you should be in responding to one no trump with a comparatively weak hand.

However, the above hand fully justifies the raise to three no trumps on the second round under all conditions because of the fine immediate suit play it provides, with a king to bring in the small club if one adversary should hold four to the jack. Whenever you hold two of the top three honors of a suit, and your partner has opened the bidding with no trumps, you may safely assume that he holds the other top honor. Lacking that, he must be tremendously strong in the other suits.

"Let's Have a Picnic," a booklet of picnic plans, menus, and recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and World's Fair, Hall of Science, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

In the cookery game, as in most other occupations or sports, the girl who wins the marbles and the praise is the one who knows not only the usual and simplest methods of work, but who also has on tap a neat assortment of additional tricks all ready to be sprung in an emergency.

Likely one of the biggest emergencies which turns up as we meal-get is the need for things new and pleasingly unfamiliar now and again to jolt us out of our lazy food ruts. And for this job I know few things better than occasional deep fat fried cutlets, chops, or Swiss steak to serve up instead of the inevitable broiled, baked, or roasted numbers.

As we have managed to learn in the frying of other foods, the more fat there is in a food, the more fat it will absorb from the frying fat. With lean meats—veal, for instance—it is wise to dip the sections into egg and bread crums. Pork, on the contrary, holds enough fat in itself to turn out a golden brown crust without any coating substance being applied. Very thin pieces of meat are too likely to burn at the edges before they are well done. So make 'em thick—at least half an inch.

A letter from Mrs. E. C. L. asks, also, about precooking these cuts which are to be deep fried. As a rule, this is not necessary. Yet I know one authority upon meats and upon frying who steams her chickens until tender before she dips the sections in batter for frying. Another prebroils chops until nearly tender, then coats them with crums and an egg and milk mixture, and finally fries them until properly tanned and tender. With the heat of the fat at from 340 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit, this method of cooking fairly thick chops will take about 12 to 14 minutes.

Veal cutlets also apply for key positions in the deep fat frying kettle. The procedure is this.

DEEP FRIED VEAL CUTLETS.
Veal cutlet, 1½ pound
Finely rolled dry bread crums
1-3 cup milk
1 egg, well beaten
Salt and pepper to season

Prevail upon the butcher to cut the veal ½ inch thick. When ready to fry, pound it until quite thin, then cut it into pieces for serving, dusting each with salt and pepper. Dip the sections in the bread crums, then in the egg beaten with the milk, and then again in the crums. Fry the cutlets in deep fat, heated to 350 degrees Fahrenheit, or until a half-inch cube of bread will brown in the fat in 60 seconds. Then drain the cutlets upon soft, crumpled paper and serve hot with a sprinkling of minced parsley.

Meats to be deep fried should be placed in a wire basket, and thus lowered into the heated fat. Be sure to keep the temperature steady during the frying or your meat cut may be a sad vision when it returns to you.

Then, on some bright days when meat does not rate the frying kettle, heat up the fat anyway, for onions. Large ones, cut across in slices ¼ inch thick, and then separated into rings, will fill the bill. Turn them all into a wire basket and fry in deep hot fat [375 degrees Fahrenheit] until lightly browned. If you have no deep frying thermometer, perhaps that is just what you should post as your desire for the cook's next birthday.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 10.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lincoln Merrill are at the Plaza before going to Camden, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Merrill gave dinner last night in the roof garden of the St. Regis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Adelbert Jones have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Tanner of Bristol, England, and their daughter, Mrs. Oliver S. Franks of Oxford, England, parents and sister of Thomas Lesley Tanner, fiancé of their daughter, Miss Dora Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Willett entertained tonight at a buffet supper for the bridal party for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Laetitia Willett, to Walter Horn of Jersey City.

Organdy for Graduates

From a Chicago store—a particularly lovely white organdy dress for graduates. It is made with a billowing full skirt that reaches the ankles, with huge puffed sleeves and simple trimming of finely plaited frills around the cuffs and the round neckline.

Their Marriage Is Hindered by Lack of Income

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Theirs was a college romance. He has been out of school two years and only recently caught up with a job which pays him fifteen a week.

"It is understood that we will be married," the girl relates, "when he can make a living. I want to be married. I proposed to him that we marry secretly and liv separately. He refused."

To the girl it looks as if it will be three or four years before they can marry on the man's terms. That means she will be 25 or 26 and he a little older Then, the girl argues, a few years at this period of their lives may create such change that he may throw her over.

Young people of marrying age, who have everything to bring to marriage but the finances to guarantee a reasonably decent security, constitute a serious national problem.

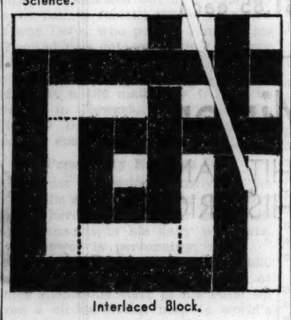
The particular young couple in today's offering are more fortunate than many, in that their enforced wait will still leave them within the average marrying age, 2 and 27, or thereabouts. But the hazards in those waiting years are great.

Fifteen dollars a week is not enough on which to marry, nor would it be advisable to marry on it, did the wife contemplate holding her job. If she earned more it would be bad psychologically for the man and consequently for the marriage. Were she earning a similar amount it would still be a hazardous step, since the expenses of her working would have to be taken out of the earnings.

However, the pessimistic note in the three-four year wait outlook may be relieved by the fact that there is an upturn in business. There may not be so long a wait.

Quilt Design Is Synonymous with Beauty, Antiquity

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, Tribune Tower, and World's Fair, Hall of Science.



Interlaced Block.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A block synonymous with beauty and antiquity is this old "Interlaced Block." The pattern is an early adaptation of the old pressed quilt known variously as "Log Cabin Patch," "Straight Furrow," and "Barn Raising." Made in one color with white the blocks may be arranged in numerous ways on a coverlet to create many lovely and unusual designs.

White Frocks Display Dash This Summer

BY RHEA SEEGER.

All white frocks used to be perfect examples of rather inane creations, made without any dash, snap or daring—just a precise, undernourished dress of limp white material.

Now they are about the smartest things you can wear and find. They are stunning, intricately cut, and knowingly designed all-white hopes for the summer sun tan maiden who appreciates the cool, crisp contrast of white against a golden, honey smooth epidermis. And the all white dresses are equally as devastating and flattering on romantic, camellia complexioned ladies who never saunter out the door without a wide brimmed hat.

The most decorative dresses in sheer white are made of embroidered organdy. Graceful designs of trailing vines and small leaves and flowers in frosty looking patterns keep these long flounced dresses a dream of summer loveliness.

Puckered organdy is another ice cool material that makes some fetching white models, some with a deep swirled flounce from the knees to the floor, others with a swanky tailored silhouette, with square cut neckline in front and deep cutout to the back waistline.

Gay young things with a persnickity sense of what should be worn for an appealing graduation gown will be delighted with the filmy little beauty illustrated in the photograph. Very sheer and very transparent white organdy fashions a dress of extreme simplicity, the skirt rather long and full and the waistline smooth and trim.

WEDDINGS

A wedding that will take place next Saturday in Ann Arbor, Mich., is of interest to Chicagoans because the bridegroom is Henry Martyn Bacon Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martyn Bacon of Chicago and Highland Park. The bride is Miss Madelon Andrus, who has visited in Highland Park. Mr. Bacon and his best man, Perryman Ronan, are motoring to Ann Arbor Thursday, and the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Edith Helen Moss and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Barnes of Winnetka, will follow the next day. The ceremony will be read in the Michigan League chapel. Mr. Bacon will bring his bride to Chicago to live.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fitch of 5451 Hyde Park boulevard announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary, to Dr. Noel John Hershey of Mount Pulaski, Ill., which took place Saturday at St. Paul's Episcopal church, 4945 Dorchester avenue, the Rev. George H. Thomas officiating. Dr. and Mrs. Hershey will make their home in Cleveland, O.

ing through Scotland, Sweden and perhaps several other countries, and will not return to the United States until time to resume his studies at Yale.

His father, Robert Hall McCormick, will be going east late this month for the marriage of his daughter, Miss Eleanor McCormick, to Sargent Collier, which will take place June 30 at Mrs. McCormick's Bar Harbor home. It is doubtful if Mr. McCormick will join his son in Europe for he may spend the summer in Bar Harbor.

Mrs. George J. Cooke's hopes for a visit this summer from her daughter and son-in-law, the George Waller Blows of New York, were dashed when word was received recently that they had taken a house in Milford, Conn., for the summer. If they should be tempted to visit Chicago to see the Fair the trip undoubtedly will be made on the spur of the moment, Mrs. Cooke reports.

Mrs. Gregory Expects Sweetsers in July.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory is not expecting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sweetser, to arrive from Geneva until around July 1. Coming with the Sweetsers on their first visit to this country in several years will be the children, Adelaide, the twins, Susi and Arthur, and Alan. They plan to spend a week in Chicago with Mrs. Gregory and then continue on to the coast. Mrs. Gregory is sailing July 14 for an extended tour of Europe and will not return until October.

Mr. Sweetser was an associate of President Wilson at the Paris peace conference. He remained abroad as a member of the secretariat of the league of nations, of which he is now director. The family home is located near Geneva, a chalet the Sweetsers have named Grandchant.

That charming old Connecticut town, Mystic, will be the summer address again of the Frank B. Mulfords, for they have rented a house there from June 15 until Nov. 1.

Warren A. Lamsons Back from Southern Jaunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Lamson of Winnetka have returned from their gay southern jaunt which began last April when they motored to Sea Island, Ga. For the last few weeks they have been enjoying the Biltmore Forest Country club, Asheville, N. C. Miss Jean Lamson, who has been studying at Bryn Mawr college, joined her parents for the trip homeward. Her sister, Virginia, is remaining abroad until fall for further study in sculpture.

Up in the far reaches of the Lake Superior region, on lovely Madeline Island, Mrs. Charles Howells Coffin of Winnetka has purchased a summer home. On Wednesday she plans to take the family up there for the summer.

Mrs Frank Bersbach has gone east to see her daughter Barbara graduated from the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr. Helen and Barbara will spend the summer in the east, and Joan will be at the Timberline ranch in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Wetten have taken the Clifford Off house at 40 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, for the summer. They will occupy it on June 28.

Word has come of the birth of an 8 pound son to Dr. and Mrs. Cabot Brown of San Francisco last Thursday night. The baby, whose mother is the former Margaret Keeley, is the nephew of Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr. of Lake Forest and of Mrs. Graham Aldis, and a grandson of the late James Keeley.

The Henry S. Buntings' son, Van Asmus Bunting, is at home in Lake Forest for the summer. He was just graduated from Christ school at Arden, N. C., and will enter the University of North Carolina in the fall.

Chicagoans to Receive Degrees at Yale June 19.

The 223d commencement exercises at Yale university will be held on June 19. Among the Chicago students who will be graduated at that time are John Boit Morse of Lake Forest and Charles Hosmer Morse of the same village, James Palmer Johnson and John James Cummings of Chicago, Richard Reed Adams, Howard Kroehl Jr., David Badger and Alan Mark Ferguson of Evanston; Harry Halsted Harper Jr. of Geneva, William France Anderson of Hinsdale, William Henry Gage of Wilmette, Lester Orestes Goddard of Riverside, Robert Livingstone Childs of Highland Park, Merrill Douglas Cronwall and Edward Freer Hills of Oak Park, and Parks Chamberlain of Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell L. Avery will leave for their summer home at Les Cheneaux Islands late this month or early in July.

Friends of the former Louise Tyler will be glad to learn she is planning to live here for some time. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Martin Shaw, are expecting her within a few days. Before they leave for Santa Barbara some time in July they hope to see the present Mrs. William Steinwedell comfortably settled in the Winnetka house she has taken for the summer.

Miss Virginia Jeffries, daughter of the Robert M. Jeffries of Highland Park, will be graduated tomorrow from the University of Chicago. Her sister, Miss Helen Jeffries, has just returned from the American academy in New York. Helen will return east next fall to be a senior in the college division at Briarcliff, taking her diploma in dramatics.

Cleanliness Is First Step for Flawless Skins

Powder Puff Must Be Fresh and Immaculate.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The LUXURY of a clear, unblemished skin isn't what you say any more. The NECESSITY of it is the word.

So every precaution, large and small, which you take to perfect that flawlessness of skin, is working toward the right end. Of one of these little precautions I would speak. During a luncheon period one hot day recently a near-table luncher took from a crowded and none too tidily kept bag a powder puff of fair size but of most unfair cleanliness. In fact, it was dirty. One side a mess of wiped off rouge and the other a combination of red and black and dirty white, nothing to put near a face on a cold day or any day. On a hot day, with the sweat glands active and the pores more open to distention, it is a crime to apply anything but the cleanest kind of puff to the face. There were two faults exhibited—the dirty puff itself outstanding and then chucking the thing into a bag unprotected.

Powder puffs today are just about as cheap as anything you can find. The five and ten counters offer you an endless selection. The cost is so low that one can almost afford a clean puff a day, if not for every application. Then you can get for a dime attractive little bags into which the puff can be tucked and guaranteed isolation from the pocketbook grime. Yeah, pocketbooks do get grimy inside and the exposed puffs get more grime from grimy hands inserted into the bag frequently shuffling things around. This is so simple and inexpensive a precaution that it should be observed by every one. Besides it is a public reflection when a girl pulls out one of those soiled bits of down, or whatever the puff is made of. One sees behind a whole atmosphere of untidiness and lack of personal hygienic care. It may not be so, but that is the impression lent. And we know now that you can't touch dirty things to a complexion without endangering the latter.

That's one little precautionary aid. Another along the same line is the clean wash rag. A little investigation was made recently which disclosed the many repetitions made with the same wash rag before it was sent to the laundry. Clean towels for face use come under this category, too. In fact, anything that touches the face—and we would call attention, too, to the damage soiled hands do—should be sterilely clean.

Got the wedding gift blues?

With the white invitations popping up thick and fast every time the mail comes these June days we find this variety of blues rather prevalent at the moment and a lot of women are sunk in despairing reflections on what to give.

Here's an idea for you: A bang-up beauty treatment either the day of the wedding or the day before! Wouldn't you love to get one if you were a nerve frazzled bride-to-be?

We tried it out on a girl who's entering the married state shortly. When we suggested it in lieu of the cocktail napkins, the thoroughly unexciting etchings or the filet luncheon runner that are our usual wedding gift speed, she endorsed the idea enthusiastically.

And in our modest way, we think it is a fairly clever notion. If we were being married at an evening ceremony we can't think of many things we'd like better than escaping the agitated family for a couple of hours and getting beautified from head to toe.

Depending on the amount you want to spend, your unique wedding gift of a beauty treatment can be simple or elaborate. A treat to a facial alone is a handsome gift and if you want to go in for it on a de luxe scale there's almost no end to suggestions the bride-to-be would be grateful for.

In several Chicago establishments she can, as your guest enjoy a swell, if unorthodox wedding present, have an interval of mild exercise or a cabinet bath, followed by a body massage; after that have her hair done—washed and wave but not combed out. While this is going on she can have the ten little fingers and the ten little toes properly glorified. Then she can have her facial—preferably one of the lovely ones that has a back massage thrown in—and finally when her hair is combed out, an expert makeup.

It might be a startling thought—but any woman about to sail up the traditional white carpet to the altar should love it. Your wedding present gives her one of her heart's desires; she's a rested, luminously lovely vision in white.

Study of Child Care Helps Even if You Disagree

Value of Reading Lies in Stimulating Thought.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In a recent letter a mother writes:

"I read every word on the subject of children—even if I don't agree with it, it makes me stop and think. And that is what we need."

That is surely hitting the nail on the head.

We must not agree with everything we read on the subject of children—no matter how big the name nor the reputation attached to it. [That is, we must not agree because of the name.] But if it makes us stop and think, whether we agree or not, our reading has been to some purpose. Naturally if we can use what we read, our purpose is still better served.

Of course I don't mean to say that a name should have no weight with us. It has in other fields—why not in this? If I'm looking over a shelf of fiction, and I see the name of Francis Brett Young, or Robert Nathan, or Earl Derr Biggers, we'll say, I'm predisposed in their favor—I expect to find respectively, a fine novel of English life, or a beautifully felt and written phantasy, or an engrossing human mystery story. I'm ready to like and to agree because of the name.

So, in this field of child study, if I see an article by Arnold Gesell of Yale or Frances Wickes, I am favorably influenced before I begin. The interesting studies and splendid English of one and the imaginative and sympathetic yet sane approach of the other make me know that I am going to enjoy them—and I'm more than inclined to think I'll agree with what they say.

On the other hand some psychologists—of perhaps the psycho-analytical school or Dr. Watson of the behaviorist—I may read with interest but, despite their importance, I will be almost sure to find many points of flat disagreement. My own study and my own results do not coincide with many of their conclusions.

It does us good to read about children and child training even if we don't agree. It makes us stop and think—and that is what we need.

If you are interested in reading to help you solve your difficulties or just to set you thinking, we have written-in-full booklets on many phases and many ages of childhood. Any one will be sent you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Detroit, Mich., June 10.—[Special.]—Baseball is a young man's game, as has often been remarked, but some one neglected to tell Samuel Pond Jones. The 42 year old veteran of the White Sox pitching staf turned in a masterly exhibition here today to beat 23 year old Schoolboy Rowe and the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 1.

The Tigers got nine hits off Jones, but he kept them well scattered, and was at his best with men on bases. He gave only three bases on balls and two of these were intentional.

The oldest pitcher in the league shut out the league leaders for seven innings, and was in trouble only once—in the eighth—when the Tigers scored their run.

Rowe Is Good, Too.

Jones had to be good, for Rowe was in fine form himself. He allowed the White Sox only six hits. One was a homer by Joe Chamberlin and another was a single by Manager Jimmy Dykes after Bonura and Simmons had walked. This accounted for the Sox's runs. Dykes enjoyed a big day, getting three of the Sox's hits.

Jones received brilliant support in his successful effort to bring the five game losing streak to an end. Al Simmons contributed two great catches, and Bob Boken had nine assists and three putouts at second base.

Jones' triumph was his sixth of the season, compared to three defeats. He now holds twice as many victories as any other White Sox pitcher. His triumph saddened the day for 25,000 pennant hungry fans, who had hoped to see the Tigers sweep the series.

Owen Robs Dykes.

A brilliant bit of fielding by Owen stopped the Sox in the second inning. Simmons opened the inning with a single, but Boken popped out. On the hit-and-run play, Dykes hammered a liner towards left. It appeared to be a sure single until Owen leaped high into the air to snag the ball with one hand. Simmons, sliding into second, was doubled easily.

Rogell reached third in the Tigers' half of the inning on his infield single, a wild pitch, and Greenberg's infield out, but Jones fired a fast ball past White for a third strike to end the inning.

Chamberlin's second major league home run gave the Sox a one run lead in the third. It was a long, high fly, right into the teeth of the strong wind, and bounced off the top of the wall in left center.

Umpire Helps Sox.

Umpire Summers was the target of much abuse and helped the Sox cause when he called out White in the fifth inning, though the speedy center fielder seemed to have beaten Chamberlin's throw. Owen singled and Fox doubled, but Jones emerged unscathed when he made Cochrane bounce to Boken for the third out.

The Sox employed the sacrifice, a device they usually scorn, to aid in the scoring of two runs in the seventh. Rowe walked Bonura and Simmons. Boken sacrificed, and Dykes hammered a single down the third base line to score both runners. Rowe then fanned Chamberlin and Madjeski.

Jones Gets Tired.

Jones, who had been working very hard, faltered under the terrific pace in the eighth and the Tigers finally broke through with a run. Fox led off with a terrific drive to left field which Simmons grabbed with one hand. Cochrane and Goslin singled, and Gehringer walked to fill the bases. Rogell scored Cochrane with a long fly to right. Greenberg walked, again filling the bases, but White grounded to Dykes to end the inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs bounced back into a winning stride yesterday just to prove that their loss of two straight to the futile Cincinnati Reds was all a mistake. They pinned down luckless Paul Derringer with three runs in the first inning and kept him down until a 7 to 4 victory had been fashioned for Lonnie Warneke. Mr. Warneke, however, hardly deserved the award, which was his seventh triumph of the season, against four defeats.

Chief helper in the matter of keeping Warneke out in front despite his apparent inclinations in the opposite direction was Ki Cuyler. For several weeks the veteran had been rather bashful about coming through in the pinches, but he operated on a different plane yesterday. Ki doubled to account for two of the three runs that discouraged Derringer in the first inning. Ki singled to drive in one more in the fifth. He singled again in the seventh and eventually scored.

Klein Comes Out of Slump.

Another Cub who was able to shake off a limited period of ineffectiveness was Chuck Klein, whose ideas of causing more worry for Derringer were made up of a double and a single. Both of these were involved in the run-getting. Gabby Hartnett also took a hand to the tune of a triple into the deepest corner of the park and a single. These also assisted in the gathering of tallies. But Babe Herman, who for the last week had been carrying the hitting burden almost single handed, was unable to break into the party with even one safe drive.

The sufferings of Warneke are properly indicated by the fact that he was on the spot in six of the nine innings. His mates worked with the industry of beavers except on one occasion. That was when an error by Billy Jurges, followed by a robust homer off the bat of Ernie Lombardi, reduced the Cub lead to one run in the sixth. That wallop converted Warneke into something resembling his real self. At least he pitched that way in the seventh and eighth. Then he took off on his worst flight of all in the ninth, but with the bases loaded and one out his team mates dashed to the rescue again with a double play.

Reds Step Right Out.

Billy Herman opened the home half of the first with a roller to short,

Carnera Just Punches Along; Baer Stops to Challenge Fan

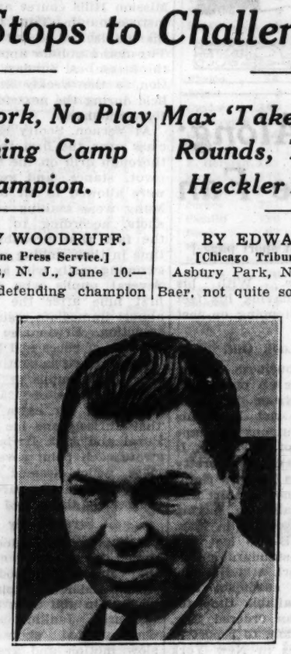
Yet the big Italian, a likable fellow personally, considered by many just a good natured ignoramus, and belying this notion in the camp rummy and stud poker games, does not know it if he is a forlorn figure. He goes about his preparation methodically, painstakingly. As a result he is in superb condition. If he is beaten, it will be by blows from the lether encased fists of the Livermore Larruper and not by any lack of attention to preliminary details.



JACK DEMPSEY.

Managers Forsake Him.

Why, then, a forlorn figure? Here is the champion to whom glamor should attach. He has not yet the wealth which championships are supposed to bring. He has a host of managers to share in his earnings. Yet these managers are not here to direct his work. Louis Soresi commutes back and forth daily. Bill Duffy, who was in charge at the time of the Loughran affair last winter in Florida, is not through with his penance to the treasury department for an income tax oversight. Good Time Charlie Friedman comes to camp once or twice a week.

With the champion as close adviser is only Trainer Billy Defoe, devoted and experienced. It was Defoe who conditioned Primo for the battle in which he knocked out Jack Sharkey in six rounds for the title a year ago. It was Defoe who primed him for his 15 round title defense against Tommy Loughran at Miami last winter. Also in Carnera's entourage are his brother, Severino, a tile maker by trade who resides in Newark. Also a cousin. That is the retinue outside of the regular sparring partners.

Personality Explains It.

Carnera never has fired the public imagination. From the devious, at times suspicious start of his build up from a circus strong man to world's champion, he was regarded more as a physical freak than as a fighter. It is difficult to eradicate that estimate.

Primo lacks the popular appeal of John L. Sullivan, of Jim Corbett, to a lesser extent of Bob Fitzsimmons, the sometimes malevolent publicity of Jack Johnson, and the still magnetic appeal of Jack Dempsey. He belongs more in the class with Jim Jeffries, Jess Willard and Max Schmeling, whose drawing power was their fists and not their affability.

Shows Boxing Skill.

So Primo Carnera, even as champion, stands as a prosaic figure in Fistiana. He is a far better boxer and fighter than any one who saw his clumsy efforts of four years ago on his first American tour thought possible. This he demonstrated today before 1,000 spectators at this niche among the New Jersey hills on the banks of Pompton Lake, at Dr. Biers' health farm, to be exact.

Most of these spectators came from New York by motor, more than an hour's drive threading through Sunday trafic. It is about 25 miles as a crow flies, but a discerning crow might not deign to stop. Nevertheless, conditions here, which would not appeal to Baer, afford just the setting for the serious conditioning Carnera is undergoing. The champion, with his manager, and a special chef, Joe De Grande, occupies a separate cottage. Nearby are both indoor and outdoor boxing platforms, and cottages for other guests.

Today's workout was outdoors in

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Asbury Park, N. J., June 10.—Max Baer, not quite so playful as he was the other day when he pulled hairs off Primo Carnera's bosom during the athletic commission meeting in New York, did his training today before a capacity crowd of 3,200 customers.

About half of the rather fashionable turnout at the specially built seashore pit were home girls, gals who obviously never have met Max socially, but are patently curious about the physique that so many hail as wondrous, Commissioner Bill Brown of New York and Jack Dempsey to the contrary not withstanding.

Some Punchers Are Present.

In addition to the gathering of seashore visitors, the pugilistic craft was well represented. Jack Dempsey, after two days of seclusion, was back in the rôle of adviser to Baer. Jack came early, got a table and autographed one thing and another for a solid half hour before the show began. Then there were Jimmy McLarnin, Willie Ritchie, Johnny Dundee, Jack Britton and Jack Root.

Max, after a dramatic, albeit solemn entrance, boxed nine rounds against a relay team composed of Dynamite Jackson, Seal Harris, Larry Johnson, and Ray Lazer.

During the first six rounds Max was very businesslike, refraining scrupulously from wiscracking with the ringside folk. But his new policy of earnest silence broke down in the seventh. In this round Max was practicing strategems with the wily Larry Johnson of Chicago, when a man with a very loud voice sought to coach Johnson.

Max Challenges Fan.

The challenger of Primo Carnera paused in his ring strategems. Addressing himself to the gathering, he said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I happen to know that bird is in here on a pass." And then addressing the heckler, he invited him to come into the ring if he hankered for more aggressive entertainment than he had been receiving on his free ticket.

Nothing came of the incident except silence from the ringside commentator, but it did serve to relax the experts who up till that time had feared that Max's advisers had harangued him too much about his whimsicalities. The experts hereabouts are pulling for Max to reach top form physically, but it sort of scared them when he remained silent so long today.

The challenger weighed 209½ pounds after six miles of road work this morning, about 3½ pounds more than he expects to scale at weighing in time Thursday afternoon. He weighed 203 against Max Schmeling a year ago.

Baer Appears Okay.

There was nothing about Baer's performance to indicate that the New York doctors didn't know what they were talking about when they gave him a certificate of perfect health last Friday, following the hysteria of Commissioner Brown. We had been reading that Max was slow, unskilled, and that, worst of all, "his skin lacked that glowing vibrancy so essential to championship form."

The way we sized things up today Max and his advisers felt no need of his being fast at this time. His skill was as great as any one has a right to expect from Baer, who always has featured ruggedness and power rather than skill. As to the vibrant skin, we merely pass, this phase of the skin game being strictly beyond our ken.

The whole program, for which those present paid $1.10 each, was vigorously routine except some novelties with the 260 pound Mr. Harris and with brother Buddy Baer. With the enormous Seal, Maxie practiced sly elbow work and a few rough tactics frowned upon by Six new records were established yesterday in the 33d annual Central A. A. U. track and field meet at Soldiers' field, in which a slim little Polish girl out did the men athletes before 6,500. Helen Sliva, racing for the South Parks, won the broad jump, the 100 meter dash, and placed third in the high jump in the Polish meet, sponsored by the allied Polish organizations and held in conjunction with the A. A. U. games. She also ran a winning anchor lap in the 400 meter relay.

Al Harris, Negro sprinter from Roosevelt High school, Gary, Ind., broke two records in winning the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes for men in the A. A. U. section of the meet. Phillips, another Negro, a member of the Marquette university squad, sped to a new mark in his trial of the 100, only to have the Gary schoolboy win the final from him by a good five yards in :10.7, breaking the old mark of 11 seconds. Phillips raced the distance in :10.9 in his trial heat victory.

Harris returned an hour later to defeat Block of the University of Chicago in the 200 meter run. The time, :22.1, eclipsed the former mark of :23.

John Brooks, South Parks Negro, former University of Chicago star, skimmed the 200 meter hurdles in the record time of :24.8, bettering the mark of :26.6 set by Ollie Duggins, Northwestern university, last year. The ex-Maroon also scored an A. A. U. victory in the broad jump, defeating Harris, who fouled on his last leap.

One of the busiest performers of the afternoon was Rose Przybylska, Cleveland, O., who captured first place in the Polish 200 meter run for girls; won the 8 pound shot put and was second in the discus, javelin throw and 100 meter dash.

Divich Makes Team.

Steve Divich, Indiana university pole vaulter, cleared 13 feet 7¼ inches to win the event in the Polish meet. John Roberts, a University of Chicago star, vaulted 12 feet 6 inches to win the A. A. U. title. Divich's performance assured him a place on the Polish-American team which will compete at Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 1-8.

Zygmunt Podolak of Syracuse, N. Y., threw the discus 102 feet 2 inches to win the Polish men's title and Irene Gorney of Chicago won the girls' discus with a toss of 101 feet 11¾ inches.

Dr. J. Szygowski, Polish consul in Chicago, awarded a Polish team trophy to the athletes representing Chicago. They scored 97½ points. The St. Louis team was second with 33 points. Unattached scored 49 points.

The Polish Falcons scored 77 points to win the Warsaw team trophy. The Polish National alliance team finished second with 52½ points. South Parks, Chicago, smothered the rest of the A. A. U. field to win the George F. Nixon team trophy with 95 points. Lincoln Park had 37 points. Summaries:

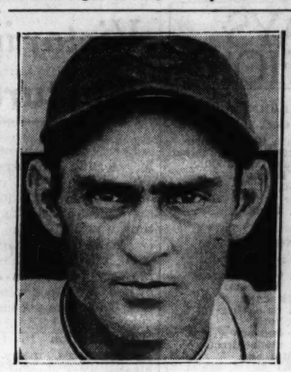
Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

GUY BUSH, Cubs' pitching veteran, has been chased from a ball game only once in his major league career. . . . He blames Woody English for that. . . . Bush called an umpire some choice names and was ordered off the diamond. . . . He assured the official, however, he had said nothing out of the way, at least nothing personal, so the umpire relented and told Guy he could remain in the game. . . . Woody heard the conversation and yelled to the umpire: "You know damn well he called you those names and you had 'em coming." . . . Just for that the umpire again changed his mind and Bush had to leave the premises. . . . The largest Sunday baseball crowd in Philadelphia's history was 16,537 paid admissions, the attendance at the Yankee-Athletic game a week ago yesterday. . . . James C. Mullen, who was instrumental in legalizing boxing in Illinois, is seeking heavyweight bouts for presentation in Chicago this summer in the name of the Gym club. St. Mary's college of Moraga, Cal., and the United States Naval academy are negotiating for a football game to be played in Annapolis in 1935, the week after the St. Mary's-Fordham contest. . . . St. Mary's for several years has been one of the biggest attractions in Pacific coast football. . . . Strangler Lewis will be 43 years old June 30. . . .



GUY BUSH.

Whitey Wistert of Michigan, who has signed with the Cincinnati Reds, held three Big Ten teams to a total of six hits this spring. . . . Illinois collected three hits off the big right hander, Iowa had two singles, and Ohio State made only one, which came after two were down in the ninth inning. . . . Bobby Cruickshank likes a long club, adding an inch or two to the shafts every time he buys a set. . . . The oft-discussed Michigan-Chicago football game of 1905, in which the late Walter Eckersall played a leading rôle, was won by Chicago, 2 to 0, but it is recorded as a scoreless tie in the season's summary appearing on a table top decorating the wall of the Michigan Union taproom. . . .

It was recorded in this column recently that Al Simmons, while suffering from dizziness as a result of being beaned in Washington, had sent a $25 check to a baseball writer in Los Angeles to pay his fine in a speeding case. . . . While the check was en route, a letter from the sports writer passed it between Chicago and Los Angeles. . . . In the letter the author explained he had settled the rap for $5, asking Al to please remit. . . . For three weeks now Al vainly has been watching every mail for his double sawbuck change. . . . Tris Speaker soon will open a beer parlor in Cleveland. . . . Johnny Gilbert, a successful jocky, is a Syrian. He is the only jocky of his nationality in the United States. . . . Al Jaffee, Olympic ice skating champion, has completed a series of movie shorts. . . . Orval Overall, Cub pitcher of the west side days, is president of a bank in Fresno, Cal. . . . He weighs 250 pounds. . . .

Rochester, N. Y., which is about to celebrate its centennial, aims to honor its outstanding native athlete, Walter Hagen, with a $4,000 testimonial golf tournament, provided such a field as that which played in the Bobby Jones event at Augusta, Ga., last March can be rounded up. . . . It would be held about the time of the Canadian open, which will start at Toronto, Aug. 2. . . . Earl McNeely, manager of the Sacramento club, can place a team on the diamond averaging 22 years of age. . . . The Illinois High School Athletic association is considering the sponsoring of a state wrestling meet next winter. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Pancho Villa, world's 112 pound title holder, stepped out of his class and pounded out a 12 round decision over Bud Taylor in Brooklyn. . . . Bib Falk's home run in the 13th inning gave the Sox a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox. . . . Charley Paddock, the world's fastest human, worked out at Stagg field before leaving for the Olympic trials in the east. . . . President Frank Kalteux of the Western Skating association appointed a special committee to investigate charges of professionalism against Harry Kaskey, star ice skater of the Alverno A. A.

RULES OF CONTEST—Pick the nine players who you think will be in the starting lineup for the American league when the inter-league game is played in New York July 10. Then do the same for the National league. Send your selections, accompanied by a 300 word letter explaining the reasons for your choices, to the All Star Game Editor, Chicago Tribune. The winner will receive $250 in cash. Players must not be switched from their regular positions. The two major league baseball writers and the sports editor of The Tribune will decide the winner. Points considered will be accuracy of the selections, neatness and soundness of reasons. In case of a tie a duplicate award will be given. Entries close July 4.

Fans to Name Players for Big Game Again.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which originated and sponsored the first inter-league all star baseball game, will award $250 to the reader who comes closest to naming the starting lineup for the second annual contest, which will be played at the Polo grounds, New York, on July 10. The starting lineup will be considered to be the teams that actually take the field.

Rules of the contest will be found in detail, along with the ballot, in the sports section of this edition. A 300 word letter must accompany each lineup submitted, explaining the reasons for your selections. The judges will be the sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, Arch Ward, and the major league baseball writers, Irving Vaughan and Edward Burns. Accuracy, of course, will weigh most heavily in deciding the winner, but neatness and soundness of reasons why certain players were chosen also will count.

Fans Pick Teams.

The fans of the nation again will have a voice in the selection of the teams. The managers who will be appointed to handle the clubs will have the final say, however, regarding the personnel. They will follow the wishes of the fans as closely as expediency will permit.

The votes contributed to THE TRIBUNE will be forwarded to New York, where a committee from the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers association is tabulating the nation's totals. Every one except persons in the employ of THE TRIBUNE and their families is eligible for the $250 award offered by this newspaper.

More than 500,000 participated in the voting last year. It was the most convincing evidence of the popularity of baseball the game has experienced. Fifty-five newspapers in all parts of the country cooperated with THE TRIBUNE in conducting the poll. The response was as enthusiastic from the rural sections of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and from far away Washington, California, Texas, and Georgia as from the metropolitan districts, where major league games are daily attractions. The requests for tickets to the game at Comiskey park came from 46 of the 48 states. Probably no American sporting event ever drew such a representative gathering. The attendance, 49,500, was limited by the capacity of the park. No standing room was sold.

The American league team, due to Babe Ruth's home run with one on, won the game, 4 to 2.

Wonderbolts Beat Vienna for Peel Cup

The Wieboldt Wonderbolts yesterday won the Peel soccer cup by defeating the Vienna team, 5 to 0, at Kuppenheimer stadium in the final game of the championship series. The teams met a week ago but the game was called during an overtime period when a riot broke out in which two spectators were stabbed during the fighting. The Wonderbolts now have won every local title a professional soccer team can hold.

Vienna won the toss and decided to kick against the wind and sun. Art Waldrom, one of the red headed twins, scored the first goal on a corner kick by Jimmy Lillie. Clem Cuthbert got the next two, heading the first one in from a corner kick by Jimmy Munro and kicking the second through following a pass from Art Waldrom. The fourth goal of the half resulted from a shot by George Hay from 30 yards out to give the Thunderbolts a 4 to 0 lead at the half.

BY FRENCH LANE.

America's—perhaps the world's—largest racing stable under the direction of one trainer, is scheduled to get into the thick of the fight for the various divisional turf championships in Chicago this week.

This is the Audley Farm stable from the valley of Virginia, whose proprietor is B. B. Jones. The Jones fortune, which made it possible to assemble this gigantic turf enterprise, came from the oil industry. The horses are in the care of Joe Patterson, a young fellow who grew up with thoroughbred horses in Kentucky and Virginia.

A month ago Trainer Patterson had 76 of the Audley farm racers, all of them representing the choicest blood lines in this country and Europe, in his care. Sickness, a training injury here and there, a failure to show either speed or stamina on the part of a few of them, have left him with 58 horses with which to begin the campaign.

Some to Race This Week.

These horses are now training over the Washington Park and Lincoln Fields tracks and within the month at Washington Park and at Arlington Park most of them will have been tested in actual racing competition. A dozen of them may appear under colors at Washington Park this week.

From the time Trainer Patterson assembled the young army early in spring at the Douglas Park training course in Louisville, the Audley Farm horses have been the bugaboo of the clockers who continually haunt the race tracks during the training hours.

Trainer Patterson sends the horses out in sets of 20 or more. Every exercise boy wears the lavender uniform of the Audley Farm stable. As the horses come prancing and dancing down the track and then go dashing on around it in their best strides, with uniformed riders yelling, kicking, and some of them whipping their charges, the picture is of a mounted varsity football squad in scrimmage.

Help! Who's Who?

Out of these wild skirmishes the clockers have been able to get very little information that is of value to them. They have been unable to discover the name of the horse showing all the speed and a fitness to race, and Trainer Patterson is so busy with putting all the horses through their training licks that he hasn't time to stop and tell the clockers anything about it.

More than a third of these horses are 2 year olds that have never raced, and until their names appear in an entry list and their breeding and markings are thoroughly established the clockers will do very little about classifying them as to their ability.

They did manage to turn their faithful split second machines on a quartet of the Audley 3 year olds as they drilled at Washington Park a couple of mornings ago. They caught Signalman in a six furlong breeze in 1:17. Gallant Mac breezing the same distance in 1:16 3-5, and Trey and Wacoche going the same route handily in 1:14 2-5. These figures indicate that this group of 3 year olds will be at the races within a few days.

Like Gallant Mac.

While he has never accomplished anything in a racing way, one of their horses, Gallant Mac, is held in high regard by the Audley stable. This was indicated by his late nomination for the Arlington Classic and by the payments which were kept up on him for the Belmont stakes until the day arrived to pay the starting fee.

He is a full brother to the brilliant Gallant Knight of a few seasons back. He made but two starts last year and was not able to win. So far this season he has not been to the post.

The presence of the Audley Farm horses will create considerable interest among the crowds at Washington Park this week. There may be a representative or two of that stable in the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, which is the stake feature of next Saturday's racing. This race has attracted most of the handicap stars of the central states. The mighty Equipoise from the east was also nominated for the mile and a quarter battle, the added money for which is $2,500. As no shipping plans for Equipoise have been announced, his presence at the post is hardly expected.

Berkeley Bell Wins Brooklyn Net Title

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell won the Brooklyn singles tennis championship today, defeating Leonard Hartman, New York, 6-0, 7-5, 8-6. Bell also shared the doubles title as he and Gregory S. Mangin of Newark defeated Cliff Sutter of New Orleans and Robert Law of New York, 8-6, 5-7, 6-1.

PUPILS IN GOLF SCHOOL MAKE UP EXTRA CLASSES

Pros Give Instruction to 500 Players.

Six Chicago Daily Fee Golf association courses gave instruction to 500 men, women, and children yesterday afternoon, ending the first week of free lessons in THE TRIBUNE'S golf school. This brings the total attendance for the first week to 23,500. The professionals at the six courses—Mission Hills, Vernon, Chicago Meadows, Big Run, Techny Fields, and Northbrook—were able to give personal attention to all pupils who attended yesterday's classes.

Sunday lessons are a new development in the golf school this year. Many people who were unable to attend the evening sessions requested classes in which the whole family might participate. The classes are being held on the outlying courses, where the golfing family can spend the afternoon. The attendance and results of the matinees are therefore being watched carefully to determine the feasibility of expanding this feature next year.

Pro Gives Extra Lesson.

Floyd Johnson, the professional at Mission Hills, gave a lesson yesterday which had not been previously announced. So many people playing the Mission Hills course asked him about instruction in THE TRIBUNE school that he decided to call a class to order. Two dozen golfers appeared ready for the lesson. A Sunday lesson, in addition to the weekly schedule, will be held during the next four weeks, Johnson announced.

At Vernon, Scotty Erwin spread the class over the first fairway. After a thorough drill on the fundamentals of pivot, stance, and swing the pupils were allowed to hit balls until dusk. Many were making remarkably long shots, according to Erwin, due to the fact that probably for the first time in their golfing career they were swinging easily with a full body pivot. Several pupils who tested Vernon's first nine after the lesson reported almost immediate results from the instruction. Erwin also gave a demonstration of slices and hooks.

Stress Body Action.

At Techny Fields Jock Anderson continued his plan of concentrating on the value of the body action. Footwork, Anderson explained, is as important in golf as it is in fighting.

George Jenkins, at Northbrook, demonstrated shots. Following a slow motion and graphic description of the golf swing, Jenkins put his class through the movements. Pivot drill was followed by a lecture on golf etiquet.

A large crowd at Chicago Meadows watched Les MacArthur and his assistants hit balls and give demonstrations of all parts of the swing. MacArthur talked on the value of a slow swing. Anderson demonstrated to his class that "You can't hit them, if ou try!"

This week the golf school at the 19 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association will stress back swing and follow through. All pupils are requested to bring brassies for the lessons. Most students are looking forward to the main subject of the week's discussion, how to make the ball rise from heavy grass. Professionals will demonstrate this important shot.

The Schedule.

The schedule for the next four weeks will be as follows: Tuesdays, men; Wednesdays, women: Thursdays, couples, and Fridays, juniors. Six courses will give lessons to all divisions on Sundays.

All lessons will start at 7 p. m. at the inner courses—Mid City, Harlem, Evergreen, Golfmore, Chicago Meadows, and Big Oaks, and at 8 p. m. at the outlying courses—Vernon, Westgate Valley, Northbrook, Techny Fields, Hickory Hills, Mission Hills, Big Run, Oak Hills, Twin Orchards, Walnut Hills, Indian Head, Elmgate, and Cog-Hill.

JUNIOR GOLFERS OPEN MATCH PLAY TOURNEY TODAY

Lasky Favorite Over Levinsky in Delayed Bout

Los Angeles, Cal., June 10.—(AP)—The fleeting fish peddler, King Levinsky, was a 10-7 favorite over Art Lasky when they were originally scheduled to fight last month. When they climb through the ropes at the Olympic Auditorium Tuesday night the odds, if any, are expected to swing toward Lasky.

The Chicagoan developed a case of "nerves" and disappeared almost on the eve of the fight to reappear in a Chicago hospital under the care of a physician. That runout caused many to believe he didn't have much confidence in his ability to beat Lasky.

Levinsky's return to California may not have been altogether because of the urging of the promoters nor the desire to do battle with his opponent of tomorrow night. Had he failed to go through with the fight at this late date he would have been under suspension in New York, Illinois and California.

Promoter Tom Gallery said the advance sale for the fight last month was $14,000, and he feels that Levinsky's return, considering the circumstances, will pack the arena.

Two Boxing Cards on Fans' List Tonight

There will be professional boxing shows on two fronts tonight. On the south side Leo Rodak, unbeaten former Golden Gloves and C. Y. O. champion, will tackle Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., featherweight, for 10 rounds at White City outdoor arena, 63d street and South Park avenue. Sherald Kennard, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, is matched against Chuck Reed in an eight round windup on the north side at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Barry probably is the best boxer Rodak has met during his pro career of a little more than a year, in which period Leo won 18 battles. The south side fighter has not found much difficulty in outboxing opponents. However, he may find himself up against a hard proposition in Barry, who is speedy and a clever boxer. Dave has scored victories in the majority of his contests by superior boxing.

A setback at this period of his development is likely to harm Rodak considerably. He is matched with Kid Chocolate, former featherweight and junior lightweight champion, at Wrigley field July 18, on a card which also is to bring into action Harry Dublinsky and Steve Halaiko, and Tait Littman and Teddy Yarosz.

Jimmy Christy vs. Freddy Gravelle [4], featherweights.
Nestor Brueggman vs. Angelo Garlow [4], welterweights.
Henry Fuscaldo vs. Joe Dardanelli [4], flyweights.

Kennard will be making his Chicago debut against Reed at Marigold. He created quite a bit of attention by defeating Laddie Tonelli last week in Milwaukee. Reed, a southpaw, who has beaten Eddie Ran, Mickey O'Shea, and Toots Bernstein in recent scraps, promises to make things interesting for Sherald. The supporting card:

Jackie McCarten and Sailor Born [5], 137.
Mickey Beal and Jackie Collins [4], 120.
Tony Zale and Eddie Allen [4], 164.
Joe O'Signac and Jimmy Brown [4], 147.
Julius [Mephisto] Woronick and Al Williams [wrestling]

Jack O'Keefe, prominent fight manager, has made reservations for himself and a party of friends on Sammy Wolff's special train to New York to attend the Baer-Carnera title bout Thursday. . . . Peter Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade and Illinois racing commission chairman, plans to go to New York on the train sponsored by Dave Barry.

The West Side Boxing club's first show scheduled at Sparta stadium Wednesday was set back to June 20 when a suitable replacement for Johnny Farr against Frank Sigillo could not be obtained. . . . Pete Nebo, Key West, Fla., junior welterweight, is training at Trafton's gymnasium in anticipation of opposing Sigillo next week. . . . Puggy Weinert is paired with Frank Knauer for six rounds on the program headed by Dave Maier and Al Stillman at Milwaukee, Wis., Friday.

Barney Ross, holder of three titles, is due back today or tomorrow from a week-end vacation in Wisconsin. . . . Ross will open a vaudeville tour at New York on June 22. . . . A boxing card is booked for White City next Monday. . . . Bus Brese and Johnny Stanton, 140 pound boxers, are matched for 10 rounds tonight at Sioux City, Ia.

Davey Day, west side lightweight, and Gene Higgins will meet in an eight round main event at Marigold Gardens June 25. . . . Jimmy Cummings and Bruce Wade, middleweights, are slated to meet in a feature conflict at Peoria, Ill., June 21. . . . George Haberski and Young Geno have signed to scrap at La Salle on June 22. . . . Joe Roman meets Oscar O'Hanion and Art Donovan opposes Midge Bennett.

Lou Gehrig Hits 15th Home Run in First.

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig pounded out his 15th home run of the season today after Roy Mahaffey had loaded the bases with a hit and two walks in the first inning and the hit sent the Yankees off to a 7 to 3 triumph over the Athletics in the final game of the series.

Johnny Murphy pitched a good game, although he weakened toward the finish, when the A's scored twice on triples by Doc Cramer and Bob Johnson. Cramer also hit a homer, double, and a single for four of the A's ten hits.

INDIANS, 6; BROWNS, 1.

Cleveland, O., June 10.—(AP)—Bob Weiland, left hand pitcher whom the Cleveland Indians obtained recently from Boston in a trade for Wesley Ferrell, held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits today and the Indians won, 6 to 1.

Cleveland gathered 15 hits off Coffman and Mills, eleven of them off Coffman, who started the game and was debited with the loss.

Weiland was never threatened after he was given a four run lead in the first four innings. He struck out eight men and issued only one base on balls. The Brown's run was made in the fifth inning on Hemsley's triple and Bejma's single. Earl Averill led the Indians' attack with three hits in four times at bat. Score:

Giants Gather 20 Hits; Whip Phillies, 18-7

Philadelphia, Pa., June 10.—(AP)—The league leading New York Giants pounded four pitchers for 20 hits and defeated the Phillies, 18 to 7, today in the final contest of the three game series.

Carl Hubbell, the Giants' starting pitcher, in trying to field a hit off Todd's bat in the fifth inning severely injured his thumb and had to be removed from the game. It is expected the accident will lay him up for a week at least.

The Giants clinched the victory in the first few innings by driving Phil Collins from the mound and then piled up an insurmountable lead at the expense of Reginald Grabowski, Cy Moore and Sylvester Johnson.

BRAVES, 10; DODGERS, 8.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—The Dodger defense cracked in the 11th innings today and the Boston Braves earned an even break in a four game series by beating Brooklyn, 10 to 8. Bob Smith proved steadier than Van Mungo throughout the overtime.

Baxter Jordan opened the Boston 11th with a single. Lee's attempt to sacrifice resulted in a ball bunted back to the mound, but Mungo threw wild to second base and both runners were safe. After Berger fanned, Randy Moore singled to right, scoring B. Jordan. On Whitney's grounder to Stripp Moore was forced at second but Lee scored when Cuccinello's relay to the plate was wild.

St. Louis, Mo., June 10.—(AP)—A home run by Jim Collins, his 13th of the season, today gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3 to 2 victory over Pittsburgh in a ball game marked by airtight fielding.

Heinie Meine, who started for Pittsburgh, left the mound in the sixth after injuring his hand in trying to handle a hot liner. He was replaced by French, who finished. Dizzy Dean went the full trip for the Cardinals, making his eighth victory of the season, against two defeats. Score:

Cubs Win, 7-4; Cuyler's Hits Aid Warneke

after which English doubled to right. Klein fouled off so many that Derringer finally tired of pitching to him and slipped him a pass. Babe Herman banged one to deep right center, but Hafey dashed over to the fence and grabbed it. Cuyler contributed a two base drive, aided by Pool's apparent unwillingness to back into the right field screen. English and Klein registered on the hit. Then Cuyler scored the third and last run of the inning on a triple planted in front of the center field fence by Hartnett.

Klein Gets a Hit.

The Cubs resumed action in the third, but their fun was restricted to one run. English started with a single to center. Klein did the same thing for his first hit in three days. It put English on third. Babe Herman smacked another long fly to center and English scored. The inning ended with Cuyler striking out and Hartnett grounding into a force play.

Hafey inserted another phoney hit into the proceedings in the fifth and a run resulted, cutting the Cubs' lead to two runs. Derringer doubled to left center with one out. Piet walked and was forced by Koenig. Hafey lifted a tall fly close to the foul line in short right and Babe Herman, despite a noble piece of galloping, couldn't get under the ball. It fell for a double. Derringer scoring and Koenig halting at third. Warneke avoided additional annoyance by fanning Bottomley for the second time.

Four Cubs experienced the pleasure of becoming base runners in the home fifth, but only one of them scored. Klein led off with a two bagger to right and Babe Herman walked. Cuyler banged a single into center to score Klein. Hartnett then fanned, Jurges popped out, Grimm walked to fill the bases, and Warneke subsided on strikes.

The happenings in the sixth gave the Cubs something new to think about. Two-thirds of their three run lead was torn down. The first incident was Jurges' error on Pool's grounder with none out. Next came a pass to Comorosky. Slade rolled to English for a double play, but right after that Lombardi thumped his homer over the left field wall for two runs. This made the score 5 to 4.

Pool Stars in Outfield Comedy.

Thanks to Pool, whose outfielding would go well in a tumbling act, the Cubs were able to add one run to their lead in the seventh. Cuyler singled to right with one out. Hartnett hit to right and it appeared to be something on the order of a leisurely fly. Pool didn't have much trouble letting it go for a hit. Cuyler stole third and was trapped on Jurges' tap to Piet, but managed to wriggle back to the base. This filled the bases. Grimm's fly scored Cuyler.

Only one hit was required to fetch the Cubs their final run in the eighth. Billy Herman opened with a single off Slade's glove. English bunted and Derringer tried to nip W. Herman at second, but the throw was late. Billy scooted to third on Klein's fly and scored on a wild pitch.

Then Warneke proceeded to put on his shaky finish. Slade singled for a starter and Derringer did the same with one out. Adams was trotted forth to bat for Piet and was held to a single by English's great stop behind third. This filled the bases, but the show ended suddenly when Billy Herman scooped up Koenig's speedy grounder for a double play.

LONDON, June 10.—Hostile receptions were the outcome of Fascist attempts to organize a series of open air meetings in London today. Enraged by the brutality of Black Shirts in dealing with hecklers at a meeting at Olympic hall Thursday, Londoners refused to give the Fascists a hearing, and broke up a half dozen gatherings of followers of Sir Oswald Mosley in parks and on street corners.

The most serious disturbance occurred at Notting Dale, west of London. Four persons, three of whom were Fascists, were arrested when police were called to disperse a crowd heckling a Black Shirt speaker. Fascists, who attempted to meet at Regents' park, were surrounded by a hostile crowd. Park attendants rushed to protect the Black Shirts and escorted them to a nearby police station, where they were sheltered until the crowd dispersed. A similar incident occurred at Finsbury park. Police, fearing a serious disturbance, ordered the Black Shirts to leave.

The police were called to scatter an ugly tempered crowd at a street corner meeting at Tottenham tonight. The crowd pushed Fascist speakers off the platform and crushed them against railings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 10.—A noted Frenchman, who for more than three centuries was unable to get settled in a final resting place, at last was given what is planned as his final burial today. He was Pierre de Ronsard, one of the greatest poets of the French renaissance, who died in 1585 and was buried in the Abbey Saint Pierre de Cosme.

Ronsard's body was first moved in 1730 when alterations were made on the abbey. Then, during the French revolution, the abbey was raided by liberals who objected to the famous lyricist's heroic poem, "Franciade," because it glorified the monarchy. The tomb thought to be his was desecrated and bones were scattered, but owing to the earlier alterations, the raiders got the wrong tomb. Nevertheless, in the confusion later, Ronsard's grave was somehow lost.

About a year ago, an unmarked slab, discovered during excavations, was found to be his, and the remains were again moved. Today, in the reburial ceremony, Ronsard's remains were returned to the abbey and placed under a solid and well marked monument.

Mr. Harris is now in Paris, France, where he has just completed the American embassy building and was notified of his mother's death by his sister, Mrs. Eleanor Harris Burgess, over trans-Atlantic telephone. He will be unable to return in time for the funeral.

Mrs. Harris was born at Ironton, O., and came to Chicago 35 years ago. She was active in Welsh society affairs and was a member of the Kymry society and the Welsh Women's club. Surviving are her son and daughter, the latter a member of the faculties of the Chicago Musical college, the Francis Parker school and the Faulkner School for Girls.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Kenwood Evangelical church. The body will be kept at Oak Woods cemetery until Mr. Harris returns to America, at which time it will be buried at Ironton.

SHOOT GUARD; FORCE THREE TO WATCH THEFT

Mr. and Mrs. Mont B. Calcutt, 540 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, and Thomas Sullivan, president of the Music Masters Radio corporation, 2508 South Michigan avenue, who had come to the company office to get their automobiles, were menaced with a pistol by the robbers and forced to watch while the truck was loaded. The bandits took $60 from Sullivan and $5 from the Calcutts, and one of them then drove away in Sullivan's automobile, while the other drove the truck. The automobile was later found at 29th street and Calumet avenue.

Lamb was taken to the Mercy hospital. The stolen merchandise, consisting of cigars, cigarets, and tobacco, was valued at $3,000.

LAWYERS DRAFT PLAN TO REFUND PHONE MILLIONS

Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight, appointed by Federal Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks, and James H. Wilkerson to prepare a plan for the refunding of nearly $30,000,000 to certain classes of telephone subscribers, announced yesterday the completion of the plan which they will submit to the three judges today.

The payments in cash to the public are expected to begin soon after the approval of the plan by the court. The telephone company has rented space in the Western Electric plant at Hawthorne to check bills on which refunds are to be made.

The refund was ordered by the three judges in conformity with a decision of the United States Supreme court that the company had collected excessive amounts since Oct. 1, 1923. Mayor Kelly said that after the approval of the plan of Goldstein and Haight, who acted as special counsel for the city of Chicago in behalf of the subscribers, he will set up an office in the city hall to aid citizens who have refunds due them.

Redmond was killed in the Hi-Step inn, 644 East 113th street, while guarding a currency exchange in the rear of the inn. Mrs. Dorothy Redmond, the widow, hides her grief when visiting Patricia and makes excuses for the absence of the child's father.

'FREE HEELING' SHOES FEATURE FALL EXHIBIT

An extensive collection of standard and novelty footwear was on exhibit yesterday at the Shoe Manufacturers' fall opening show at the Hotel Sherman. One of the items is a pair of shoes, size 24½, specially built for Louis Vitalles, 19 years old, of San Francisco, and is believed to be the largest pair ever manufactured for actual use. Another novelty is a "free heeling" shoe, containing a ventilation device which pumps air into the shoe through an inbuilt bellows. Officials of the show are sending a box containing five identical pairs of white shoes, size 0, to the Dionne quintuplets at Callander, Ontario. Each shoe will be marked with one of the babies' names.

NEW INCENTIVE NEEDED TO BUOY WHEAT PRICES

Reports Remove 2 Prime Factors.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Breaking of the drouth in the spring wheat belt and issuance of the American and Canadian government crop reports showing the lowest condition on record for this season of the year have eliminated two important factors from the market, temporarily at least. New incentives are now necessary if materially higher prices are to prevail.

Analysts believe the long anticipated downturn in the tremendous wheat carryover from previous years, built up by government interference with supply and demand, is now at hand. The total carryover for the 1933-'34 season was recently estimated by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome at around 900,000,000 bushels.

Sharp Losses Sustained.

Reports from Europe, taken in connection with those from North America, suggest the crop in the northern hemisphere exclusive of Russia will fall somewhere between 200,000,000 and 400,000,000 bushels below the harvest of 1933. All that is definitly known at present is that the United States, the Danube river basin, and Russia have as the result of sensational crop losses been practically eliminated as exporters during the 1934-'35 season. This leaves Canada, Argentina and Australia to supply the needs of importing countries. The Danube and Russia exported 45,000,000 bushels during 1933-'34 and the United States possibly 25,000,000 bushels.

With the possible exception of Spain, the wheat and rye crop of leading European countries promises to fall short of last year, especially in France and Germany, both of which had been reported as exporters at times during the season now drawing to a close. Owing to drastic government regulations and large carryovers from the old crop neither country may figure to any great extent as importers during 1934-'35.

Expect Larger World's Shipments.

Despite drastic curtailment in the northern hemisphere wheat crop this year there appears to be little or no prospect of a shortage in supplies unless both Argentina and Australia have small harvests. Drouth still continues in Australia and the acreage in that country has been reduced between 10 and 25 per cent, according to official and private reports.

Any improvement in the spring wheat crop in the United States during the first 10 days of the current month is regarded by local statisticians as having been largely offset by further deterioration in the winter wheat area. Harvesting in the latter is from one to three weeks ahead of normal, and the heaviest pressure of hedging sales on the futures market in consequence may come much earlier than usual.

Wheat futures had a range of 6⅛ cents last week, with the close Saturday at net gains of ¼ to ½ cent. July was 98⅛ to 98⅝ cents, September 99⅜ to 99⅝ cents and December $1.01¼. Range of prices follows:

Corn Big Economic Factor.

Corn in addition to being one of the largest grain crops of the country has suddenly become one of the major factors in the economic life of the countryfl Owing to the certainty that small yields of small grain will be secured this season, it is believed more attention will be paid to corn than for a number of years, both by the speculative as well as the business world.

Weather conditions during July and August will largely determine the outcome of the corn crop, but the menace of damage from chinch bugs and grasshoppers has not been materially changed by recent rains, and the lack of subsoil reserve over the entire belt must also be considered, according to trade leaders.

Corn closed 1 to 1¼ cents lower Saturday compared with the previous week, with July at 54¾ to 54⅞ cents, September at 56¾ to 56⅞ cents and December at 58¼ to 58⅜ cents. Range of prices follows:

Oats Crop Short.

Rains came too late to result in any material improvement to the oats crop, according to leading Chicago experts, and a much below normal yield is confidently predicted. It is anticipated the government will sooner or later start to accumulate stocks of oats to be used for seeding the 1933 crop in the areas ruined by the prolonged drouth and intense heat.

Oats prices at the close on Saturday were the same as the previous week, with July at 43½ cents, September at 43⅛ to 43⅝ cents and December at 44⅞ to 45 cents. Range of prices follows:

Urges Change in U. S. Trade Unit's Setup

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A suggestion that the foreign division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce be made a department of an export and import banking system as the most practical way of using it to help American manufacturers and exporters was made yesterday by S. S. Brill, foreign trade authority, in a report to the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Brill, who has been making a study of the federal trade department for the credit men, says that under the economy régime instituted the interests of the larger manufacturers and exporters do not suffer, while the efforts of the smaller manufacturers, who do 65 per cent of the business abroad, are seriously handicapped.

Small Man Needs Help.

"If we can spend millions of dollars for processing taxes, relief, housing, etc., to help the American people, why not spend a few hundred thousand dollars more to help the small manufacturers, handicapped in many instances, to secure foreign trade and to build up or expand their business in foreign markets, thereby creating more work and decreasing unemployment?" Mr. Brill asks.

In giving his reasons for making the foreign division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce a part of the export and import banking system Mr. Brill says that in such a setup it would not have to encounter limitations of the state and commerce departments. Further, utilization of the services of the employés of the department of commerce to act as agents of the banks would be an asset to the banks' program, "provided, of course, they select capable and experienced men for that purpose and provided the banks will function in the same manner as the commercial banks of other industrial countries."

Outlines Suggestion.

Mr. Brill makes the following recommendation for the consideration of officials at Washington in their reorganization of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce on a more economical basis.

Official matters such as political conditions, tariffs, quotas, and exchange restrictions should be reported by the consular staf and submitted to the department of commerce through the department of state.

Economic matters, such as business conditions, merchandise of a competitive nature imported from other countries, markets for American manufacturers or agricultural products, business opportunities pertaining to industry, agricultural, or merchandising information should be reported by the department of commerce staf to the department of state.

Reinstate Services.

There should be reinstated those services formerly rendered by the bureau which have proved to be beneficial to our exporters. There should be reinstated the direct service between the commerce department with its branch offices at home and abroad which are now handled through the intermediary of the state department.

There should be discontinued certain offices abroad and at home where the services could be handled by the consulate with the assistance of a man experienced in foreign trade or at home by a foreign trade secretary attached to the local chamber of commerce.

Finally Mr. Brill said that there should be attached one or two men to the Washington staf with a practical experience in foreign trade. Above all, he added, politics should be eliminated in the appointment of employés of the department.

GENERAL MOTORS SALES ABROAD IN SHARP GAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 10.—Sales abroad by the General Motors corporation in May amounted to 23,994 units, the largest number for any month since July, 1929. They were 112 per cent larger than in May, 1933, and 223 per cent more than in May, 1932.

Although sales from the corporation's English and German manufacturing subsidiaries rose substantially, the largest increase was in foreign sales from factories in the United States. These increased 168 per cent compared with May, 1933, and 273 per cent compared with the same month of 1932.

For the first five months of this year overseas sales of the corporation have amounted to 83,811 units, an increase of 93 per cent compared with the same period of last year.

Extension Is Announced for Richfield Oil Plan

The reorganization committee of the Richfield Oil company has announced an extension of the period of time until June 23 within which deposits of bonds and claims may be made under the reorganization plan based on the offer of the Standard Oil Company of California. The federal court has fixed today, June 11, as the date on which consideration will be given to a petition by the committee to fix the date for sale of the Richfield and Pan-American Petroleum company properties.

Soviets Reported to Have Seeded 228,328,000 Acres

MOSCOW, June 10.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's crop sowing plan for this year was 98.2 per cent complete on June 5, it is revealed by records which became available today. On that date 228,328,000 acres had been seeded. It is the largest area ever cultivated by the soviet union. Last year 209,700,000 acres were sown on collective farms, the planting exceeding quotas by 1.8 per cent. Most of the acreage is devoted to wheatfi barley, and sugar beets.

STEEL OUTPUT UP TWO POINTS TO 62 PER CENT

Chicago Rate 5 Pts. Up; Goes to 70 Pct.

Steel operations rose two points to 62 per cent last week, according to the magazine Steel. The Chicago rate increased five points to 70 per cent while Pittsburgh went up four points to 54.

The general rise is attributed to such time factors as the eagerness of consumers to obtain materials before July 1, when iron and steel prices move to a higher level, and the approaching date for a contest over unionizing the mills. Steelmakers believe prospects for higher prices rather than strike threats were more influential in causing the rise.

Auto Demand Boosts Rate.

Releases from automobile manufacturers were largely responsible for sending the sheet mill operations up two points to 70 per cent. There were 15,000 more cars manufactured last week than during the preceding week. There is still some resistance met by the manufacturers due to price advances made earlier in the year and to effects of overproduction.

After the strike in the automobile industry a wave of confidence swept over the country and resulted in releasing considerable buying power, the journal says. It is believed that another barrier to recovery will be removed if the threatened strike in the steel industry is dissipated, which would result in revived purchasing encouraged by reductions in automobile prices announced last week.

Drouth Affects Orders.

The drouth had its affects upon the steel industry as shown in declining orders from agricultural implement manufacturers and from canmakers. Prospects of a smaller vegetable and fruit pack this year have sent tin plate mill operations down ten points to 70 per cent.

Railroads are placing orders for miscellaneous steel requirements for the third quarter. Pennsylvania railroad has ordered 500 additional automobile loading devices. Missouri Pacific has ordered 300. Wheeling and Lake Erie is receiving bids for the purchase of four locomotives.

Awards of structural shapes increased last week to 15,000 tons, but did not approach the weekly average for the year. Prospective government contracts will include the purchase of 4,000 tons of structural shapes by the Tennessee Valley authority for transmission towers, 24 vessels for the navy department, calling for some 50,000 tons of steel. Six thousand tons of concrete reinforcing bars were used in the dam at Bonneville, Ore.

May Production Up.

Steel ingot production during May showed an increase of 7.1 per cent over April with an average daily output of 125,807 gross tons. The output for the first five months at 13,338,035 tons is an increase of 109 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. Iron and steel exports in April were 22 per cent lower than the previous month, but 121.4 per cent above April of last year.

Steel's iron and steel price composite remains at $34.77, while the finished steel composite is still $54.80. There is more stability in scrap, showing a decline of 8 cents to $10.25.

AURORA BANK WILL RESUME BUSINESS TODAY

The newly reorganized Aurora National bank with a paid up capital stock of $200,000 and deposits of approximately $75,000 will be open for business today. The bank was closed at the time of President Roosevelt's bank holiday in March, 1933. With the opening today the old bank will pay a dividend amounting to $415,127, of which depositors have already assigned $113,672 for the purchase of stock in the reorganized institution.

Ionia Bank to Reopen.

Ionia, Mich., June 10.—[Special.]—The reorganized Ionia County National bank will open for business Tuesday morning and release approximately $500,000 tied up with the closing of the bank a year ago. Two previous dates had been set and twice held up by the controler of the currency, holder of the majority of preferred stock of the new bank.

This May Aid Brain Trust, Housewives

Business Week reports the invention of a machine at the University of Pennsylvania which will solve various related mathematical equations, memorize them, solve other variables and then reach back in its "memory" for a complete answer, tabulated on paper.

It weighs three tons, has 75,000 parts and is said to have solved a problem in fifteen minutes which took five army engineers four months to complete. It is reported to be extremely handy at home in balancing housewives' check books.

A "federal policeman," with a bright, shiny badge and an ugly night stick, is now patroling the financial district. At least that is what supporters of the stock exchange control bill recently termed a provision of that act. It gives broad investigating power to the new commission which will regulate the exchange and administer the securities act of 1933. Supporters hope it will deter bad practices.

There may be two policemen, as the senate banking committee has voted to continue its authority to investigate exchanges and banks.

A man in the trade yesterday told of a farmer who was in trouble with the AAA for breaking open the back end of his sealed corn crib without touching the seal, and feeding the grain to his starving cattle. He at first made the excuse that a windstorm had overturned the crib, and that his cattle had consumed the grain before he discovered it. "I doubt if a jury in this country would convict a man for such an act," the trader declared.

Small city butchers see in the bill providing for further tax exemption on hogs slaughtered by farmers for sale on the farm, which passed in the house recently as a relief measure, a direct encouragement for the pork bootlegger. The bill gives the farmer tax exemption on 2,000 pounds live weight of hogs butchered for sale on farms, instead of the 300 pounds at present. Much bootlegging of pork was reported hidden behind this 300 pounds of tax exempt pork.

Will investors read lengthy prospectuses and, after reading, analyze them? Ask William M. Richards, assistant secretary of the H. O. Stone bondholders' protective committee.

The committee recently completed reorganization of four bond issues. Richards put in considerable time, painstakingly preparing eight page single spaced reports on each. Yesterday the holder of a Conleigh court apartments bond dropped in to committee headquarters.

"I'm too dumb to understand this," he said, exhibiting the report. "Will you please tell me what it's all about?"

"Certainly," said Mr. Richards. "In the first place, you are entitled to a 3 per cent cash payment. . . .

"That's all I wanted to know," said the bondholder.

There are two questions that plague bondholders' protective committees more than any other. They are, "How much shall I get on my bond?" and "When am I going to get some hard cash?"

On March 1 holders of certificates of deposit for Raymond hotel bonds were notified that on March 15 they could collect 2 per cent in cash by presenting their certificates for stamping. There are still more than 200 checks that have not been called for.

New York, June 10.—Sales of National Bellas Hess company totaled $828,675 in May, compared with $526,045 for the same month last year. For the first 5 months sales totaled $3,625,970, against $2,575,815 in the first 5 months of 1933.

EXPORT OF HAM AND BACON TO BRITAIN FALLS

Exports of hams and bacon from the United States to the British market during the current year will be more than 66 per cent below the average yearly exports during the last decade, according to Charles E. Herrick, Chicago, chairman of the committee of foreign relations and trade of the Institute of American Meat Packers.

The prediction is based upon the recent allocations made by the British government, under which all imports of hams and bacon are reduced to raise the price of hogs in the United Kingdom.

The quota system has broadened considerably the market for Canadian pork, according to Mr. Herrick. Canada last year produced less than one-fourteenth as much exportable pork as the United States, but under the quota it may send five times as much pork to the British market as will be received from the United States.

April Sugar Consumption Drops Sharply from 1933

Sugar consumption in the United States during April amounted to 413,773 long tons, raw sugar value, against 516,389 in the same month last year, it is estimated by B. W. Dyer & Co.* For the first four months of the year consumption is placed at 1,707,716 tons, against 1,790,032 in the corresponding period of 1933.

Armour Plan Success Is Now Predicted

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Reports indicate Armour & Co. will obtain sufficient proxies from stockholders to put into effect its proposed capital reorganization plan which will be formally voted on at a special meeting July 6.

If the plan succeeds, preferred stockholders stand a good chance of getting dividends again in the near future. They have been without dividends for more than three years.

Proxies Satisfactory.

It is stated that proxies are coming into the company's office at a "satisfactory rate." The plan requires the two-thirds approval of all three classes of present shareholders. Unlike the plan which was defeated last summer, the company does not face the necessity of buying out dissenting stockholders who do not wish to turn in their holdings for new securities.

It was this factor more than anything which caused the upset of the previous reorganization plan. Even if the necessary two-thirds approval had been obtained it would have been necessary to lay out large sums to settle with the dissenters.

The present plan includes an amendment to the company's charter which authorizes the issuance of stock senior to the present outstanding preferred shares. Thus the present preferred holders may keep their present stock without upsetting the plan. Their dividend claims, however, will be junior to the new preferred stock.

Brokers Hold Two-thirds.

About two-thirds of the outstanding Armour stocks are in the hands of brokers. No effort has yet been made to bring in this stock, but it is believed that the company will try to get brokers to notify customers to vote their stock one way or another.

The large number of stockholders widely scattered throughout the country makes it a job of the first magnitude to round up support for the plan, but chances of successful consumation appear to be good.

U. S. TRADE GROUP BLOCKS SALE OF MINING STOCK

New York, June 10.—(AP)—A permanent injunction restraining the firm of C. Morrison Smith & Co. from offering for sale stock of the Golden Quebec Mines, Ltd., has been signed by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, presiding over the Southern District court of New York.

The order, sought by the federal trade commission, which claimed the defendants had violated section 17-A of the securities act of 1933, was said to be the first action successfully prosecuted in the federal courts by the federal commission under the new securities act.

INFLATION TALK IS HEARD AGAIN IN WALL STREET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 10.—Relieved at last of some of the worst of its long hanging worries, the Wall street speculative fraternity is dallying once more with thoughts of monetary inflation.

A report went the rounds of the boardrooms last week that the President is preparing to further devalue the dollar under the blanket powers vested in him by congress last year. Professional market observers are finding fresh occasion to remind their followings of the chief executive's "ultimate objective" of a 75 to 25 per cent ratio of gold to silver in our money basis, as stated in his silver message of last month and to speculate on the probability of a "broad silver buying policy" with the passage of the pending bill in behalf of that metal.

Outlays of Easy Money.

The government's continued outlays of "easy money" was instanced and the $525,000,000 drouth relief project and the increasing improbabilities they carry against ever balancing the budget without radical inflationary measures are figuring more and more strongly in the market comment of the day.

Brokers report a growing conviction on all hands that inflation is on the way and in certain circles the belief is springing up that it is coming much sooner than the rank and file anticipate. This mass opinion more than anything else was responsible, it is said, for the recovery movement which got under way last week, an upturn of which carried the averages up nearly six points on the week and which was heralded in some quarters as the beginning of a possible broad and sustained advance.

A Convincing Advance.

Whatever its future, the advance was the most convincing the market has seen in many months. The list was higher every day of the week except Thursday, when averages sagged fractionally. The rally, however, did not get really under way until Friday, when the index on fifty representative issues shot up more than 3 points. Further fractional progress was made in yesterday's abbreviated session in spite of fairly heavy realizing sales, boosting the average to $6.09, as compared with its low for the year of 79.59, recorded a week ago Saturday.

BUSINESS ACTIVE DESPITE DROUTH, STRIKE THREATS

Retail Trade and Industry Show Expansion.

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Despite the threat of a tieup in the steel industry, and evidence of serious impairment of public purchasing power in the drouth areas, industry and trade continued to register encouraging vitality during the last week.

Outside of the drouth seared states, retail trade quickened moderately, particularly in summer goods, as shoppers were brought out by warm weather. The steel industry again expanded output, and automobile output regained about two-thirds of the loss of Memorial day week.

Wholesale distribution held about steady, after the gains of the last fortnight. Textile manufacturing remained quiet, although the woolen industry is showing signs of life in preparation for the autumn trade in heavier fabrics.

Expect More U. S. Spending.

With a $500,000,000 appropriation requested for drouth relief, attention was again turned to government spending as a stimulus to business. Treasury expenditures have recently been declining; in fact, the daily statements indicate a drop from $984,000,000 in April to $563,000,000 in May.

In view of the fact that automobile and general merchandise sales have experienced their widest gains in middle western and southern agricultural states, the seriousness of the drouth in the middle west has given pause to business analysts, but the plans of extensive and prompt relief, together with substantial rains, too late in many areas but at least of some benefit, has somewhat brightened the outlook.

New NRA Policy Confusing.

Unsettling to business was the announcement that the NRA had abandoned the policy of minimum price fixing. This caused considerable confusion, until Gen. Johnson explained that none of the existing codes with minimum price provisions would be changed without negotiation with the code authorities.

The immediate implications of the changed policy toward pricing were rather obscure, but in some business and financial quarters it was suggested that a more flexible price structure should stimulate sales and clear away stocks in preparation for the autumn season.

The weekly freight carloadings report, which covered the Memorial day week, showed a drop of 7.4 per cent from the preceding week, but the total was 12.8 per cent above the corresponding week of 1933. According to Moody's index, the decline was less than seasonal.

Power Output Lower.

Cram estimated the past week's automobile output at 69,107 units, a gain of 14,922 over the preceding holiday week, in which there had been a drop of 22,096. The automobile industry is entering its summer season with a determination to maintain volumes. A few lines have reduced prices and others are planning model changes.

ARGENTINA SEEN AS DISREGARDING WHEAT ACCORD

LONDON, June 10.—(AP)—Anxiety of other big wheat exporters over the attitude of the Argentine to the London wheat pact turned into open alarm today as evidence accumulated that Argentina, to all intents and purposes, has thrown the pact overboard. Under the agreement signed in August last year Argentina, with Canada, Australia, and the United States, agreed to keep wheat exports in the crop year ending July 31 next to a definite limit. Argentina's limit was 110,000,000 bushels.

Argentina now has exceeded this limit by at least 4,000,000 bushels, experts claim. Knowing some weeks ago that Argentina would very likely exceed her quota, representatives of the other principal exporters last month offered her a "loan" of about 40,000,000 bushels from their own export quotas. The Buenos Aires government has not replied to this.

Consequently there was talk of a "wheat war" tonight, with Argentina's competitors, including Canada, dumping stocks on the market. The Australians are participarly bitter over the Argentine marketing methods. Always strongly opposed to suggestions of production restriction or restriction of exports, the Australians entered into the agreement with the utmost reluctance.

N. Y. CURB CLOSES ON RALLY; TRADE VOLUME EXPANDS

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Marking the turn of the recent lower price drift, the curb market steadily gained a strength last week and closed on a rally that put quotations sharply above low levels of the previous week. The recent dull spell was also broken late in the week after sales had recorded a new record low turnover on Monday, when only 98,000 shares changed hands, the smallest volume for a full trading day since March 30, 1933, when 70,000 shares were traded.

In a broad advance Friday, transfers expanded to approximately 248,000 shares. Aluminum soared 7½ points during the session while other sharp advances were recorded by Lerner Stores, General Tire & Rubber, Hiram Walker and Gulf Oil.

Utilities were fairly firm while metals improved. Aside from the steady strength shown by Gulf Oil, South Pennsylvania and International Petroleum registered sizable gains. Standard Oil of Indiana was narrow. American Gas and Electric, Electric Bond & Share, Lake Shore, Newmont and Pittsburgh Plate Glass displayed rallying tendencies. Swift International yielded to active selling on Thursday.

TEXAS GASOLINE PRICES LOW.

The gasoline trade hears that the price structure in the Midcontinent is showing signs of weakness as a result of a heavy increase in East Texas offerings at prices below the previously posted levels.

DOMESTIC BONDS GAIN DESPITE STRIKE THREATS

Prime Investment Issues Firm During Week.

New York, June 10.—(AP)—Domestic bonds of all categories moved quietly forward during the last week, despite threats of serious labor troubles and some economic disturbances.

The upward push, while never very brisk, was encouraging to observers who had been emphasizing the plethora of idle funds in the country seeking profitable work and who had envisaged wider participation in the loans market.

Prime investment issues displayed a strong undertone throughout, and, while the majority of gains in these groups was in small fractions, a number of the highest grade loans edged into new high territory for the year or longer.

Secondary Liens Irregular.

Secondary liens were irregular at times, but they developed flurries of strength, and on Friday were rather buoyant coincident with a sharp rally in stocks. The signing of the new bankruptcy law by the President, which will permit corporations to reorganize upon the approval of a majority of security holders and creditors, may have aided the recovery in the lower priced divisions.

The heavy oversubscription of the treasury's new long term bond and note issues was a bright spot in the market picture, although the heavy demand for the government's loans was not at all surprising to banking circles. Some $7,000,000,000 was subscribed for the $500,000,000 of five year 2¼ per cent notes and $300,000,000 of 12-14 year 3 per cent bonds.

No Long Term Financing.

While Secretary Morgenthau indicated that, unless some unforeseen circumstance arises, there will be no more long term financing until fall, some financial circles were of the opinion that in September the government may announce a huge conversion loan for the retirement of a large portion of its short term debt. At least an exchange offer for the more than $1,000,000,000 of called Liberty fourth 4¼s is believed certain.

U. S. government securities were steady to firm and moderately active. Several of the treasury issues advanced to new 1933 peaks.

Foreign obligations were spotty all week. Under the influence of rumors that the reich would devaluate the mark and demand a further reduction in interest rates on its external debts, both the Young and Dawes loans dropped to new low levels for the year and other German bonds were heavy.

Zenith Radio Reports Net of $50,398; Loss in 1932

Profits of the Zenith Radio corporation for the year ended April 30 amounted to $50,398, as compared with a loss during the previous year, according to the annual report. The balance sheet showed working capital of $952,603. Improvement was attributed to reduced expenses, better wholesale outlets, and sales of motor car radios. The company has entered into an agreement with the Canadian Marconi company whereby that concern will market Zenith radios in Canada on a royalty basis.

How to Get U. S. Loans?

Riverside, Ill., June 9.—If you have occasion to obtain information from the Home Owners' Loan corporation that might be of help to me, I would appreciate your passing it on.

I filed an application on Aug. 2, 1933, and was given a low number and not much else. A loop bank has the first mortgage and of course wants all that is in sight and some that is not in sight.

Do you think it would help to turn Democratic? J. A. W.

SILVER PROGRAM BLOW TO CHINA, ECONOMIST SAYS

Sees Deflation in Wake of Price Advance.

China will suffer a direct blow to its recovery through passage of the silver bill in the United States, according to Sir Arthur Salter, British economist.

The opinion is contained in a document to the Chinese government, issued by the Economic Forum, Inc., of New York. It was written by Salter after he had spent several months in China as advisor to its national economic council.

Economists who argue China will be aided by a raise in silver prices are deluded, he says. The slight gain from this source would be overwhelmingly offset by "blocking her exports and spreading deflation." He does not believe China's primitive mechanism of trade could withstand such deflation without a catastrophe.

Troubles Come Late.

As proof of his contention he cites the fact that China's real economic hardships date two years after the start of world depression, as a result of the rising silver price level which occurred when other nations began to abandon the gold standard.

"During the first two years of the world depression China was less affected by it than any other great country . . . because, unlike the rest of the world, her currency was silver, not gold. Silver was depreciated in terms of gold as much as gold appreciated in terms of commodities.

The consequences was that China's internal prices either remained stable, in terms of her own currency or showed some tendency to increase, while remaining, nevertheless, on a favorable competitive basis in terms of gold for external trade. The reduction of external purchasing power caused some falling off in China's exports, but to a less extent than those of most other countries.

Internal Trade Expanded.

Internal trade was not depressed, but tended to expand and thus offset the relatively slight loss on exports. There can be no doubt regarding the prosperity the net result of the steady depreciation of silver, in spite of the arguments of the silver group to the contrary, was of great advantage to China."

A rise in the price of silver would injure not only China but the silver producers who favor price increases, Salter says, for China eventually would be forced off the silver standard if the price goes up.

Must Warn America.

"The principal factor now" he continues, "is America's silver policy. It is important that China, whose interest in the white metal is greater than any other nation's, should make her position clear to the present administration."

Sir Arthur also assails the idea that China might offset the evils of a silver price rise by such devices as suspension of export duties, embargo on luxuries, creation of an equalization fund or the substitution of paper currency. Other portions of the book deal with the disastrous economic effect of China's military struggle with Japan and her own communists.

NATIONAL LABOR BOARD SETTLES 80 PCT. OF CASES

Washington, D. C., June 10.—(AP)—Settlement of 80 per cent of the cases brought before the national labor board up to June 1 was announced today by Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], board chairman. Wagner said 2,000,000 or more workers were affected by the total of 3,755 cases, of which 3,061, affecting 1,750,000 workers, were settled.

"Approximately two-thirds of these settlements," he said, "were agreements, and agreements spell sound settlements."

Wagner added the board had mediated 2,323 strikes, involving 870,000 workers.

"In addition," he said, "497 strikes were averted. Thus, the boards (including 19 regional boards) in strike situations alone returned to work or kept at work 1,270,000 workers directly involved, or about 1,500,000, including workers directly affected.

"Of the 3,755 cases, the primary cause of complaint in 2,655 cases was alleged violation of section 7A, the collective bargaining provision of the recovery law."

BANKERS LEAVE FOR CONVENTION AT WASHINGTON

A party of 90 bankers from Chicago and the northwest left here yesterday on the Capitol limited of the Baltimore and Ohio to attend the annual convention of the American Institute of Banking at Washington. Among those from Chicago were Harry G. Duntemann, president of the Chicago chapter of the institute; R. H. Brunkhorst, controler of the Harris Trust and Savings bank; E. W. Converse and Thomas J. Nugent, vice presidents of the First National bank; Charles J. Klink, cashier of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and David M. Sweet and M. A. Georgen, assistant vice presidents of the City National Bank and Trust company.

GERMANY LIMITS SUMS THAT MAY BE PAID ABROAD

BERLIN, June 10.—(AP)—Commercial payments abroad are limited strictly to 50 marks monthly per person in an order made public by the official exchange office of the reichsbank. A communique issued by the division office June 8 explained that many business firms have incurred liabilities in excess of this 50 mark limit which was originally imposed on April 17.

Questioned concerning reports from abroad that the reichsbank had decreed a two weeks' suspension of commercial debt payments, a spokesman said that nothing beyond the foregoing had been decreed.

NATION'S BANKS AGAIN SEND IDLE CASH TO GOTHAM

New York Regains Place as Money Storehouse.

New York, June 10.—(AP)—New York has recovered its position, partly lost a year ago, as the storehouse for the idle banking funds of the nation.

For many years the large New York commercial banks have acted as depositories for the unemployed resources of banks throughout the country. Their favorable location in respect to the securities and money has enabled them to invest these funds profitably and, until a year ago, pay interest to the correspondent banks.

The banking act of 1933, however, prohibited the payment of interest on demand deposits, including interbank deposits. This resulted in the withdrawal of large amounts of idle banking funds back to their sources.

The banking crisis early in 1933 brought about a shrinkage in the "due to banks" account of reporting New York City banks from $1,655,000,000 on Feb. 1 to $690,000,000 on March 8. By June 14, just before the banking act was enacted into law, the total had recovered to $1,474,000,000. But by December, it fell to $1,092,000,000.

Since Christmas, however, funds have moved steadily from the interior to New York. The increase in deposits held for correspondent institutions has amounted to $550,000,000, bringing the total to $1,642,000,000. This is the largest in recent years, except for February, 1933, when funds were moving here in search of safety.

The movement has accompanied the huge expansion in reserve balances which have accumulated in the hands of interior banks since the year end. Regardless of the absence of profit, out-of-town banks find it convenient to have balances in New York to meet payments as they come along and to take quick advantage of possible investment opportunities.

MEN

THERE IS ALWAYS AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS THAT DOES NOT NEED TO ASK WHAT THE MARKET IS TODAY OR THE STATE OF GENERAL INDUSTRY!

Under all conditions, in all times, there are some services and products in growing demand, and the unquestioned superiority of our invention is the basis of this offer of free instruction and immediate employment to men living on the West Side or in Western Suburbs.

From the first idea back of this remarkable specialty, and which was originally developed in Europe, where there are five large factories supplying these electric units, that far exceed the sale of all others, and with an aggregation of corporations of unlimited resources, to insure the abundant development of this work, this business has grown unbrokenly! A World leadership has been established, and it is freely predicted that our American factory will outstrip all others. World-wide, this company operates 8 plants as well as S. American assembling works.

The founder did the first selling and the first training. Ever since then, the most successful salesmen have done training of new men, who receive the same practical kind of help, plus the advantage of intensive merchandising research. With direct examples of successful methods to guide you, it does not take long to master the tasks required, but genuine character must be applied. This work calls for manhood expressed in its best terms, for the assumption of responsibility and intelligent, sustained effort. It pays far beyond the ordinary average of success!

We can point to almost countless men nationally who are making from $3,000 to as high as $12,000 a year, depending only upon their adaptability and the time they have been in this permanent, independent business that requires no investment on their part. Men who begin, must be satisfied for a time with smaller incomes. Gradually, as they learn the business, their comm. checks increase. They are always certain of their pay. They are encouraged and helped to make more and more money.

In the past four days, T. L. made $162. He has been in this work for 5 years. He had to learn how to succeed, but you will be taught by men with far more experience than those who first taught Mr. L. Yesterday, T. T. made $48, and his first week in this business he made $80 or better. These are young men, under 30. Contrasting with what young men can do here is what older men accomplish: Y. J. C., 54 years old, just had a week of $300 and another of $90. Last half-week he made $60. J. D., who is 57, and who has been with us about 15 months, had a high week of $175. In the past 3 days he has made $61.50. R. S., a man in his thirties, made $45.75 yesterday. He has been with this company just a few months.

Our successful men come from every trade, business and profession. Some men make big money right from the start, but all who go into this work sincerely and follow out our instructions, can succeed. Past experience is less important than character and adaptability. We prefer married men, not under 26 years old. They must be neat, of good character and real workers! There will not be any layoffs. This is not a seasonal business!

A limited number will be selected at this time. But the first step must be an interview, so we can determine how we like you, while you decide if you wish this work. There must be accord and understanding from the outset. For personal interview apply Monday, June 11, from 11:00 to 3:00 p. m., Suite 329, at 9 S. Kedzie-av. Those accepted will be given initial training at once and put right to work!
